By CHARLES BERMPHILL
The last remaining member of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency has resigned and Ulster County's Liberal party has called upon Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Jacob K. Javits to investigate and resolve the entire urban renewal controversy. David C. Schechter submitted his resignation to Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan this morning "to become effective upon the termination of the services of the present Executive Director," Eric Hemphill.

Ulster's Liberals, in a letter sent to Senators Kennedy and Javits this week, requested, "Please help the residents of the City of Kingston by investigating and resolving this critical program that the involved individuals and groups have been unable to solve."

Yesterday, Attorney S. James Matthews tendered his resignation, along with Edmund S. Peppard and William T. Mahoney, both members of the agency. On Monday, Hemphill resigned followed by the Tuesday resignations of Chairman Frank A. Reis and Vincent G. Connelly.

Up to Mayor: Resnick
Meanwhile, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's Kingston District office issued the statement that "despite recent stories to the contrary, Congressman Resnick does not intend to influence the appointment of new members to the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency."

Viet Terrorism Mixed With Kidnap of 39

SAIGON (AP)—Communist guerrillas dotted South Vietnam with pre-election assaults and terror attacks today, shelling a fourth provincial capital in as many days and kidnapping 39 draft-age men in another village.

With Sunday's presidential election only three days off, officials warned that worse Red violence was expected. Americans off duty were warned to stay in their billets.

Lose Two More Planes
U. S. Command announced the loss of two more warplanes over North Vietnam, maintaining a recent loss rate of more than one plane a day.

The weekly casualty report reflected the current lull in ground fighting, with 125 Americans killed last week and 1,078 wounded. Both totals were up slightly from the previous week but were below the average of recent months.

Communist losses were 1,350, also below average, while the South Vietnamese had 101 killed and 367 wounded, well below the American figures and reflecting the increased role of U. S. troops in Vietnam.

The latest terrorist attacks were scattered through the Mekong Delta, the Saigon area and the central provinces. The guerrillas were generally lying low in the far north after spectacular attacks Tuesday in which two dozen hit-and-run strikes were made and 997 prisoners were freed from the provincial jail at Quang Ngai. Two American Army advisers and a U. S. government civilian employee were killed south of Quang Ngai when guerrillas caught two platoons of militiamen in a crossfire as they were trying to recapture some of the freed prisoners. A crewman of a U. S. rescue helicopter also was wounded, but the Viet Cong slipped away when Vietnamese army reinforcements arrived.

The fourth provincial capital hit this week was the normally sleepy town of Phan Thiet, on the coast about 95 miles east of Saigon. Mortar shells began to fall at 1:30 a. m., and when the 15-round barrage ended a small child was dead and 11 civilians were wounded. About the

204 Workers Affected

Cement Plant Near Hudson to Close

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.
Approximately 60 per cent of the 204 employees at Lone Star Cement Corporation's 56-year-old Hudson plant will be eligible for regular, early or vested pension rights, when the plant is shut down on Oct. 31.

Those not receiving immediate pensions will get severance benefits of a week's pay for each year of service, enough to extend a 10-year employee's pay through the end of the year and into 1968, according to Richard E. Newell, regional vice president of the corporation.

Will Seek Buyers
The decision to close the Columbia County plant was confirmed and the announcement authorized by Lone Star's Board of Directors at a meeting in New York City Wednesday, as part of an overall management program to combat declining earnings, Newell said. He was assigned to announce the shutdown to the employees at a mass meeting yesterday afternoon and later he met with newsmen and civic leaders.

Newell noted that potential buyers of the property between Greenport and Claverack will be sought, and an effort made to attract another job-creating industry. He cited both commercial and government sources of aid in this effort.

Commenting on the pensions for those eligible and severance benefits of a week's pay for each year of service, Newell said "this is one of the most liberal termination programs in any history." He also noted that unemployment compensation will be payable where needed at $55 a week for up to six months. Other forms of planned employee assistance include pay for unused vacation time, job-finding assistance and early release to take other jobs.

20 Other Plants
Lone Star, which has 15 other plants in the United States and five in South America, has maintained operations in Hudson since 1921, when the company bought and rebuilt the 10-year-old Knickerbocker plant. This was Lone Star's first venture outside of Texas. In 1960, the company had as many as 262 Hudson employees, compared with 204 today. Newell said that despite those layoffs, the total labor cost has stayed at a high level, "because of continued wage increases."

Probe of Farm Bureau To Cost Resnick $5,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., has spent at least $5,000 of his own money on his one-man investigation of the American Farm Bureau federation, aides said today.

The stenographic record alone of Resnick's current hearing is costing him $300 a day, they said. In addition to the Washington hearing, in its fourth day today, hearings were held earlier in Chicago and Omaha, Neb.

Resnick is chairman of a House Agriculture subcommittee, but the Agriculture Committee has disassociated itself from his inquiry. Under such circumstances, no committee funds may be used to pay for the costs of the hearing or to reimburse witnesses for their expenses. One witness, Mrs. Norma Williams of Ashland County, Ohio, said Wednesday more than 100 farmers chipped in to pay her way to Washington. Mrs. Williams, who operates a 77-acre farm, told Resnick that as far as she knew all of those who backed her trip are shareholders in the local Farm Bureau cooperative in Ashland County. But, she said, they endorse her criticism of the Farm Bureau's retail activities and her belief that the Farm Bureau is not the proper organization to take over marketing and bargaining for American farmers.

Resnick, founder and chairman of an electronic and plastics firm in Ellenville, N.Y., contends the tax-exempt Farm Bureau is not representative of the farmer but is a nationwide network of insurance firms and has financial interests in petroleum products, animal feed, fertilizers, chemicals and other commercial activities. Oren Lee Staley, head of the rival National Farmers Organization, told Resnick the bylaws of the NFO bar it from entering into business for profit.

"We believe," he said, "that is the only way we can represent the farmer's interest." The sole purpose of a farm organization should be to make a profit for the farmer, not to make a profit off the farmer, he said. Spokesmen for the National Farmers Union and the National Grange have also testified before Resnick on the finances of their organizations. The Farm Bureau declined his invitation to testify, Resnick said.

High-cost operation of the plant is the principal reason for closing the plant, along with depressed cement prices in the Northeast," Newell said. The decision to close also was based on a diminishing supply of stone and rising competition from foreign producers, Newell noted.

RFK Differs With Marine General

Says Plight of Cities Has First Priority

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy challenges the contention of Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., Marine Corps commandant, that Vietnam is more important than the plight of U. S. cities.

"That's a mistake," the New York Democrat said in an interview. "President Johnson has said we can fight the war and still act on our problems at home."

"Our first priority should be to our own people. We are on the brink of the most serious crisis since the Civil War."

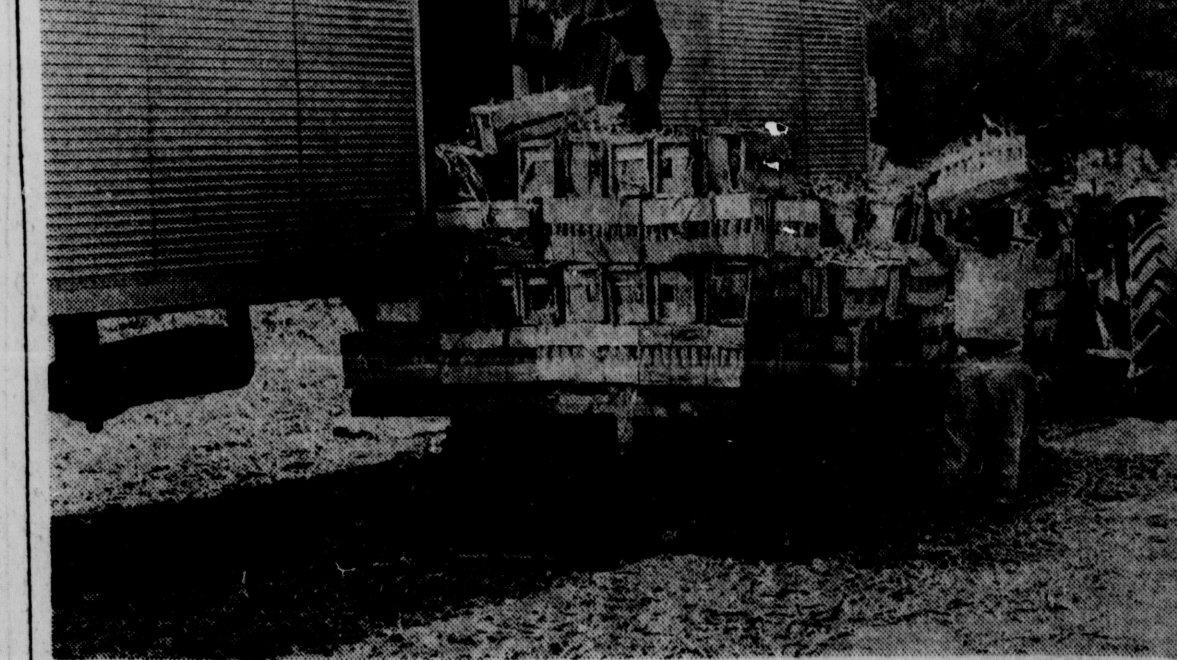

"It seems to me we are devoting all of the resources required to the war in Vietnam but we are not doing so in respect to our domestic problems. There is no question that we have not done what we should have done for the urban and rural poor."

Greene told the American Legion convention Wednesday in Boston that if the United States does not stop the Communists in their promotion of world revolution "then our domestic problems and our pocketbooks are going to become mighty important in the future."

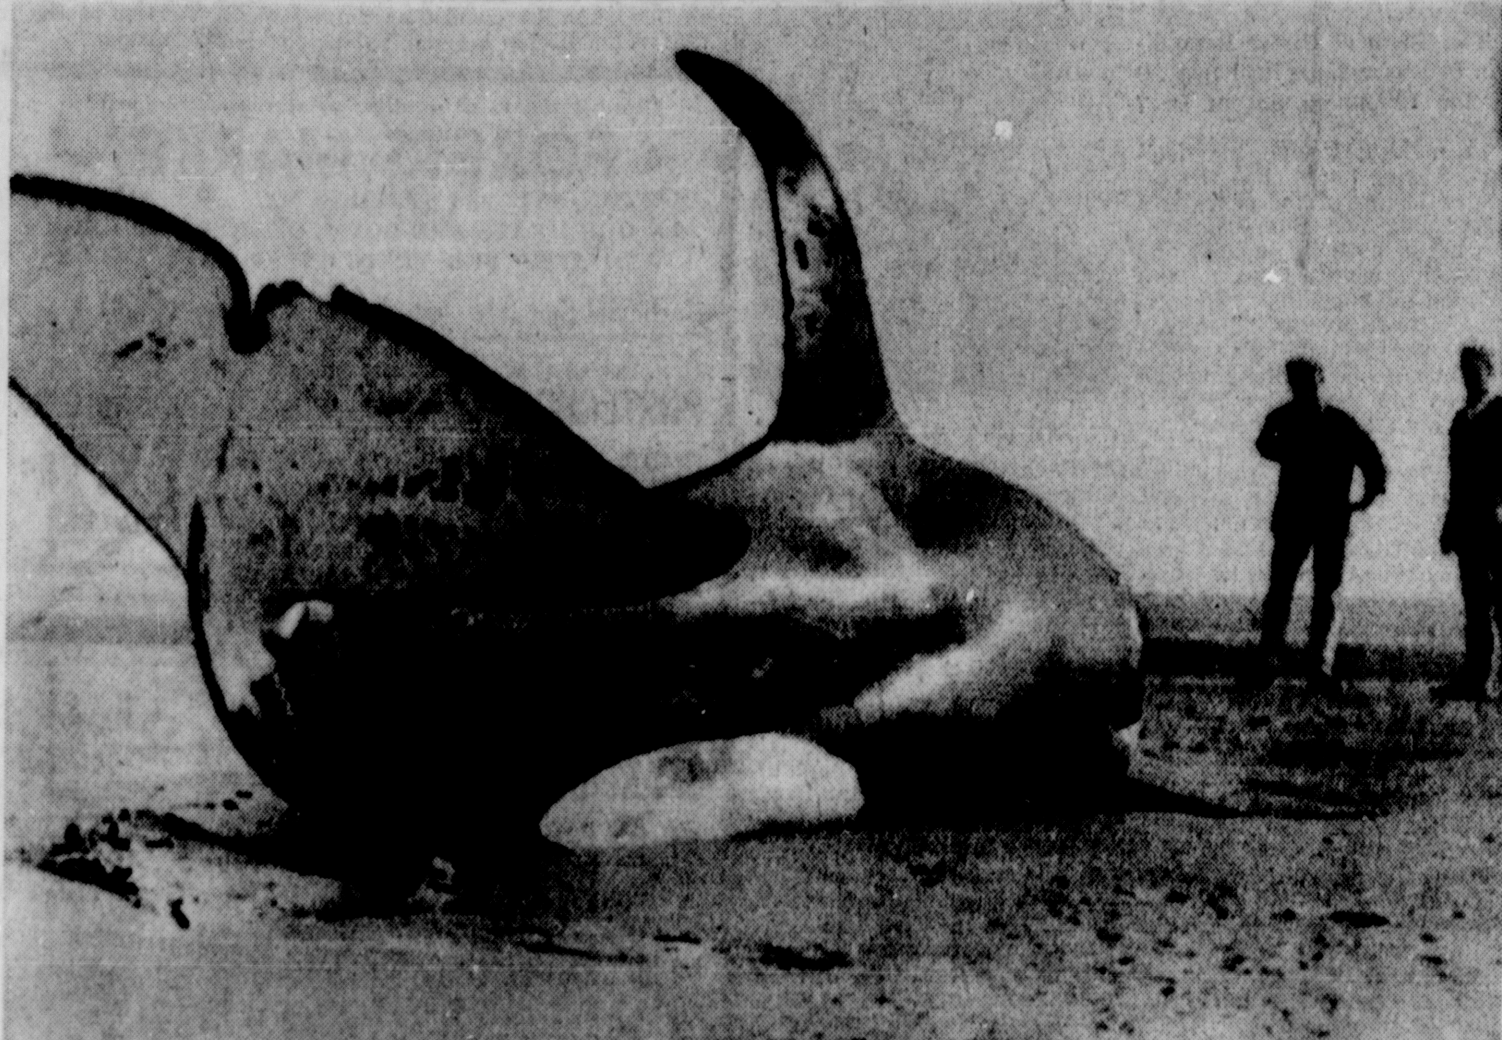

The Marine Corps chief criticized what he said was an attitude of pessimism at home about the progress of the war. He said when he left Vietnam three weeks ago after his sixth visit there, "I left an atmosphere of optimism."

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a leading Johnson policy supporter on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in another interview he thinks Americans are entirely too pessimistic about Vietnam. "We need confidence and patience," he said. "We not only are going to win the war but we are winning it now. No military expert I have talked to has given me any contrary report."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a critic of the Saigon military regime, said there is growing unrest in this country "based on a realization that our real objectives in South Vietnam are not appreciably nearer attainment than they have been during all the many years of our involvement."

Probe UR: Liberals; Schechter Resigns

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

The last remaining member of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency has resigned and Ulster County's Liberal party has called upon Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Jacob K. Javits to investigate and resolve the entire urban renewal controversy. David C. Schechter submitted his resignation to Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan this morning "to become effective upon the termination of the services of the present Executive Director," Eric Hemphill.

Ulster's Liberals, in a letter sent to Senators Kennedy and Javits this week, requested, "Please help the residents of the City of Kingston by investigating and resolving this critical program that the involved individuals and groups have been unable to solve."

Yesterday, Attorney S. James Matthews tendered his resignation, along with Edmund S. Peppard and William T. Mahoney, both members of the agency. On Monday, Hemphill resigned followed by the Tuesday resignations of Chairman Frank A. Reis and Vincent G. Connelly.

Up to Mayor: Resnick

Meanwhile, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's Kingston District office issued the statement that "despite recent stories to the contrary, Congressman Resnick does not intend to influence the appointment of new members to the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency."

"The Congressman believes that such appointments are entirely up to Mayor Garraghan and he is confident that the Mayor will attempt to select men of integrity, vision, and action for these important posts."

Resnick's office further noted, "Congressman Resnick and Mayor Garraghan have not been known as political allies in the past, and they are not in the habit of asking permission of each other to make policy decisions. Neither the Mayor nor the Congressman have consulted with each other in the past on appointments, and there are no plans for such consultation in the future."

The Liberal letter claimed, "Currently we have mass resignations, charges and counter-charges, secret meetings, and obvious lies by public officials."

Criticism of both the city and Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick was pinpointed in the resignation statement of Attorney S. James Matthews from the KURA. The text may be found on Page 8.

Sent by the party's urban affairs committee, the letter declared that "Kingston's urban renewal program has been stopped for months and we fear that the $13 million project will be lost along with four years of effort."

Liberals state that they took the action "to help protect the $13 million which the federal government has agreed to invest in Kingston."

The letter goes on to say, "The committee (urban affairs) is concerned with those residents who are directly affected by urban renewal, especially the citizens who are in need of decent housing."

Party officials said that Kingston "is in danger of losing the entire urban renewal program."

"We are deeply interested," the Liberals said, "in getting a constructive urban renewal program which will benefit all Kingstonians and will do everything we can to meet this goal."

In his resignation letter to Mayor Garraghan, Schechter said, "I leave at this time because I feel the agency has been vindicated in its recent controversy by the acceptance of Mr. Eric Hemphill by the Charleston, West Virginia urban renewal program."

Schechter further said, "As one with deep business, social, and political roots in the Broadway East area, I am firmly convinced in the need for the urban renewal project and its ultimate success."

"Difficult situations lie ahead," Schechter claimed, concluding with, "It is my hope that the whole City will be understanding and cooperative in facing up to these problems. Only then can we have a rebirth of Rondout."

Schechter had expressed surprise at the resignation of William T. Mahoney on Monday, and had told The Freeman then, "I thought at least one member would stay on to give the program some sort of continuity."

Within that context, continuity now appears doomed.

'Embarrassing Situation'

Mayor Garraghan told The Freeman today that the "resignations put the City in an embarrassing situation." The Mayor also said that he will meet with the Department of Housing and Urban Development in New York City on Tuesday or Wednesday to find out where we stand, and he claimed, in that there were no members left in the Kingston Agency, "There is no way we can interview a possible new director."

Commenting on the Liberal letter to Sens. Javits and Kennedy, Garraghan said, "The more people who put their noses in this thing, the worse it will be," and he claimed that the best strategy would be for everybody to "keep their mouths shut" and let everything "die down," reiterating previous statements.

The Liberals, on the other hand, said that "perhaps Senators Kennedy or Javits can outline to the people of the City of Kingston just where we stand in regard to urban renewal, and the Liberal Party feels that if (the Senators) cannot clear up the situation, then no one can."

A crewman of a U. S. rescue helicopter also was wounded, but the Viet Cong slipped away when Vietnamese army reinforcements arrived.

The fourth provincial capital hit this week was the normally sleepy town of Phan Thiet, on the coast about 95 miles east of Saigon. Mortar shells began to fall at 1:30 a. m., and when the 15-round barrage ended a small child was dead and 11 civilians were wounded. About the same time a band of guerrillas entered the village of Cua Doi, 288 miles north of Saigon, and carried off 39 young men at gunpoint. The normal Communist tactic is to indoctrinate such captives and put them in Viet Cong units.

Rallies Continue

Despite Communist efforts, the election campaign appeared undisturbed. Rallies were held throughout the nation and international observers—including the 22 Americans sent by President Johnson—began to appear at offices and campaign meetings.

Military headquarters reported relatively clear skies over North Vietnam Wednesday, with 157 missions taking off from Thailand, South Vietnam and three carriers in the Tonkin Gulf.

The two planes downed were a Navy A4 Skyhawk jet and an A1 propeller-driven Skyraider lost to ground fire. The jet pilot was missing but a helicopter pulled the Skyraider pilot from the sea with Red shells falling all about.

Military headquarters said Navy pilots flew heavy strikes against installations above the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong while Air Force jets attacked the MIG airfield at Hoa Lac, 20 miles west of Hanoi.

Pilots returning from Hoa Lac reported no MIGs on the ground but said the Communists had painted the outlines of MIGs inside sandbagged revetments to decoy U. S. planes. They also painted bomb craters on the runway to give the appearance the field was out of action.

However, Air Force officers said the field was still being used, with some MIGs parked well outside the area for towing to the runway. They said the Red jets may come down from Red China and refuel at the field before taking off on missions.

Hit Inside DMZ

The giant B52s hit twice inside the demilitarized zone today, cutting a swath along the jungle route used by the North Vietnamese to infiltrate into the south. The big bombers have hit nine times in the zone within five days.

Although reported ground fighting was scattered and inconclusive, headquarters reported troops of the U. S. 25th Infantry Division got into a stiff fight only 14 miles northwest of Saigon Wednesday.

Eight Americans were killed and 44 wounded in a crossfire which cut into the troops and shot up several helicopters.

Four Communists were known dead, but the U. S. Command said there must have been many more casualties.

Troops of the U. S. 1st Air Cavalry Division reported killing 18 Communists in a battle with a Red unit of unknown size on the central coast near Bong Son. One American was reported wounded.

Probe of Farm Bureau To Cost Resnick $5,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep.

Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., has spent at least $5,000 of his own money on his one-man investigation of the American Farm Bureau federation, aides said today.

The stenographic record alone of Resnick's current hearing is costing him $300 a day, they said.

In addition to the Washington hearing, in its fourth day today, hearings were held earlier in Chicago and Omaha, Neb.

Resnick is chairman of a House Agriculture subcommittee, but the Agriculture Committee has disassociated itself from his inquiry. Under such circumstances, no committee funds may be used to pay for the costs of the hearing or to reimburse witnesses for their expenses.

One witness, Mrs. Norma Williams of Ashland County, Ohio, said Wednesday more than 100 farmers chipped in to pay her way to Washington.

Mrs. Williams, who operates a 77-acre farm, told Resnick that as far as she knew all of those who backed her trip are shareholders in the local Farm Bureau cooperative in Ashland County. The decision to close also was based on a diminishing supply of stone and rising competition from foreign producers, Newell noted.

Substantial Losses

"The Hudson plant has lost substantial sums of money in three of the last four years," Newell said. "Long-range economic studies ordered by the company management have established beyond any doubt that the present Hudson operation cannot return an adequate profit in the foreseeable future."

Newell added that the long-range study also considered the potential earnings if the plant were modernized or rebuilt, but the capital requirement would involve millions of dollars, and the profit would be too small to justify the new investment funds.

The need for improved dust control was also cited as a contribution in the decision to abandon the Hudson plant.

Newell described the management action program approved by Lone Star's directors as "a new approach in which all corporate activities would be evaluated." He pointed out that economic conditions at company plants in Indiana, Washington, California and Brazil were "more favorable for cement industry expansion than in Hudson."

Showdown Today On Free Tuition

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Democratic and Republican forces in the Constitutional Convention headed into a showdown debate today on the question of providing free college educations for all New York residents.

The Democratic majority, led by Convention President Anthony J. Travia, backed a proposal that would direct the Legislature to "establish and define a system of free higher education for the benefit of all the people of this state."

The convention's Republican minority opposed the Democratic plan as far too costly, instead, the GOP argued, the state should concentrate on improving financial help for needy students.

A prolonged debate was in prospect as Travia scheduled a vote on the Democratic proposal at today's session.

During a long and exhausting meeting Wednesday, the convention voted nearly unanimously to include a remodeled State Bill of Rights in the revised Constitution it will present to New York voters.

Among other things, the delegates agreed to retain the present Constitution's ban on gambling, while continuing the exceptions for bingo, pari-mutuel horse racing and the new state lottery.

At the same time, the convention rejected proposals on these subjects:

SCHOOL INTEGRATION — By a vote of 102-50, delegates turned down a prohibition against assigning children to public schools on the basis of race, religion or economic status. Republicans cast most of the "aye" votes for the proposal, intended primarily to prevent busing of school children to correct racial imbalances in the schools. It was offered by Conservative Delegate Rosemary Gunning of Queens.

ABORTION — Another Conservative Delegate, Charles E. Rice of the Bronx, sought to write in a provision that would ban all abortions in this state, but his amendment was defeated on a voice vote. Rice tried to insert the words "from the moment of conception" in a provision stating that "no person shall be denied equal protection of the laws."

RFK Differs With Marine General

Says Plight of Cities Has First Priority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy challenges the contention of Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., Marine Corps commandant, that Vietnam is more important than the plight of U. S. cities.

"That's a mistake," the New York Democrat said in an interview. "President Johnson has said we can fight the war and still act on our problems at home."

"Our first priority should be to our own people. We are on the brink of the most serious crisis since the Civil War."

"It seems to me we are devoting all of the resources required to the war in Vietnam but we are not doing so in respect to our domestic problems. There is no question that we have not done what we should have done for the urban and rural poor." Greene told the American Legion convention Wednesday in Boston that if the United States does not stop the Communists in their promotion of world revolution "then our domestic problems and our pocketbooks are going to become mighty important in the future."

The Marine Corps chief criticized what he said was an attitude of pessimism at home about the progress of the war. He said when he left Vietnam three weeks ago after his sixth visit there, "I left a sphere of optimism."

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a leading Johnson policy supporter on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in another interview he thinks Americans are entirely too pessimistic about Vietnam. "We need confidence and patience," he said. "We not only are going to win the war but we are winning it now. No military expert I have talked to has given me any contrary report."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a critic of the Saigon military regime, said there is growing unrest in this country "based on a realization that our real objectives in South Vietnam are not appreciably nearer attainment than they have been during all the many years of our involvement."

And Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., proposed in a speech to the Legion convention that military leaders be directed to develop a "war-ending plan" for the use of ground, naval and air power "necessary to win as quickly as possible and bring our men home."

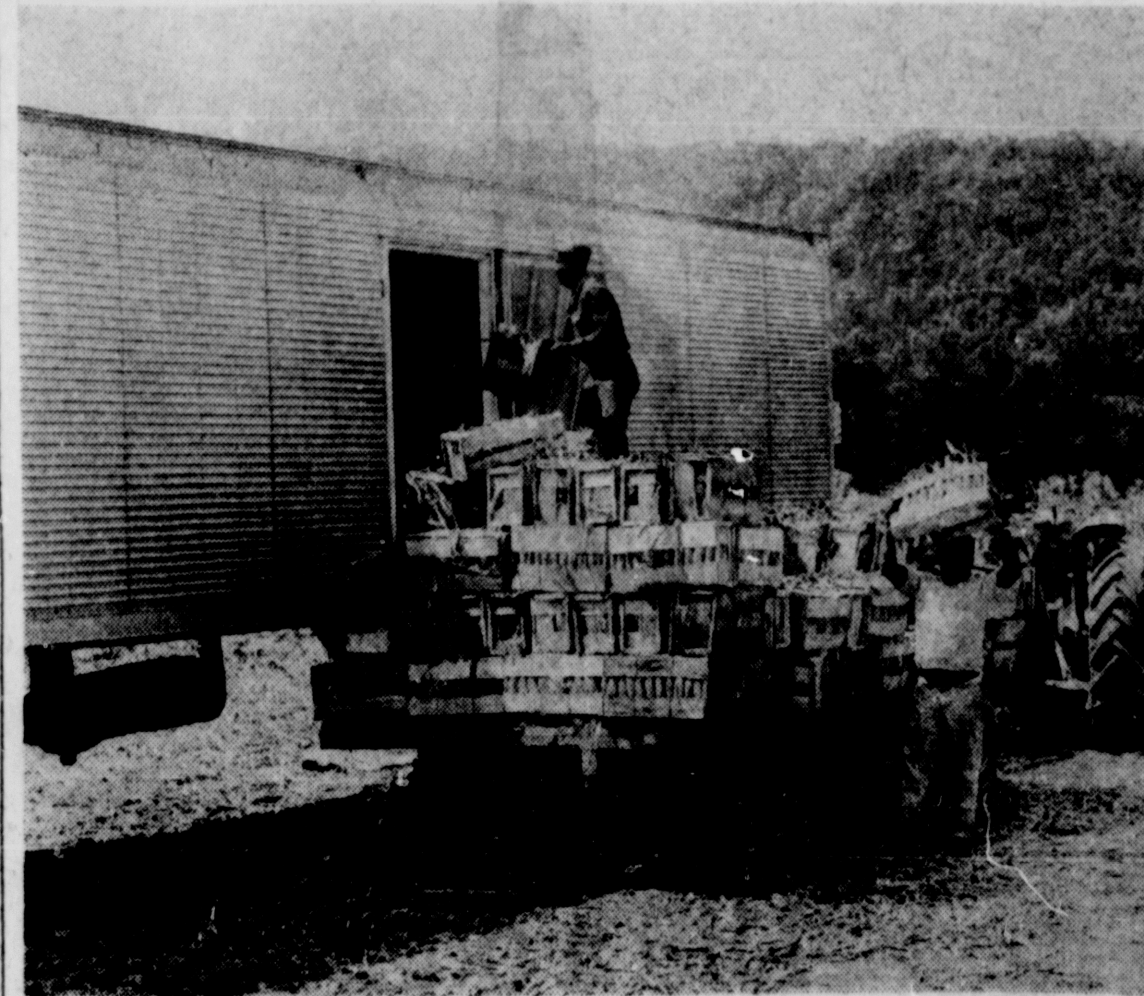

"I see no prospect of early success under a policy of applying military pressure in a limited, gradual and piecemeal fashion," Stennis said. "We must face up to an unpleasant job and get it over with."

Kennedy said he had no reason to change his opinion that Sunday's South Vietnamese elections will be a fraud. Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said earlier the poll-watching mission of 22 prominent Americans sent to Saigon by Johnson "can't amount to a damn."

Aiken told an interviewer that appointment of the group was "a long shot on the part of the President to bolster his position" that the elections would be conducted fairly.

But Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, said he is encouraged "by the progress which has been made toward a representative government in South Vietnam." He said in a statement the Sunday elections should not be written off as a fraud.

Another Split

RFK for Bigger SS Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, in still another sharp split with President Johnson, urges Social Security benefit boosts of 20 per cent.

The New York Democrat, who earlier this week hit at Johnson's policies on Vietnam and taxes, suggested minimum benefits of $100 monthly for social security recipients.

Johnson had proposed a 15 per cent hike and $70 minimum, $50 in the House-passed version. The current minimum is $44.

Assault Surcharges

Kennedy who this week assailed Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge as unneeded, called for partial financing of the benefit hikes from general revenues. At present they are wholly financed by worker-employer contributions, a method that would continue under the Johnson and House versions.

Kennedy's proposals came before the Senate Finance Committee.

On the Senate floor Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., sponsor of a bill intended to protect the privacy and rights of federal employees, rapped the Central Intelligence Agency and National Security Agency for seeking exemption.

Ervin said the two agencies "want the unlimited right to kick federal employees around, deny them respect for individual privacy and the basic rights which belong to every American regardless of the mission of his agency."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he has postponed action on the bill until Sept. 19 at the CIA's request.

Ulster Town Judge Seeking Reelection

Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedje has announced he will seek reelection to that office in the Town of Ulster. Judge Stedje has been justice of the peace and a member of the town board in the Town of Ulster for the past seven and one-half years.

The Town of Ulster Republican caucus will be held Sept. 9 at the Chambers School at 7 p. m.

In making known his decision, Stedje noted that the office of justice of the peace is a responsible and time-consuming job in both its judicial and legislative aspects, but he has enjoyed the opportunity of serving the town in this capacity.

He also stated, "The office continues to be challenging and will be more so after Sept. 1 when both the new Penal Law and new Justice Court Act take effect. Both of these new laws will increase the jurisdiction of the Justice Courts. The Town of Ulster has had a substantial growth in the last decade, and the townspeople may better be served by a person experienced in legislative procedures as well as knowledgeable in regard to the background and solution of town problems."

Judge Stedje was one of the first justices in the state certified by the Administrative Board of the Judicial Conference of the State of New York and has continued to take justice courses at both the Albany Law School and the Cornell Law School. He has regularly attended seminars regarding court decisions and new laws.

Justice Stedje resides in Sun-

As a resident of the Town of Ulster, he has been active in the civic and political life of the community. He has been active in both the Young Republican Club and the Town of Ulster Republican Club, and has served as president of the latter. He has also held high office in both the local and State Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In recognition of his services, the Kingston Jaycees awarded him an honorary life membership in the Junior Chamber of Commerce International. He is a past director of the Kingston Area Community Chest, and served twice as chairman in the Town of Ulster. In 1959 he was

RFK for Bigger SS Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, in still another sharp split with President Johnson, urges Social Security benefit boosts of 20 per cent. The New York Democrat, who earlier this week hit at Johnson's policies on Vietnam and taxes, suggested minimum benefits of $100 monthly for social security recipients. Johnson had proposed a 15 per cent hike and $70 minimum, $50 in the House-passed version. The current minimum is $44.

Assaults Surcharged
Kennedy who this week assailed Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge as unneeded, called for partial financing of the benefit hikes from general revenues. At present they are wholly financed by worker-employer contributions, a method that would continue under the Johnson and House versions.

Kennedy's proposals came before the Senate Finance Committee. On the Senate floor Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., sponsor of a bill intended to protect the privacy and rights of federal employees, rapped the Central Intelligence Agency and National Security Agency for seeking exemption.

Ervin said the two agencies "want the unlimited right to kick federal employees around, deny them respect for individual privacy and the basic rights which belong to every American regardless of the mission of his agency."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he has postponed action on the bill until Sept. 19 at the CIA's request.

Moon Ferry Ready

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — The engine which will lift two U.S. astronauts off the moon and take them back to a mother ship for the return to earth has passed its rehearsal firing for its first mission in space.

The ascent engine of the lunar module was fired Tuesday in a static test stand 13 miles east of Las Cruces, and National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said preliminary data indicated the test was a success.

IT'S ALL OVER — Washington correspondent Helen Thomas reported here in Washington Wednesday that Lynda Bird Johnson is telling friends that it (romance) is all over between her and actor George Hamilton. Lynda Bird has been switching her attentions to a White House aide, Marine Capt. Charles Robb, 28, of Milwaukee. In a July 2 file photo, she and Robb are on an outing at Rehoboth Beach, Del. (UPI TELEPHOTO from files).

Ulster Town Judge Seeking Reelection

Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedje has announced he will seek reelection to that office in the Town of Ulster. Judge Stedje has been justice of the peace and a member of the town board in the Town of Ulster for the past seven and one-half years.

The Town of Ulster Republican caucus will be held Sept. 9 at the Chambers School at 7 p. m.

In making known his decision, Stedje noted that the office of justice of the peace is a responsible and time-consuming job in both its judicial and legislative aspects, but he has enjoyed the opportunity of serving the town in this capacity.

He also stated, "The office continues to be challenging and will be more so after Sept. 1 when both the new Penal Law and new Justice Court Act take effect. Both of these new laws will increase the jurisdiction of the Justice Courts. The Town of Ulster has had a substantial growth in the last decade, and the townspeople may better be served by a person experienced in legislative procedures as well as knowledgeable in regard to the background and solution of town problems."

Judge Stedje was one of the first justices in the state certified by the Administrative Board of the Judicial Conference of the State of New York and has continued to take justice courses at both the Albany Law School and the Cornell Law School. He has regularly attended seminars regarding court decisions and new laws. Justice Stedje resides in Sun-

As a resident of the Town of Ulster, he has been active in the civic and political life of the community. He has been active in both the Young Republican Club and the Town of Ulster Republican Club, and has served as president of the latter. He has also held high office in both the local and State Junior Chamber of Commerce.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Thursday, Aug. 31, the 243rd day of 1967. There are 122 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, the Germans defeated the Russians in the Battle of Tannenberg in World War I.

On this date: In 1880, the late Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands was born.

In 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, signed a neutrality act prohibiting the export of arms.

In 1940, the British Royal Air Force attacked the center of Berlin for the first time in World War II.

In 1954, scores were killed as Hurricane Carol battered the Northeastern United States.

In 1964, the U.S. Census Bureau announced that California had overtaken New York and become the most populous state.

Ten years ago — Afghanistan said it would receive $25 million worth of military assistance under an arms agreement with the Soviet Union.

Five years ago — Members of the National Farmers Organization in 16 Midwestern states started withholding some products from market in an attempt to raise prices.

One year ago — The Soviet government ordered the U.S. Embassy in Moscow to halt distribution of a Russian-language edition of the Warren Report, claiming it slandered the Soviet people.

Ehlert Leaving Planning Board

Ben Webster, Chairman of the Ulster County Planning Board, announced the resignation of Richard T. Ehlert, planning Director, effective Nov. 1. Ehlert has accepted a position with Gilbert Associates, Inc., which involves a sizeable increase in salary. The firm, established in 1906, offers consulting services in the fields of planning, engineering, and architecture.

In his letter of resignation, Ehlert says:

"I regretfully submit my resignation as Planning Board Director for the Ulster County Planning Board effective Nov. 1, 1967, in order to accept a better position. After many weeks of careful consideration, I have decided to accept a very attractive offer from Gilbert Associates, Inc. which I cannot afford to pass up. I will really miss all the good friends that I have made here in the county. I found the position here both stimulating and challenging, and we all learned that it is not an easy task to get a new county planning board established and operating in the proper direction."

Confident of Direction

He further states: "I feel confident in leaving that the County Planning Board is heading in the right direction, and has the proper support of the Board of Supervisors and citizens of the county. While progress is a relative term, in retrospect, I feel that we have made some positive contributions to furthering county and local planning in the past two years."

Webster, in an interview, expressed sincere regret of the County Planning Board at losing Ehlert and said:

"We are very sorry to lose Dick." "He has been with us for a little over two years. In that time he has demonstrated a real professional competence in the many problems of a planning program. He has also shown an enormous capacity for hard work and has given unstintingly of his time, including many evening meetings with municipal planning boards that have turned to us for assistance."

Notes Activities

"Planning Board activities during Mr. Ehlert's term have included: preparation of the Ulster County Data Book; initiation of State financed studies of Water, Sewage, and Waste Disposal; an application for a Federal and State Assistance program for a Comprehensive County Plan, which has passed all hurdles, except approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. This is expected before late fall. Other detailed accomplishments are too numerous to mention."

"It will not be easy to replace Dick," Webster continued. "A new man will need some time to get the feel of Ulster County and to sense what its citizens want in the way of planning to adjust to our unprecedented and continuing growth without losing the qualities of our environment which we all cherish."

Why the Bombing Delay?

Some questions are raised by the stepped-up bombing of North Vietnam, and, in particular, the Hanoi area. As the American public discovered last week, we are beginning to lose a good number of planes and pilots, and there can only be one reason for these losses, and that is that the North Vietnam air defenses are being improved. And why shouldn't they? Our government has hemmed and hawed for two years now about whether to hit Hanoi, what parts of Hanoi, what parts of the country itself, in fact, whether to bomb the domain of Ho Chi Minh at all. This has given the enemy ample time to turn to its Communist friends, Russia and Red China, for air protection in the form of all sorts of anti-aircraft missiles and guns. Now North Vietnam is ready for our pilots as never before.

Discounting that the hawks in Congress and elsewhere have been advocating for some time with perhaps more emotion than expert knowledge that we give North Vietnam a saturation going-over with bombs, many military voices that should know the score have been raised advocating the same thing. Including among them such geniuses in air warfare as General Curtis LeMay, these men have expressed the opinion that the only way to bring the war to an early conclusion was to hit the enemy where it hurt most—on the home front. This would naturally mean that the civilian population would feel the effects physically, as well as morally and otherwise, but that is a fortune of war. Our government has given as one of the reasons for the lack of intensive bombings that it didn't want civilians to get hurt, and has repeatedly asserted that because of that policy no North Vietnamese civilians were bombing victims. That fallacy has caused another of the many credibility gaps attributed to the Johnson Administration, since bombs falling on any area where there are people cannot distinguish between them and say a bridge or a highway.

In connection with military men calling for intensive bombing, it is interesting to hear Defense Secretary McNamara raising his voice against it. The latter may be a whiz kid at figuring costs of materiel and at departmental coordination and such but he has proved he is no military strategist on more than one occasion. Better he left the strategy and fighting to the generals. In any event, after Mr. McNamara made known his opposition at a hearing last Friday, all members of the Senate committee heartily, and without dissent, endorsed the view of the military. Senator Thurmond asserted that Mr. McNamara advocates a position of stalemate, appeasement and no-win.

While indecisive deliberations have been going on in Washington, our Russian "friends," and their "enemy" Red China have been working in unison to give Ho Chi Minh the means to knock our planes out of the skies and kill our boys. So, last week, we began to feel more than ever the effects of this North Vietnamese buildup. Since the Administration now approves dropping bombs on Hanoi and undoubtedly killing civilians, it is apparent that the decision has been made that what must be must be and intensive bombing will bring the war to an early end. This may be hindsight, on our part, but why couldn't this decision have been reached a long time ago? Nice-Nellie attitudes don't win wars as has been proved in other wars the United States has been engaged in.

Enforce the Law?

Much has been said recently about the need for greater respect for law and order, and it is hard to quarrel with this. Any nation without it is in bad trouble.

It is interesting, therefore, to note that a Superior Court judge in Georgia has publicly taken the governor of that state to task for trying to enforce the law.

The governor is insisting that night clubs obey a Sunday closing law and stop the sale of mixed drinks at midnight Saturday.

It is understandable that this has not been greeted by night club operators with cheers and drinks on the house. Or that thirsty patrons have not drunk a toast to the governor.

But it does come as a bit of a shock for a judge of Superior Court to rule that the state does, indeed, have the right to enforce laws prohibiting Sunday liquor sales, and then add:

"This (the governor's belief that the law should be enforced) is worse than a bull in a china shop . . . Someone should put a bridle on him."

Recalling other court actions around the country which have seemed to some to be fairly far afield from traditional judicial prerogatives, it perhaps isn't too startling to sense a feeling here and there that some judges just may be getting too big for their benches.

New York state plans to feed birth control drugs to rats to curtail their reproduction as the most lasting way to eliminate them from the slums. The potion will prevent fertility in both males and females and permanently sterilize most of the young of already pregnant rats. It can be a ten-strike in the ghettos.

'Quarantine' Not New

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What can a people do who don't want to go to war and yet wish to express their disapproval of the unfriendly acts of a foreign government?

For many years the severance of diplomatic relations has been a psychological way of expressing the disappointment of a nation offended by the action of another government. Today, however, this is proving inadequate, and speculation is arising as to what other measures might be effectively utilized. Though circumstances differ, there are three conspicuous examples currently in the headlines in which governments in Europe and Asia have provoked resentment among peoples of other countries.

First, there is the case of the attack on the British Embassy in Peking by Chinese "Red Guards." Despite this disgraceful performance and the injury to the families of the British diplomats in the building at the time, Red China has offered no public apology, and there are no signs that the incident is even regretted. The London Daily Telegraph says editorially that Great Britain has been remarkably patient in similar incidents but must now seriously consider whether the closing of the Embassy in Peking and the expulsion of Chinese diplomats from London would be the proper

A second example of the indiscreet behavior of a foreign government is the case of General De Gaulle who, as a guest of Canada, deliberately violated the hospitality of that country by publicly endorsing a movement among French-speaking Canadians for a "free Quebec." The Canadian government thus far has not reacted as angrily as it might, for there is a belief that the French majority does not reflect the majority opinion of the people of France.

Something of the same feeling prevails in the United States, where General De Gaulle's hostility to NATO and American participation in plans for the defense of Europe has produced an unfavorable attitude toward the French government. No diplomatic break has been suggested, but it is significant that many Americans have refrained from including France on their visits to Europe.

A third example is the failure of the government of Czechoslovakia to punish those who were responsible for the death of Charles Jordan, an American who, with his family, was visiting Prague. There have been in the State Department and in Congress many efforts to improve relations with Czechoslovakia and other countries in the Communist bloc of eastern Europe. Suggestions have been made for extensive cultural exchanges and more visits between citizens. The latest episode, however, can prove discouraging to such attempts.

The idea of a "quarantine" mentioned by the London Daily Telegraph is not new. President Franklin D. Roosevelt made a famous speech on Oct. 5, 1937, calling for an international "quarantine" of aggressors. The world was reluctant at that time to apply even such a mild remedy, though the speech undoubtedly encouraged a widespread U. S. boycott against goods from Japan.

The theory behind a "quarantine" is that peoples have an opportunity to express their disapproval of a government abroad by refusing to buy the products on which its economy depends, and by declining to travel within its borders.

Without the antiwar feeling the draft Kennedy movement would have wrecked long ago on the rock of Kennedy's repeated assertions that he supports President Johnson for reelection.

As it is, Citizens for Kennedy, with headquarters in New York, claims some 60 chapters scattered across the country. Dr. Martin Shepard, the New York coordinator, says it is continuing to grow.

Opposition to the war also has fueled the organization of the National Conference for New Politics which convenes Friday in Chicago. It embraces antiwar and civil rights groups. There is talk this gathering may lead to the fielding of a national ticket of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., for president, and Dr. Benjamin Spock for vice president. Both are strongly critical of Johnson's Vietnam policies.

However, Spock, a pediatrician nationally known for his writings on baby care, deprecated the likelihood of a national ticket in a letter to a Washington acquaintance.

If either old party chose a half-peaceful candidate, I would think any New Politics national ticket would be withdrawn."

Spock's letter was to Joseph L. Rauh, a Washington lawyer who is seeking to unite "peace Democrats" behind a movement for a peace plank in the 1968 Democratic platform.

Rauh's plan contemplates an effort from the grass roots level to elect peace delegates to the convention. Selection of delegats will begin early next year.

In late July, he sent a 15-page memorandum outlining his ideas to some 350 Democrats. This argued that a third party New Politics or "dump Johnson" draft Kennedy effort would be the weakest political move the peace movement could make.

On the other hand, he contended, an effort on behalf of a peace plank would be a strong move. He suggested that if beaten in the platform committee, a minority report could be brought in and debated in the convention with the full exposure of the television networks.

A built-in factor of strength for Rauh's plan is that most of the Senate and House doves presumably will be delegates to the convention. They are men of influence in their state parties. It is unlikely, for instance, that Arkansas Democrats would refuse to make Sen. J. W. Fulbright a delegate if he wants to be one.

Rauh said in an interview he has received expressions of support from four state Democratic chairmen, but only Robert L. Coate of northern California was willing to be quoted by name.

Tragic Love Story

WASHINGTON — A tender but tragic love story, which ranks with the great romances of history, is related by Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, in her celebrated memoirs.

It was a platonic love affair between a 40-year-old scenario writer and the 17-year-old daughter of Russia's dreaded dictator. Stalin flew into a rage when he learned about it, and the warm bond that had existed between the old dictator and his young daughter was ruptured. For the writer, the romance brought banishment to Siberia.

Although Svetlana no longer has stars in her eyes, she writes sadly: "Even so, there is no justification for the way love was stifled and a young heart was wounded."

The full story will not appear in her forthcoming book, because she feels some details are too personal. But the manuscript she left behind in Russia, circulated in Europe by Kremlin agent Victor Louis, leaves out little. This column has obtained a copy.

It was the winter of 1942-43 that Svetlana met Alexi Yankovlevich Kapler. Her brother, Vasily, had brought "Lyusia" as she came to call him, to their country dacha. One night, some of the crowd went for a stroll.

Svetlana still remembers the evening vividly: "It was the frosty month of November. The moon shone, and the air was transparent. I walked silently at Lyusia's side, who talked with K. Simonov. He put my hand, which rested in his big, soft palm, into the pocket of his coat for some warm touch. This was wholly unexpected and new, and quickened my pulse. But I did not say a word."

At a dance later in the month, he walked up to her and asked abruptly: "Can you fox-trot?"

"I realized then," recalls Svetlana, "that the whole evening I had been waiting only for this moment when I could come close to him and stretch out my arms. I had unusual faith in this strange, stout man who was so warm-hearted and friendly, and suddenly wanted to press my head to his breast and close my eyes."

They began seeing each other regularly: "Lyusia would come near my school and look for me from the doorway of a neighboring house. And, knowing that he was there, my heart would swell with joy." Then they would walk, hand-in-hand, along Moscow's snow-padded streets.

When Lyusia was sent to Stalingrad for the epic battle, they agreed it would be unwise to correspond. But he wrote a dispatch for Pravda, in which he included a letter from a "Lieutenant L." to his "beloved" describing the battle. Svetlana knew the letter was intended for her, a gesture which she thought was "fantastically knightly."

"I grew cold, picturing father reading the paper," she remembers. "He was already informed about my strange, very strange conduct, and he even hinted once in a very dissatisfied tone of voice that it was improper."

They renewed the romance after Lyusia's return to Moscow, but decided they could not continue seeing each other without risk of provoking her father's wrath.

Recalling their farewell, she writes: "For us it was both bitter and sweet. Not a word was spoken; we looked into each other's eyes and kissed. We were boundlessly happy in spite of tears that welled up in our eyes. Until that day I did not know how sweet a kiss may be."

But it was already too late. Lyusia was picked up a few days later by the secret police. The date is still burned into Svetlana's memory: March 2, 1943. Next morning, as she was preparing for school, the ruler of all the Russians stormed into her quarters.

"Striding rapidly as he always did," she relates, "he went straight to my room. I had never seen him in such a state. Usually reserved of speech and emotions, he simply choked with rage and could hardly speak. 'Where, where have you got them?' he sputtered. 'Where are those letters? Give them to me! Do you hear? Your Kapler has been arrested.'"

Stalin Scorned Love

"But I love him," I said, regaining my power of speech. 'Love! Father cried out with inexpressible hatred for the very word itself, and for the first time in my life he slapped me twice across the face . . ."

"Then, glancing at me, he said something which crushed me completely. 'Take a look at yourself! Who wants you? He's got a string of women, you fool.' He left without saying another word. Everything inside of me was broken. His parting words like a poisoned arrow sent by a skilled marksman found their target . . ."

"In a daze I returned from school, strangely indifferent to everything. Since that day, father and I became strangers. We did not speak to each other for several months and met again only in the summer. But our old relationship was never reestablished. For him I was no longer the daughter whom he had once loved."

Lyusia spent ten years in correction camps in Siberia. Says Svetlana: "I knew only that he was exiled to Siberia for 'contacts with foreigners.'"

Svetlana went through two unhappy marriages. Then, 10 years after the slapping incident—on March 5, 1953—Stalin died in agony before the eyes of his daughter. Her heart was flooded with grief, but she also thought of another man: "I thought about Lyusia, about his fate."

After Stalin's passing, Lyusia was released, but he brought a wife back from Siberia. Inevitably, Svetlana and Lyusia crossed paths in a corridor one day, and the romance was revived. She recalls: "Everything was the same, as though we had parted just yesterday. As before, something sang in us and around us, and our hands were clasped."

But the story ended unhappily. There was an awkward scene between Svetlana and his wife, a decision to break off the romance and, much later, an unpleasant exchange of letters. Still, sometimes Svetlana thinks of how it might have been.

Antiwar Sentiment Vitalizes Draft Kennedy Movement

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sizeable elements in the Democratic party opposed to the Vietnam war are divided and uncertain about how to give political expression to their view.

Whether they can unite on a course of action is one interesting angle to watch in the developing 1968 political picture.

It is antiwar sentiment which energizes the "draft Kennedy" effort.

This is of course not the sole motivation. It embraces admirers of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., as a man and those attracted by what he has said about domestic matters.

But without the antiwar feeling the draft Kennedy movement would have wrecked long ago on the rock of Kennedy's repeated assertions that he supports President Johnson for reelection.

As it is, Citizens for Kennedy, with headquarters in New York, claims some 60 chapters scattered across the country. Dr. Martin Shepard, the New York coordinator, says it is continuing to grow.

Opposition to the war also has fueled the organization of the National Conference for New Politics which convenes Friday in Chicago. It embraces antiwar and civil rights groups. There is talk this gathering may lead to the fielding of a national ticket of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., for president, and Dr. Benjamin Spock for vice president. Both are strongly critical of Johnson's Vietnam policies.

However, Spock, a pediatrician nationally known for his writings on baby care, deprecated the likelihood of a national ticket in a letter to a Washington acquaintance.

If either old party chose a half-peaceful candidate, I would think any New Politics national ticket would be withdrawn."

Spock's letter was to Joseph L. Rauh, a Washington lawyer who is seeking to unite "peace Democrats" behind a movement for a peace plank in the 1968 Democratic platform.

Rauh's plan contemplates an effort from the grass roots level to elect peace delegates to the convention. Selection of delegats will begin early next year.

In late July, he sent a 15-page memorandum outlining his ideas to some 350 Democrats. This argued that a third party New Politics or "dump Johnson" draft Kennedy effort would be the weakest political move the peace movement could make.

On the other hand, he contended, an effort on behalf of a peace plank would be a strong move. He suggested that if beaten in the platform committee, a minority report could be brought in and debated in the convention with the full exposure of the television networks.

A built-in factor of strength for Rauh's plan is that most of the Senate and House doves presumably will be delegates to the convention. They are men of influence in their state parties. Step to Self-Rule

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In evaluating the upcoming national elections in South Vietnam, one thing should be kept in mind:

The South Vietnamese elections last year that produced the constitutional assembly were pretty botched up, too. But that did not prevent the people from electing a group of men with the courage to stand up against the ruling army junta and write the kind of a constitution they believed in.

At the time of those elections, this reporter talked to men and women in 13 South Vietnam provinces. Many of these men and women could not read. But those who did read, picked at random from the people on the streets in rural hamlets, gave surprisingly thoughtful reasons for their vote. They listened to the different candidates, picked their arguments apart with the logic of the everyday man and woman.

They turned down some government favorites and hack politicians and elected a surprising number of younger professional men with little experience but considerable idealism.

Furthermore, the constitution written by these independent-minded men so clipped the power of the president and the whole executive branch of the government that the military candidates will not be able to ride roughshod if elected (as it's assumed they will be), so long as they obey the constitution.

The danger that Vietnamese civilians see is that this constitution will be ignored or its provisions whittled away. "The old constitution wasn't bad," a leading Vietnamese attorney-politician told this reporter some months back. "The trouble was, it wasn't followed."

This is where the U.S. embassy and Gen. Westmoreland come in. U.S. officials must have the courage to tell the new government that if it expects continued U.S. help, it must adhere to the Vietnamese-written constitution.

The major national association of Vietnamese students is much more mature in its assessment of the national elections than many American detractors. These students have stated they recognize there will be many election irregularities. They expect the military incumbents to take advantage of their positions to influence the vote.

But these students are not cynical or discouraged. Instead, they have said that in moving toward democracy, these elections are a necessary first step. It is their own duty, the students say, to work to make these elections as clean as possible under the present very difficult circumstances. They're not expecting the impossible.

This student view is the honest way to look at these elections. They're a step toward democracy, a small step perhaps, but a move in the right direction. This doesn't mean that election dishonesty should be ignored. On the contrary, American and Vietnamese newspapermen should report every case of fraud or strongarming and U.S. officials should push for punishment of every irregularity.

Only by broadcasting irregularities and praising fairness where it is found will South Vietnam continue to progress toward democratic self-rule.

Kremlin Muscles in on Mao

Soviet to Seize China Rule

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (NEA)

While the United States is watching Red China's political convulsions as a concerned observer, Russia is preparing to seize power in Peking.

Thousands of Soviet agents, many of them Red army officers on active duty are reliably reported to be leading the anti-Mao insurgents in the rebellious provinces. More significant is increasing evidence that Moscow is already preparing the "legal ground" and "moral justification" for an invasion of China.

Premier Kosygin's ultimatum to Peking about the recent seizure of a Soviet freighter in the Chinese port of Dairen was only one indication of the Kremlin's plans.

Russian ships have been seized and their crews "insulted" in Dairen before. But the Russians veiled the incidents in diplomatic silence.

Why, then, Kosygin's sudden threat and ultimatum to Mao Tse-tung?

In the view of specialists on communism, Moscow is beginning to pile up publicly enough grievances that would justify direct Soviet intervention in the Chinese civil war. This is an old Soviet policy that has been used effectively by Stalin in Poland, Romania and the Baltic countries.

Immediately after the Dairen incident, Radio Moscow claimed that Mao's "accomplices" were openly attempting to change China's borders with Soviet Russia.

The radio charged that a textbook had been printed in Peking which included a map "showing certain Soviet territories" as belonging to China. It warned that any attempt by Mao to revise China's borders with Russia "carried the danger of serious military clashes."

The textbook and map have been in use in China for several years. But it is only in recent weeks that the Russians acknowledged their existence.

On Aug. 17, the Soviet government also charged in a protest note to Peking that the Chinese were engaged in a "hysterical anti-Soviet campaign" aimed at severing the few surviving threads of Soviet-Chinese diplomatic relations.

This was another case of Communist diplomatic double-talk. It was merely confirmation of the fact that Moscow, to speed up Mao's fall, was considering a break in diplomatic relations with China.

According to Russian communications media, fighting between Chinese loyal to Mao and his opponents "is nearing Peking." A secret Soviet radio that broadcasts in various Chinese dialects also reported the emergence of a new anti-Mao army called "Independent Division." It includes security troops and officers "who have now joined the resistance movement against Mao Tse-tung."

Is this "Independent Division" actually a pro-Soviet army staffed with Russian officers that will spearhead the attack on Peking?

There is no longer any doubt that the Soviet Union has pinned its hopes on a post-Mao China. Because of their vital interest in the survival of a Communist regime in Peking the Kremlin leaders are taking no chances.

They are even grooming a dead man as a true Chinese "revolutionary hero" to replace Mao. He is Kao Kang, a former Chinese deputy premier, who was purged by Mao in 1954.

Even as late as 1960, Kao Kang was described by the Russian Encyclopaedia as "a conspirator whose aim was to split the Communist party of China and seize the leadership." This was Mao's official reason for purging Kao Kang.

Now Soviet propaganda depicts Kao as a revolutionary martyr "who was arrested by Mao Tse-tung on false charges and died in prison under most unclear circumstances."

It is in the nature of Marxist-Leninists to cover up acts of aggression with an ideological slogan or symbol. Kao Kang is becoming the Russians' symbol and rallying cry in their efforts to destroy Mao.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 31, 1967

Why the Bombing Delay?

Some questions are raised by the stepped-up bombing of North Vietnam, and, in particular, the Hanoi area. As the American public discovered last week, we are beginning to lose a good number of planes and pilots, and there can only be one reason for these losses, and that is that the North Vietnam air defenses are being improved. And why shouldn't they? Our government has hemmed and hawed for two years now about whether to hit Hanoi, what parts of Hanoi, what parts of the country itself, in fact, whether to bomb the domain of Ho Chi Minh at all. This has given the enemy ample time to turn to its Communist friends, Russia and Red China, for air protection in the form of all sorts of anti-aircraft missiles and guns. Now North Vietnam is ready for our pilots as never before.

Discounting that the hawks in Congress and elsewhere have been advocating for some time with perhaps more emotion than expert knowledge that we give North Vietnam a saturation going-over with bombs, many military voices that should know the score have been raised advocating the same thing. Including among them such geniuses in air warfare as General Curtis LeMay, these men have expressed the opinion that the only way to bring the war to an early conclusion was to hit the enemy where it hurt most—on the home front. This would naturally mean that the civilian population would feel the effects physically, as well as morally and otherwise, but that is a fortune of war. Our government has given as one of the reasons for the lack of intensive bombings that it didn't want civilians to get hurt, and has repeatedly asserted that because of that policy no North Vietnamese civilians were bombing victims. That fallacy has caused another of the many credibility gaps attributed to the Johnson Administration, since bombs falling on any area where there are people cannot distinguish between them and say a bridge or a highway.

In connection with military men calling for intensive bombing, it is interesting to hear Defense Secretary McNamara raising his voice against it. The latter may be a whiz kid at figuring costs of materiel and at departmental coordination and such, but he has proved he is no military strategist on more than one occasion. Better he left the strategy and fighting to the generals. In any event, after Mr. McNamara made known his opposition at a hearing last Friday, all members of the Senate committee heartily, and without dissent, endorsed the view of the military. Senator Thurmond asserted that Mr. McNamara advocates a position of stalemate, appeasement and no-win.

While indecisive deliberations have been going on in Washington, our Russian "friends," and their "enemy" Red China have been working in unison to give Ho Chi Minh the means to knock our planes out of the skies and kill our boys. So, last week, we began to feel more than ever the effects of this North Vietnamese buildup. Since the Administration now approves dropping bombs on Hanoi and undoubtedly killing civilians, it is apparent that the decision has been made that what must be must be and intensive bombing will bring the war to an early end. This may be hindsight, on our part, but why couldn't this decision have been reached a long time ago? Nice-Nellie attitudes don't win wars as has been proved in other wars the United States has been engaged in.

Enforce the Law?

Much has been said recently about the need for greater respect for law and order, and it is hard to quarrel with this. Any nation without it is in bad trouble.

It is interesting, therefore, to note that a Superior Court judge in Georgia has publicly taken the governor of that state to task for trying to enforce the law.

The governor is insisting that night clubs obey a Sunday closing law and stop the sale of mixed drinks at midnight Saturday.

It is understandable that this has not been greeted by night club operators with cheers and drinks on the house. Or that thirsty patrons have not drunk a toast to the governor.

But it does come as a bit of a shock for a judge of Superior Court to rule that the state does, indeed, have the right to enforce laws prohibiting Sunday liquor sales, and then add:

"This (the governor's belief that the law should be enforced) is worse than a bull in a china shop . . . Someone should put a bridle on him."

Recalling other court actions around the country which have seemed to some to be fairly far afield from traditional judicial prerogatives, it perhaps isn't too startling to sense a feeling here and there that some judges just may be getting too big for their benches.

New York state plans to feed birth control drugs to rats to curtail their reproduction as the most lasting way to eliminate them from the slums. The potion will prevent fertility in both males and females and permanently sterilize most of the young of already pregnant rats. It can be a ten-strike in the ghetto.

"Carefully Chosen Military Targets . . ."

'Quarantine' Not New

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What can a people do who don't want to go to war and yet wish to express their disapproval of the unfriendly acts of a foreign government?

For many years the severance of diplomatic relations has been a psychological way of expressing the disappointment of a nation offended by the action of another government. Today, however, this is proving inadequate, and speculation is arising as to what other measures might be effectively utilized. Though circumstances differ, there are three conspicuous examples currently in the headlines in which governments in Europe and Asia have provoked resentment among peoples of other countries.

First, there is the case of the attack on the British Embassy in Peking by Chinese "Red Guards." Despite this disgraceful performance and the injury to the families of the British diplomats in the building at the time, Red China has offered no public apology, and there are no signs that the incident is even regretted. The London Daily Telegraph says editorially that Great Britain has been remarkably patient in similar incidents but must now seriously consider whether the closing of the Embassy in Peking and the expulsion of Chinese diplomats from London would be the proper

A second example of the indiscreet behavior of a foreign government is the case of General De Gaulle who, as a guest of Canada, deliberately violated the hospitality of that country by publicly endorsing a movement among French-speaking Canadians for a "free Quebec." The Canadian government thus far has not reacted as angrily as it might, for there is a belief that the French president does not reflect the majority opinion of the people of France.

Something of the same feeling prevails in the United States, where General De Gaulle's hostility to NATO and American participation in plans for the defense of Europe has produced an unfavorable attitude toward the French government. No diplomatic break has been suggested, but it is significant that many Americans have refrained from including France on their visits to Europe.

A third example is the failure of the government of Czechoslovakia to punish those who were responsible for the death of Charles Jordan, an American who, with his family, was visiting Prague. There have been in the State Department and in Congress many efforts to improve relations with Czechoslovakia and other countries in the Communist bloc of eastern Europe. Suggestions have been made for extensive cultural exchanges and more visits between citizens. The latest episode, however, can prove discouraging to such attempts.

The idea of a "quarantine" mentioned by the London Daily Telegraph is not new. President Franklin D. Roosevelt made a famous speech on Oct. 5, 1937, calling for an international "quarantine" of aggressors. The world was reluctant at that time to apply even such a mild remedy, though the speech undoubtedly encouraged a widespread U. S. boycott against goods from Japan.

The theory behind a "quarantine" is that peoples have an opportunity to express their disapproval of a government abroad by refusing to buy the products on which its economy depends, and by declining to travel within its borders.

But without the antiwar feeling the draft Kennedy movement would have wrecked long ago on the rock of Kennedy's repeated assertions that he supports President Johnson for reelection.

As it is, Citizens for Kennedy, with headquarters in New York, claims some 60 chapters scattered across the country. Dr. Martin Shepard, the New York co-chairman, says it is continuing to grow.

Opposition to the war also has fueled the organization of the National Conference for New Politics which convenes Friday in Chicago. It embraces antiwar and civil rights groups. There is talk this gathering may lead to the fielding of a national ticket of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., for president, and Dr. Benjamin Spock for vice president. Both are strongly critical of Johnson's Vietnam policies.

However, Spock, a pediatrician nationally known for his writings on baby care, deprecated the likelihood of a national ticket in a letter to a Washington acquaintance.

If either old party chose a half-peaceful candidate, I would think any New Politics national ticket would be withdrawn."

Spock's letter was to Joseph L. Rauh, a Washington lawyer who is seeking to unite "peace Democrats" behind a movement for a peace plank in the 1968 Democratic platform.

Rauh's plan contemplates an effort from the grass roots level to elect peace delegates to the convention. Selection of delegates will begin early next year.

In late July, he sent a 15-page memorandum outlining his ideas to some 350 Democrats. This argued that a third party New Politics or "dump Johnson" draft Kennedy effort were the weakest political moves the peace movement could make.

On the other hand, he contended, an effort on behalf of a peace plank would be a strong move. He suggested that if beaten in the platform committee, a minority report could be brought in and debated in the convention with the full exposure of the television networks.

Dove to Be Delegates
A built-in factor of strength for Rauh's plan is that most of the Senate and House doves presumably will be delegates to the convention. They are men of influence in their state parties. It is unlikely, for instance, that Arkansas Democrats would refuse to make Sen. J. W. Fulbright a delegate if he wants to be one.

Rauh said in an interview he has received expressions of support from four state Democratic chairmen, but only Robert L. Coate of northern California was willing to be quoted by name.

Step to Self-Rule

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In evaluating the upcoming national elections in South Vietnam, one thing should be kept in mind:

The South Vietnamese elections last year that produced the constitutional assembly were pretty botched up, too. But that did not prevent the people from electing a group of men with the courage to stand up against the ruling army junta and write the kind of a constitution they believed in.

At the time of those elections, this reporter talked to men and women in 13 South Vietnamese provinces. Many of these men and women could not read. But those who were picked at random from the people on the streets in rural hamlets, gave surprisingly thoughtful answers for their vote. They listened to the different candidates, picked their arguments apart with the logic of the everyday man and woman.

They turned down some government favorites and hack politicians and elected a surprising number of younger professional men with little experience but considerable idealism.

Furthermore, the constitution written by these independent-minded men so clipped the power of the president and the whole executive branch of the government that the military candidates will not be able to ride roughshod if elected (as it's assumed they will be), so long as they obey the constitution.

The danger that Vietnamese civilians see is that this constitution will be ignored or its provisions whittled away. "The old constitution wasn't bad," a leading Vietnamese attorney-politician told this reporter some months back. "The trouble was, it wasn't followed."

This is where the U.S. embassy and Gen. Westmoreland come in. U.S. officials must have the courage to tell the new government that if it expects continued U.S. help, it must adhere to the Vietnamese-written constitution.

The major national association of Vietnamese students is much more mature in its assessment of the national elections than many American detractors. These students have stated they recognize there will be many election irregularities. They expect the military incumbents to take advantage of their positions to influence the vote.

But these students are not cynical or discouraged. Instead, they have said that in moving toward democracy, these elections are a necessary first step. It is their own duty, the students say, to work to make these elections as clean as possible under the present very difficult circumstances. They're not expecting the impossible.

This student view is the honest way to look at these elections. They're a step toward democracy, a small step perhaps, but a move in the right direction. This doesn't mean that election dishonesty should be ignored. On the contrary, American and Vietnamese newspapermen should report every case of fraud or strongarming and U.S. officials should push for punishment of every irregularity.

Only by broadcasting irregularities and praising fairness where it is found will South Vietnam continue to progress toward democratic self-rule.

Washington Keeping Wary Eye On Haiti Following Purge

By PETER LISAGOR
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—

Every time Haitian dictator Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier strikes a fresh blow at his enemies, the diplomatic and intelligence antennae here crackle with forebodings.

The current intense crackling has resulted from Duvalier's recent elimination of some suspected enemies and the exiling of an ambitious son-in-law to Spain, coupled with reports that Cuba's Fidel Castro has new designs on Port-Au-Prince.

"Papa Doc seems more nervous than he's been recently, and of course Haiti's been squinting on the edge of a volcano for years," says a Caribbean expert, "but things seem so mixed up at the moment that it's hard to sort out."

Officials tend to discount reports that recent Russian shipments of planes and other military equipment to Cuba have been earmarked for a Castro-exported revolution. They acknowledge, however, that Castro would like nothing better than to overturn Duvalier and establish another communist regime in the Caribbean.

A substantial number of Haitians have been working in the Cuban sugar cane fields, and presumably they have trained for the day that opportunity knocks back home. been indoctrinated and Haiti, heavily populated and largely agricultural, is ideally suited for the modern tactics of the guerrilla, officials say.

Castro's problem, if he elects to foment and supply a guerrilla movement in Haiti, would be to move military goods and equipment in, and the suggestion here is that surveillance of any such traffic is substantial.

If Haiti should blow suddenly, it is conceded here, the United States and those Latin American allies who feel under threat from Castroites — notably, Venezuela, Colombia, the Dominican Republic and Guatemala—might be immediately constrained to seal off or quarantine the island. But this, officials say, would depend upon a judgment of Cuba's involvement and what then might be required to meet it.

Duvalier's problem with his son-in-law indicates that he cannot even count on the loyalties of his family, according to sources here. In the dispute, his wife reportedly sided with her daughter, and this has not promoted tranquility in the palace, where Duvalier remains a virtual prisoner of his fears.

Officials say that the Russians have not made significant deliveries of new arms to the Cubans in recent months, but have been replacing some obsolete and damaged MIG aircraft and updating their surface-to-air missiles in Castro's hands. The planes, according to informants, have limited offensive capabilities.

Still, there is no disposition to doubt that given an opportunity Castro will do what he can. He is described as the "X factor" in an attempt to overthrow Duvalier and set up a Marxist regime. If he could get enough Haitian cadre and guerrillas through, and could maintain a supply line, it could make the difference, officials believe.

A large number of delegates who attended the recent meeting of the Latin American Solidarity Organization in Havana have remained there, afraid to return to their home countries, according to information available here. Those who have returned, for the most part, have been questioned thoroughly and kept under surveillance.

Some officials believe that Duvalier may have executed Haitians suspected of having some links with the organization's meeting, which encouraged revolutionary activity throughout the hemisphere.

Water Pollution

By ED GILBRETH
Chicago Daily News Service
CHICAGO, Aug. 29—Water pollution was described as both critical and exaggerated by speakers at a pure-water forum here today (Tues).

Five experts debated the subject at the third annual International Water Quality Symposium.

"The people don't intend to strangle in filth until some scientist comes up with the ultimate answer to pollution," said Joseph W. Penrod, conservation director of the Izaak Walton League.

This view was belittled by Eric F. Johnson, executive secretary of the American Water Works Assn.

"The idea that a stream must be of drinking water quality is completely impractical from an economic viewpoint," he said.

Their remarks were prepared for a five-member panel highlighting the forum's second day.

Some 1,200 scientists, officials and waterworks industrialists are at the three-day session that opened yesterday.

Johnson said the water pollution "crisis" is generated by those who feel "we must overstate our case to make any progress."

He said he agrees that "thirst comes first" in any program for water quality, but that we should not forget that "streams are the logical carriers of our wastes."

"The question becomes one of economics," he said. "What price sewage disposal? What price industrial waste control? What price fishing? What price swimming?"

Penrod accused "professional pollution problem-solvers" of showing "a discouraging, outdated viewpoint." He said:

"They say, 'this is a big problem and we just don't have all the answers, so let's not do anything hasty.'"

Ralph E. Fuhrman, executive secretary of the Water Pollution Control Federation, said that sanitary engineers, because of "their self-appointed penny-pinching" on behalf of taxpayers, have not gone far enough in pollution control.

"We still are not spending enough money to do the job," agreed Mrs. Donald E. Clusen, water resources chairman of the League of Women Voters.

Can American Nazis Survive Rockwell?

By CHARLES NICODEMUS
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—

Whether the scraggly American Nazi Party survives the assassination of its founder, George Lincoln Rockwell, will be essentially a test of the mood of America.

In the eyes of most Americans, the noisy, hate-mongering Rockwell was the party, for what little it was worth.

With the nation now increasingly torn by the kind of racial violence that Rockwell long had craved—and which he predicted would swell the ranks of his tiny following—it will be clinically interesting to observe whether his party can continue to exist without him.

Rockwell and his bush league, racist rabble-rousing would not have survived at all had he not chosen as his idol the man who so brutalized the world that anyone outrageous enough to ape him could not quite be ignored.

The "commander's" heir apparent, Matthias Koehl, is no Rockwell, nor is anyone else in the party.

Rockwell personally kept the party going because, with his peculiarly perverted brilliance, he garnered the attention such a band of crackpots must have to survive.

What this probably means for the country is that to continue its existence, the party and its new leaders must quickly make their mark in the nation's eye, or sink into oblivion.

If that proves to be the party's strategy the nation can probably look forward to some all-out spectacle or demonstration that the communications media—which froze Rockwell out of the news whenever it could—would find difficult not to report.

It is some kind of tribute to the American conscience that Rockwell's neo-Nazism never caught on.

There is, doubtless, something of the bigot in many Americans, whether it is admitted, or flaunted or not.

But the shock and abhorrence at Adolf Hitler's program was so great among Americans, and the shame that it generated so profound, that the chances for any real renaissance of Nazism in this country have been almost nonexistent.

Yet Rockwell had some kind of a following. Not just in terms of khaki-clad, swastika-wearing followers, because there were few of them. But behind the scenes, somebody has been bankrolling the Nazi organization.

Although Rockwell operated on a tattered shoestring, he operated nonetheless.

End Military Presence

By GORDON LINDSAY

Chicago Daily News Service
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Aug. 29—Britain has ended her 172-year-old military presence in Africa. The last of a company of South Wales Borders has left Botswana (Bechuanaland).

Unless turmoil demands that British guns should one day return, they will be the last to serve on African soil.

As the Johannesburg Star pointed out it is an irony that a tradition which for so long was concerned with defense of white advancement against the resistance of the blacks, should end in one sense with the defense of black advancement against white resistance.

The job of the soldiers in Botswana was to guard the $700,000 Central African Relay Station which Britain built to breach the censorship after Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence.

Threats and not arms laid siege to the station in Francistown. The 21 months of guard duty was unremarkable for heroic deeds or grand gestures on either side. The only fighting took place in bar rooms.

Amid threats that the white townspeople would blow the station up, a company of the Gloucestershire Regiment was flown in from Swaziland. They were replaced in turn with a second company of Gloucesters and companies of the Royal Irish Fusiliers and lastly the Borderers from Aden.

Never stronger than 120 men, the garrison watched the station around the clock with machine guns, rifles, bayonets, truncheons, guard dogs, sandbags and searchlights, all behind an 9-foot-high security fence.

News services, interviews and music were beamed to Rhodesia for 15 hours a day on two wave lengths. Salisbury jammed the broadcasts it did not like. After initial denials, Britain admitted that very little was getting through. Still the radio kept talking at a cost of $560,000 a year.

Senate Confirms Marshall Seating

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thurgood Marshall, great-grandson of a slave and a longtime fighter for equal rights for Negroes, has won Senate confirmation as the nation's first Negro Supreme Court justice.

By a 69 to 11 margin, the Senate confirmed Wednesday President Johnson's nomination of Marshall, 57, who was for many years chief legal officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Marshall, currently U.S. solicitor general, will fill a high court vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Tom C. Clark, who stepped down when his son, Ramsey Clark, was named attorney general earlier this year.

Swearing in of Marshall is not expected until October, when the court reconvenes for its autumn term.

Marshall's overwhelming confirmation came in the face of charges by opponents—all from the South except Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.—that his seating would assure a lop-sided division of the court in favor of "ultra-liberal activists."

Opponents said this majority was bent on bending the Constitution to its will rather than interpreting its true intent. But backers said Marshall brought a rare depth of experience to the bench and some forecast a surprise for those who believe Marshall's stance on crucial issues can be foretold in advance.

Marshall, a burly 6-foot 2-inches and 210 pounds, was the NAACP's chief counsel for 23 years and won 29 of 32 civil rights cases he argued before the high court—including the

Fire Destroys Empty House Near Saugerties

A very old house on Patch Road property near Glasco Turnpike, Saugerties, burned to the ground early this morning according to Fire Chief Frank Ward of Centerville-Cedar Grove Fire Company.

The two-story building, which has not been occupied for about 34 years, is allegedly reported to be part of the Dorothy Reilly property.

The blaze was thought to be incendiary, according to Ward who said that when firemen arrived at 2:30 a. m., the house was engulfed in flames.

Firemen were on the scene until 4 a. m.

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A special session of a Berkshire County grand jury continues hearing evidence today in the fatal beating of Bonnie Pearson, 19, daughter of a Newport, N.H., textile executive.

A murder indictment is sought against Bruce McConnell, 21, of North Adams. He was held without bail Monday after pleading innocent to a homicide charge in District Court.

Presentation of the evidence may take three days, Asst. Dist. Atty. William R. Flynn of Pittsfield said Wednesday. He said 33 witnesses have been summoned.

Estate at $250,000

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The estate of Mrs. James R. Westmoreland, mother of the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, has been probated at a value of more than $250,000.

Court records show Gen. William C. Westmoreland's mother, who died at the age of 81 in July, willed her estate to him and to her daughter, Mrs. Heyward Clarkson of Columbia. The general's father, who was in the textile business, died in 1964 leaving an estate probated at $1.2 million.

She was also given custody of their two children, Guy Williams, 2, and Melissa Lee, 1. She charged extreme mental cruelty.

Brown to Teach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Edmund G. Brown, lawyer and ex-governor, is going to be a school teacher.

A university spokesman said Brown, California's two-term Democratic governor defeated by Ronald Reagan last year, will be paid two-ninths of a full professor's annual salary.

Third Political Party Specter Hangs at Parley

CHICAGO (AP) — A five-day convention of civil rights and peace advocates started today with some delegates considering formation of a third political party to try to defeat President Johnson in 1968.

Leaders of the National Conference of New Politics (NCNP) said the convention would consist of "open and democratic" discussion of the problems of civil rights, the cold war and local political problems.

Some of the nation's leading civil rights and antiwar advocates are scheduled to attend.

They include Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Dr. Benjamin Spock, noted baby doctor and critic of the war in Vietnam; Floyd McKissick, chairman of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE); Rep. Julian Bond of Georgia; and comedian Dick Gregory.

H. Rap Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, also was mentioned as planning to attend.

Some delegates to the convention have said they hope to form a third political party for the 1968 presidential elections with King and Spock as candidates.

Others reportedly favor concentrating efforts on local elections and forming a solid coalition between civil rights and peace organizations.

An estimated 2,000 delegates were expected to register by Saturday.

King, who has been cool publicly toward a presidential bid on the proposed NCNP ticket, is slated to deliver the convention's keynote address tonight.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks, 86, of Saugerties, who died Monday, were held Wednesday 2 p. m. at the Seamon Funeral Home, 15 Deegan Avenue, Saugerties, with the Rev. Senate Confirms Marshall Seating

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thurgood Marshall, great-grandson of a slave and a longtime fighter for equal rights for Negroes, has won Senate confirmation as the nation's first Negro Supreme Court justice.

By a 69 to 11 margin, the Senate confirmed Wednesday President Johnson's nomination of Marshall, 57, who was for many years chief legal officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Marshall, currently U.S. solicitor general, will fill a high court vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Tom C. Clark, who stepped down when his son, Ramsey Clark, was named attorney general earlier this year.

Swearing in of Marshall is not expected until October, when the court reconvenes for its autumn term.

Marshall's overwhelming confirmation came in the face of charges by opponents—all from the South except Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.—that his seating would assure a lop-sided division of the court in favor of "ultra-liberal activists."

Opponents said this majority was bent on bending the Constitution to its will rather than interpreting its true intent. But backers said Marshall brought a rare depth of experience to the bench and some forecast a surprise for those who believe Marshall's stance on racial issues can be foretold in advance.

Marshall, a burly 6-foot 2-inches and 210 pounds, was the NAACP's chief counsel for 23 years and won 29 of 32 civil rights cases he argued before the high court—including the far-reaching 1954 school desegregation case.

Marshall twice before won Senate confirmation, in 1962 as a federal appeals court judge and in 1965 as solicitor general. After Wednesday's vote, Marshall issued this statement from his Justice Department office:

"I am greatly honored. Let me take this opportunity to affirm my deep faith in this nation and its people and to pledge that I shall be ever mindful of my obligation to the Constitution and to the goal of equal justice under law."

Marshall, son of a sleeping-car porter, was nominated by the President June 13. The Senate Judiciary Committee, after five days of hearings, recommended confirmation 11 to 5.

Marshall, who graduated in 1933 with honors from Howard University Law School in Washington, D.C., was raised in Baltimore, Md. He is married to the former Cecilia Suyat, a Hawaiian of Filipino descent, and they have two sons, Thurgood Jr., 10, and John, 9.

Marshall's first wife, Vivian Burey Marshall, died in 1954 after 26 years of marriage.

Police Caution On Bike Riders

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy today said there would be more bicycles on the road over Labor Day than at any time of the year. He urged motorists to exercise extreme caution. "Bike motorists," Murphy exclaimed, "should be given a brake and a break." He said cycling has become the number one participation sport.

Fire Destroys Empty House Near Saugerties

A very old house on Patch Road property near Glasco Turnpike, Saugerties, burned to the ground early this morning according to Fire Chief Frank Ward of Centerville-Cedar Grove Fire Company.

The two-story building, which has not been occupied for about 34 years, is allegedly reported to be part of the Dorothy Reilly property.

The blaze was thought to be incendiary, according to Ward who said that when firemen arrived at 2:30 a. m., the house was engulfed in flames.

Firemen were on the scene until 4 a. m.

Hear More Data In Mass. Slaying

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A special session of a Berkshire County grand jury continues hearing evidence today in the fatal beating of Bonnie Pearson, 19, daughter of a Newport, N.H., textile executive.

A murder indictment is sought against Bruce McConnell, 21, of North Adams. He was held without bail Monday after pleading innocent to a homicide charge in District Court.

Presentation of the evidence may take three days, Asst. Dist. Atty. William R. Flynn of Pittsfield said Wednesday. He said 33 witnesses have been summoned. Miss Pearson's body was found Sunday, Aug. 20, in a Williamstown garage.

Estate at $250,000

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The estate of Mrs. James R. Westmoreland, mother of the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, has been probated at a value of more than $250,000.

Court records show Gen. William C. Westmoreland's mother, who died at the age of 81 in July, willed her estate to him and to her daughter, Mrs. Heyward Clarkson of Columbia. The general's father, who was in the textile business, died in 1964 leaving an estate probated at $1.2 million.

Brown to Teach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Edmund G. Brown, lawyer and ex-governor, is going to be a school teacher.

Brown will teach a graduate seminar in public administration this year at the University of California. A university spokesman said Brown, California's two-term Democratic governor defeated by Ronald Reagan last year, will be paid two-ninths of a full professor's annual salary.

Third Political Party Specter Hangs at Parley

CHICAGO (AP)—A five-day convention of civil rights and peace advocates started today with some delegates considering formation of a third political party to try to defeat President Johnson in 1968.

Leaders of the National Conference of New Politics (NCNP) said the convention would consist of "open and democratic" discussion of the problems of civil rights, the cold war and local political problems.

Some of the nation's leading civil rights and antiwar advocates are scheduled to attend. They include Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Dr. Benjamin Spock, noted baby doctor and critic of the war in Vietnam; Floyd McKissick, chairman of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE); Rep. Julian Bond of Georgia, and comedian Dick Gregory.

H. Rap Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, also was mentioned as planning to attend. Some delegates to the convention have said they hope to form a third political party for the 1968 presidential elections with King and Spock as candidates.

Others reportedly favor concentrating efforts on local election and forming a solid coalition between civil rights and peace organizations.

An estimated 2,000 delegates were expected to register by Saturday. King, who has been cool publicly toward a presidential bid on the proposed NCNP ticket, is slated to deliver the convention's keynote address tonight.

London Hopes To Avoid Total Peking Break

LONDON (AP) — Britain, hoping to keep its listening post in Peking and its hold on Hong Kong, sought today to avoid a total break with Red China by offering to discuss normalization of relations following violent incidents in Peking and London.

There was no detectable sign, however, that the British expected the Chinese to agree to a message suggesting talks.

The offer Wednesday came by British Foreign Secretary George Brown to Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi, was seen primarily as an effort to prevent a further deterioration in relations at a time when British officials feel a change in China's leadership may be near and want observers on the scene.

No one would say so officially, but British officials are known to feel that Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's campaign to purge his enemies is heading toward a climax in which his authority may diminish.

British officials declined to say whether Brown proposed a personal meeting with Chen or discussions through normal diplomatic channels.

The Foreign Office said Sheng Ping, China's charge d'affaires in London, also was handed a copy of the message but refused to accept it.

The Peking-London feud has been over Hong Kong, the British colony of 4 million on Red China's southern coast. Local Communists, with encouragement from Peking, have been trying to gain the upper hand there.

After Britain ignored Red China's ultimatum to free Communist newspapermen held on sedition charges, a mob burned out the British mission in Peking on Aug. 22.

This set off another anti-British demonstration in Peking Wednesday.

Matthews Out, Raps City and Resnick

The following is the text of the resignation statement submitted to The Freeman by S. James Matthews, yesterday. Matthews served as attorney to the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency.

"I have this day submitted my resignation as attorney for the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency. The amount of time I have is to be determined by the Agency. I have no desire to leave the urban renewal program without legal counsel nor do I believe it would be fair to my replacement to merely transfer to him my files. The field of urban renewal law is new in development.

"My resignation is not motivated by any factor other than a desire to devote my complete activities to my private law practice. The amount of time I have to spend on urban renewal matters has not been fully compensated for.

Wanted to Quit Before

"For some time, I have desired to resign and would have done so but for fear of being accused of timidity while the agency was under criticism. I believe the employment of Eric Hemphill, the executive director, in a position of greater responsibility is vindication of the local agency and I now feel it proper to terminate my relationship with the urban renewal projects.

"The congressman, the mayor and another, aspiring to city office, have had a 'field day' with headlines in recent months. They have criticized but offered nothing constructive as an alternative. Nothing.

"Today as a result of their prattlings, the city finds itself without an urban renewal director. That Mr. Hemphill was one of outstanding ability is learned from the fact that a large community with an extensive urban renewal program, hired him at a several thousand dollar increment in salary, even when he was under attack here. Although not generally known, several nearby cities tried to persuade him to go to their communities.

Don't Need Abuse

"Kingston has only a remnant of its urban renewal agency. People have become apprehensive about serving in the non-salaried post. Justifiably so. Duty of citizenship does not require one to submit to assassination of one's character and good name. How many people, because of this, will decline to serve in other advisory commissions of the city, will never be known.

"Nor, has the effect been all in Kingston. The regional field coordinator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development has been transferred and the field representative for Kingston, out of the same office it is rumored, is leaving because of what was allowed to happen here.

"The local staff is completely demoralized. The regional office has felt the sting and now, the matter reposes in Washington where more politically astute heads are attempting to find a way of saving face for the critics.

"The city has a contract of over three years duration in which a commitment was made to enforce certain updated codes of the community. Twenty per cent of the houses of Kingston were to be inspected each year for violation of the building code. Not a single violation has been prosecuted in those three years.

City Warned

"The city has received warnings of the failure to keep its commitment. These have gone unheeded. Instead, blame is passed to the urban renewal agency.

"Those who were vocal about demolition in Broadway East, should direct their ire towards the situation at 57 Foxhall Avenue and 48 Hunter Street and elsewhere, where the city has torn down buildings months ago. The rubble still remains and has not been carted away nor the area fenced, even though the adjacent houses are to remain. Perhaps we will now be subject to outcries of righteous indignation from the Mayor and the Congressman.

months. Who are the ones who are responsible for having at least four business firms say because of the upheaval, they no longer contemplate building within the urban renewal area. Who are responsible for a letter reinstating the projects, written over two months ago, to still languish on Commissioner Horan's desk.

"Mayor Garraghan is one who must bear the responsibility. In nearly two years in office, he has never met along with the Urban Renewal Agency.

Blast Resnick

"Congressman Resnick for another, he has held up a Federal go-ahead for several months in his usual rule or ruin tactics. The drift toward outlying areas by business firms has been hastened by the failure to get the uptown project going. The tax base of the city has received a rude jolt because of the manipulation of these few.

"The community must now undergo an agonizing reappraisal. What do we want of Kingston? What are we willing to pay for that achievement?

"Are we going to continue to ride the Dale Lakes and the Erie Hemphills out of town? What do we have to attract and keep bright young talent who come in our midst only to find apathy and who leave in disillusionment. Do we really want them in the first instance.

"Where are the responsible voices of the community who should realize that we face difficult decision in any undertaking of size? Where is the consensus to overcome the voices of personal motivation.

"Kingston is at the crossroads. It will be interesting to see if those who so glibly criticized now have the ability to utter much more than platitudes."

Need Car Insurance Fee on New Policies

ALBANY — Beginning September 1, New York motorists will be required to pay at least 10 per cent of the annual premium if they purchase a new automobile liability insurance policy.

The new requirement, the result of an amendment to the Vehicle and Traffic Law, applies only to new policies.

It does not apply to a policy which replaces or continues a policy previously issued by the same company without lapse of coverage; or to an additional policy issued to the same person by the same company; or to a policy which is a replacement for a policy issued by a prior company if the same agent or broker placed both policies.

Insurance companies will be responsible to see that purchasers comply with the law and must certify compliance to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Also effective September 1, it will become a misdemeanor to participate in, or promote, races or speed contests—without permission of the state, city, town or village having jurisdiction.

A misdemeanor is punishable by a fine of not more than $100 and/or imprisonment of not more than 30 days. A second conviction within 18 months calls for a fine of not more than $200 and/or imprisonment of not more than 90 days, and a third within 18 months after the first conviction will bring a fine of not more than $500 and/or imprisonment for not more than 180 days.

Curb Milwaukee Night Marchers

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Squads of riot-clad police backed up Mayor Henry Maier's ban against demonstrations with a show of force Wednesday night, twice scattering bands of Negro demonstrators who clustered in a chanting chorus outside their burned out headquarters.

At least 50 persons were arrested and two were injured in the sweeps by police outside the fire-ravaged hull of the "Freedom House" of the Milwaukee YOUTH Council, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The demonstrators said they would hold an indoor rally to night—possibly inside a Roman Catholic church.

No shots were fired in the clashes Wednesday night, but debris flew as the police made their second move against the demonstrators.

The police acted after Mayor Maier declared a state of emergency and imposed a 30-day ban on marches and demonstrations on Milwaukee's streets and sidewalks.

"There'll be a rally tomorrow, maybe in St. Boniface church," said the Rev. James E. Groppi, assistant pastor at the Roman Catholic parish in the predominantly Negro Inner Core, Wednesday night.

The priest, who said he was chased by police during their second drive against the "Freedom House," is adviser to the youth council and the leader of its open housing marches into the predominantly Polish South Side.

The mayor's proclamation of a state of emergency came after the second night of marches Tuesday night drew increasingly hostile and more unruly throngs of whites. The marches resulted in 24 injuries and 61 arrests.

Wednesday, police secured the area around "Freedom House" within about 15 minutes.

Long Convention May Rule Out Count of Viet GI Votes

Late adjournment of the State Constitutional Convention (Sept. 26) will cause some delay in printing the Nov. 7 General Election ballots and may result in some New York State servicemen's ballots in Vietnam not being counted. A late distribution of Military ballots may pose an almost impossible deadline to return some soldier ballots from Vietnam.

However, the Ulster County Board of Elections does not see the matter as critical. To date, only 147 servicemen and 39 dependents have applied for military ballots and many of these servicemen are in the country. Some election officials have speculated that as many as 70 per cent of the state's approximately 16,000 servicemen in Vietnam, plus spouses and dependents, will not receive the special absentee ballot they have requested in time to mark them and have them returned to their home election boards before 1 p.m. Nov. 6, as required by law.

Under the Election Law Sept. 22 is the last day for Board of Elections to make final and conclusive determination as to duly nominated candidates, amendments, referendums, propositions and questions for military ballot.

The law also provides that Sept. 22 is the date to begin mailing military ballots to voters, and is also the last day for Board of Elections to add to register name and addresses of military voters who prior to this date filed application for military ballot. Incidentally, this date is the last day for didates, amendments, referendums, propositions and questions for military ballot and is also the late day for Secretary of State to certify candidates to be voted for at general election. It will be entirely possible to print ballots containing the names of candidates immediately after certification of candidates on Sept. 22, withhold then include a "package" of amendments plus the constitution, military ballots until after adjournment of the State Constitutional Convention and as they will appear on the ballot.

This has been suggested in a directive from Secretary of State John Lomenzo to all county boards. He has requested that ballots omitting amendments, be printed immediately after Sept. 22, and the "package" be printed after convention adjournment. The Ulster County Board of Elections sees the matter of military ballots a little "tight" under the circumstances but not "critical."

Last year the date for certification was Sept. 30 with election day Nov. 8. All ballots were printed and prepared for mail on Sept. 30. This year it may be in October before, ballots are printed and ready to go out to service men. Oct. 2 is the first day for military voter, honorably discharged subsequent to Oct. 1, to apply in person at the Board of Elections to have his name entered on the registers. This is applicable also to military voter who has not filed an application.

Stowed Away Twice

NEW YORK (AP) — The handsome young Irishman had an easy explanation when asked why he had twice in 12 months stowed away on the liner Queen Elizabeth.

"I like it here," John Joseph Hamill told inquiring federal officials Tuesday. "I wanted to see America."

A year ago Hamill, 23, of Belfast, Ireland, stowed away on the Queen Elizabeth and managed to get ashore for a week in New York before federal agents caught him. He was later deported.

This time he was three days out of Southampton, England, when he was picked up while sipping coffee on the liner's promenade deck. A U.S. commissioner held him in $5,000 bail.

Hayfever Threat Mounting for Annual Onslaught; Expect Many Sufferers

NEW YORK (AP) — Hay fever...plague mankind, I am (gesundheit! Thank you) and ver...a-a-choo!...is one of the told. worst blights that can...sniff. It can make your eyes tear the most miserable of all sea-

Local Chapter Receives Credit

Proceeds from the children's carnivals held recently in the area were credited to the local chapter of Muscular Dystrophy. There are approximately 10 local patients of Muscular Dystrophy which the local chapter serves. Over the Labor Day weekend, Jerry Lewis will once again put on a telethon for MD and locally a staff of volunteers will be on hand at the Rondout National Bank, 635 Broadway, to staff the many phones being used for the telethon. Chairman of this event will be Ken E. Osterhoudt, treasurer of the local chapter; assistant cashier of Rondout National Bank and manager of the Woodstock Office. Osterhoudt advised that on Sunday, Sept. 24, the local MD Chapter will sponsor a clam bake on the grounds of Bloomington Inn. Osterhoudt stresses the heartfelt thanks of the local chapter officers and directors to all the area children who put on these carnivals. Every penny helps towards seeking a cure for MD. Osterhoudt feels that children who spend time to help others like this need great recognition.

Harry Hayfever Sufferer undoubtedly greeted the hay fever season, which officially started this month, with antihistamines. This is the time ragweed is known to pollinate to the annoyance of Harry and his ilk. Other Weeds Other "late weeds" which might be growing in your area—Yellow Dock, Pigweed and Lamb's Quarters—contribute to the pollen problem, but Ragweed is the worst offender, causing 90 per cent of hay fever cases. Most plants pollinate in the Spring, leaving discomfort in their wake. In early Summer, the pollen count falls off, ranging from about 0 to 2 until Aug. 15, when it can skyrocket to 40 or 50. This week, for instance, it shot up to 45 in the New York City area. A count of 1 or 2 is enough to send highly sensitive sufferers into spasms of sneezing.

With excessive rainfall this year, ragweed is thriving. In some parts of Staten Island, for example, it has grown to 12 feet in height. Much of it grows in gardens whose unsuspecting owners unwittingly cultivate it as a beautiful flower! There are basically two kinds of ragweed—one the giant variety, and the other the short, or along a stem. The giant variety has broad, pointed leaves while these on the common variety are small, nodule-type blooms are almost fern-like. The best way to destroy either menace is to pull them out by their roots. A chemical spray also is available.

State Needs Pickers

The New York State apple harvest will need the importation of 1,185 foreign, or offshore, workers to pick the crop. Of this figure, 885 will be needed in the Hudson Valley, it was reported. State Industrial Commissioner M. P. Catherwood announced today that the number of needed workers was certified by the State Labor Department and was sent to the Secretary of Labor. Commissioner Catherwood said that certification was made only after the New York State Employment Service reported that its intensive recruitment for the apple harvest indicated that adequate numbers of domestic employees would not be available. The Commissioner stressed that the State Employment Service would continue its domestic recruitment efforts and that most of the 15,000 workers needed would be obtained from domestic sources, but said that it appears certain that foreign workers will also have to be used if crop loss is to be prevented.

21 Boys Attended Scout-CAC Program

Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, embarked on a new project this summer, An Invitation to Adventure, a one-week camping experience for boys who are not presently members of the Scouts.

Working with the Ulster County Community Action Committee, the council set up a program at Camp Tri-Mount, East Jewett, and opened up its facilities to 21 boys from Kingston. The boys ranged in age from 12 to 15. For most of the boys, it was the first time they had experienced the thrill of living outdoors and being close to nature.

The Scout Camp Staff assisted greatly in making this program a success. Swimming, hiking, camp lore, woodcraft, and nature study were all part of the daily activity. Scout Staff Member Bruce Stafford was in charge of the group and was assisted by Kingston Leaders Sheldon Brown and James Fitzgerald.

Scout Executive Alex MacDonald expressed satisfaction with the program in its first year of operation. UCCAC would like to see the program continued and even expanded next summer.

Boys attending were: Allan Williams, Ronald Ector, Raymond Adorno, William Brandt, Steve Conway, Frank Denter, Alfred Drew, Edward Ector, Solomon Edwards, Raymond Glass, Donald Glass, Alan Golski, Henry Jones, John Kionowski, Anthony Lindsay, Sergio Mapes, Vito Mapes, Clifford Marshall, David Mitchell and Gary Salmi.

The dibble and the hoe were the earliest farm implements used by man; he knew nothing of the plow.

Homegrown UFO's

While warm weather is still with us, it is smart to remember that unidentified flying objects—such as candy wrappers, for example—can be highly dangerous when whirling around inside moving automobiles. Loose papers suddenly caught in the wind when a window is open will obscure the driver's vision and cause accidents, an auto authority says.

Don't clutter up the back shelf with candy wrappers, unpaid bills, credit card receipts or paper saucers. They could fly.

Costa Rica is almost exclusively European and its capital, San Jose, claims to be the center of the purest European blood.

Neatness Counts

CHICAGO (AP) — Police have been required to wear only black holsters and belts without any tooling, metalwork or jewelry and holsters must be worn no longer than 10 inches below the top of the trousers. Supt. James B. Conlisk says his order is in keeping with the department's stress on neatness.

Submarines Are Cool and Quiet

YORK, Pa. (AP) — In a submarine, noise levels must be held to an absolute minimum. Vibration interferes with the sub's sonar system and can lead to detection by enemy vessels.

Not only are subs quiet. They're air-conditioned, too. A submarine would have to surface if its supply of conditioned air were cut off.

To insure smooth performance, engineers have developed an electronic forecasting method to test each submarine air-conditioning unit before installation. By "listening" to the units in operation, engineers of Borg-Warner's York Division can tell whether each unit will meet the Navy's exacting standards over a prolonged period.

Engineers also have adapted the same technique to test air conditioners that will be used in homes, offices and stores.

Dance in County, Drink in Town

BELEN, N.M. (AP) — At Dave's Tavern in Belen, the patrons dance in the county and drink in the town.

This is because the city limits line runs through the middle of the tavern, with the bar section located inside the city and the dance hall in the county.

This hadn't bothered anyone until recently, when burglars broke into the dance hall and went through it to cross the city-county line and rob the bar. This left Belen Police Chief Felix Quintana and Valencia County Sheriff Jack Elkins with a question of jurisdiction.

They solved it by having Quintana investigate the crime. He made duplicate reports to Sheriff Elkins.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Democratic Town Caucus Friday, Sept. 8

Woodstock Democratic Party will hold a town caucus for the purpose of nominating candidates for town office Friday, Sept. 8, at 7 p.m. at the Woodstock Town Hall. In announcing the caucus, John Bonilla, Democratic town chairman and candidate for county legislator, pointed out its importance in the following statement:

"Every two years a caucus of the enrolled voters of each party meet to select their town candidates. It is the only opportunity a voter has to directly influence the selection of candidates on the town level. Voters who are not enrolled in a party, so-called independent voters, have absolutely no voice in whose name will appear on the ballot in November. Because of this I encourage every voter, whatever his political leanings, to join his party.

"To Democrats, I say, come and exercise your right and duty as a citizen. Attend the Democratic Caucus. The two-party system is the backbone of our political heritage and Woodstock is about to become a two-party town once again. "Candidates will be selected for town supervisor, councilman, Justice of the Peace, road superintendent, town clerk and assessor."

Area Residents In Joint Recital Friday

Performing Arts of Woodstock will present a joint recital Friday night which promises to be a high point in this season's offerings. Patricia Hilgers and Barbrouck Dougherty, two highly accomplished area residents, will sing a program of Brahms, Schubert, Handel, Purcell, Malotte, and Scott. Of special interest are songs by Tchaikovsky and Rachmaninoff, with an inspired song cycle, "Songs of Travel," by American composer Ralph Vaughan Williams.

There will also be a number of rarely performed German lieder. Accompaniment for the evening will be piano, played by Beatrice Bright, of Saugerties, whose decade-long involvement in Hudson Valley music has done much to further the public's interest and participation.

The show begins at 8:30 in the Little Theatre Off-The-Green in Woodstock. Proceeds from the concert will benefit Woodstock Arts Choralis.

Patricia Hilgers, a member of Ars Choralis, has sung with professional chorales. Her strong, controlled contralto voice will fill the theatre generously. Dougherty, Kingston resident and professional singer, is a noted lyric baritone.

Dutch Reformed

At Woodstock's Dutch Reformed Church, by the Woodstock Green, the Rev. Donald Edgar Hicks, Sunday, Sept. 3, 11 a.m. morning worship; Sermon Hosts of Christ; Mrs. Carl Harrington at the carillon and organ; Adult Bible Study with Elder Joseph Tringali at 8:45 a.m.; a nursery program for the care of small children during the worship hour.

Consistory meeting, Sept. 5 at 7:30 p.m.; Choir rehearsal, 8 p.m. Thursday. Singers in all voices welcome and needed. Sunday Church School begins Sunday, Sept. 10, rally day. The opening of the bids for the construction of the new Christian Life and Work Center is Thursday, Sept. 7.

Methodist Church

The Rev. James W. Ock will conduct worship services at 10 a. m. at Overlook Methodist Church. Mrs. Elsie Scott will be guest soloist.

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday at 8 p. m., Saturdays at 9:30 a. m. and at sundown, Sundays at 10 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m.

Religious worship services are also held every week day at 7 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The weekday services are an innovation for Ahavath Israel so that the members and congregants in the area may be able to attend a daily religious worship. All members and others are asked to cooperate and attend all services, or as many as possible.

At the late Friday services held at 8 p. m., the prayers are read and services conducted by Rabbi Harry Z. Schechtman. The liturgy is chanted by Cantor L. Larry Jacobs. The names of those whose yubilaith are observed during the week are mentioned and the memorial kadish prayer is read in their memory.

On Saturday morning, Sept. 2, services will include the prayer for the new month of Elul, which falls on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Elul is the last month of the Jewish calendar year, as the first day of the next month is Rosh Hashonah, or the Jewish New Year. The Saturday morning liturgy is chanted by Herman G. Rafalowsky, who volunteers his service to this religious worship. Saturday, the Bar Mitzvah of David Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gordon, will be celebrated; and Rabbi Schechtman will give the Bar Mitzvah the religious charge due at the celebration, and offer his blessing. At these Bar Mitzvah occasions, presentations are made to the celebrant of a Bible by the Sisterhood of the congregation, a Prayer Book by the Board of the Talmud Torah of Kingston, and a Bar Mitzvah certificate by the congregation.

Activities at Ahavath Israel are beginning to get underway. The U.S.V., the youth organization of the congregation, will hold its first meeting on Sunday, Sept. 10, at 7 p. m. at the synagogue, under the chairmanship of its new president, Ann Scher. The agenda will consist of a slide show of past United Synagogue Youth events and a make-your-own sundae set-up for refreshments. All perspective members (age 13 and older) are invited. Registration for the Hebrew classes at the Talmud Torah of Kingston, which meets at the school building of Ahavath Israel, is open to all Jewish children. The primary classes meet Sundays, beginning with Sept. 17, at 10:15 a. m., and are open to children of ages 5 and 7. The Elementary Hebrew School classes, beginning with the 1st Grade, is open to children ages 8 to 13, the first grade for 8 year olds, and beginners. The Elementary Hebrew School classes begin Monday, Sept. 11, at 3:45 p. m. Registration will be held on the first day of class session.

Congregation Ahavath Israel is a conservative congregation, and is affiliated with the United Synagogue of America, the National body of conservative synagogues. Membership is open to all Jewish people who desire to affiliate with the traditional historic teachings of Judaism, as taught by Conservative Judaism.

Somerset Maugham's novel, "The Moon and Sixpence," is believed to have been based on the life of the French painter, Eugene Gauguin.

THE AMERICA:

The Story of the World's Most Famous Yacht

(Pub. By David McKay Company, Inc $6.95)

The Public Is Most Cordially Invited to Attend . . .

This lively, historically faithful account of the yacht America tells her whole story for the first time. Launched at New York in 1851, the America soon began a celebrated career that lasted nearly a century.

Off England the America wrested from the Royal Yacht Squadron the most cherished prize in yachting—an ornate silver trophy since called "The America's Cup." Afterward her New York Yacht Club owners sold her to a playboy British nobleman.

During the Civil War, while sailed by a mysterious Irishman, the America slipped back across the Atlantic and performed for the Confederacy a perilous secret mission. Months later, finding her scuttled in a Florida creek, Union sailors raised and armed her.

In 1870 the America successfully defended her name—sake cup against a British challenger. In 1873, following a quiet Navy Department auction, General Benjamin F. Butler, a scheming politician got the yacht cheap. While ruthless elsewhere, Butler treated the America tenderly and "raced" her zestfully. Years later a group of Bostonians rescued her and "sold" her to the Naval Academy for one dollar.

On Palm Sunday, 1942, a snowstorm brought down the shed built to protect the America and completely crushed her.

21 Boys Attended Scout-CAC Program

Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, embarked on a new project this summer, an invitation to Adventure, a one-week camping experience for boys who are not presently members of the Scouts.

Working with the Ulster County Community Action Committee, the council set up a program at Camp Tri-Mount, East Jewett, and opened up its facilities to 21 boys from Kingston. The boys ranged in age from 12 to 15. For most of the boys, it was the first time they had experienced the thrill of living outdoors and being close to nature.

The Scout Camp Staff assisted greatly in making this program a success. Swimming, hiking, camp lore, woodcraft, and nature study were all part of the daily activity. Scout Staff Member Bruce Stafford was in charge of the group and was assisted by Kingston Leaders Sheldon Brown and James Fitzgerald.

Scout Executive Alex MacDonald expressed satisfaction with the program in its first year of operation. UCCAC would like to see the program continued and even expanded next summer.

Boys attending were: Allan Williams, Ronald Ector, Raymond Adorno, William Brandt, Steve Conway, Frank Denter, Alfred Drew, Edward Ector, Solomon Edwards, Raymond Glass, Donald Glass, Alan Golski, Henry Jones, John Kionowski, Anthony Lindsay, Sergio Mapes, Vito Mapes, Clifford Marshall, David Mitchell and Gary Salami.

The dibble and the hoe were the earliest farm implements used by man; he knew nothing of the plow.

Homegrown UFO's

While warm weather is still with us, it is smart to remember that unidentified flying objects—such as candy wrappers, for example—can be highly dangerous when whirling around inside moving automobiles. Loose papers suddenly caught in the wind when a window is open will obscure the driver's vision and cause accidents, an auto authority says.

Don't clutter up the back shelf with candy wrappers, unpaid bills, credit card receipts or paper saucers. They could fly.

Costa Rica is almost exclusively European and its capital, San Jose, claims to be the center of the purest European blood.

Neatness Counts

CHICAGO (AP) — Police have been required to wear only black holsters and belts without any tooling, metalwork or jewelry and holsters must be worn no longer than 10 inches below the top of the trousers. Supt. James B. Conlisk says his order is in keeping with the department's stress on neatness.

Submarines Are Cool and Quiet

YORK, Pa. (AP) — In a submarine, noise levels must be held to an absolute minimum. Vibration interferes with the sub's sonar system and can lead to detection by enemy vessels.

Not only are subs quiet; they're air-conditioned, too. A submarine would have to surface if its supply of conditioned air were cut off.

To insure smooth performance, engineers have developed an electronic forecasting method to test each submarine air-conditioning unit before installation. By "listening" to the units in operation, engineers of Borg-Warner's York Division can tell whether each unit will meet the Navy's exacting standards over a prolonged period.

Engineers also have adapted the same technique to test air conditioners that will be used in homes, offices and stores.

Dance in County, Drink in Town

BELDEN, N.M. (AP) — At Dave's Tavern in Belden, the patrons dance in the county and drink in the town.

This is because the city limits line runs through the middle of the tavern, with the bar section located inside the city and the dance hall in the county.

This hadn't bothered anyone until recently, when burglars broke into the dance hall and went through it to cross the city-county line and rob the bar. This left Belden Police Chief Felix Quintana and Valencia County Sheriff Jack Elkins with a question of jurisdiction.

They solved it by having Quintana investigate the crime. He made duplicate reports to Sheriff Elkins.

Two Are Killed Upstate; Light Plane Crashes

OXFORD, N.Y. (AP) — Two persons were killed Wednesday night when their single-engine plane crashed into a field during an electrical storm.

State Police tentatively identified the victims as William A. Culberson, 39, of East Point, Ga., and Bruce MacLain, 38, of Basking Ridge, N.J.

They said Culberson was believed to have been piloting the plane.

The flight's point of departure or destination were not known immediately.

The Cessna 182 plowed into a farm field about 7 p.m. near this village about 25 miles northeast of Binghamton. Deputies said the craft apparently had been struck by lightning. It fell about 1,000 feet, they said.

Mrs. Hubert Ryan, upon whose property the plane crashed, said she saw pieces of the craft strike the ground. Deputies said the flight log was not recovered.

Four Injured In 209 Crash

Four persons were injured, at least two seriously, at 9 a.m. today when the car in which they were riding went out of control and slammed into an embankment off Route 209 at Kerhonkson.

State Police Sergeant D. W. Lott of Ellenville said the car, operated by Joseph Bissinger, 78, of Kerhonkson, was traveling south on the highway when the driver's attention was distracted by a moth in the car.

The vehicle went off the left side of the pavement and hit the embankment.

Passengers also injured were Minnie Grann, of 1353 New York Avenue, Brooklyn; Valentina Memkin, 47, of 2120 Harrison Avenue, the Bronx and Regina Beckerman, 62, of 145 West Kingsbridge Avenue, Bronx.

The injured were taken to Ellenville Community Hospital by ambulance. Early reports indicated the four suffered lacerations and fractures. Trooper Wayne L. Lawrence investigated.

Continue Search For Holdup Pair

Investigation of the armed robbery of Luciano Cirillo, proprietor of Ann's Bakery, Route 32, Rosendale, continued today as State Police sought two men for questioning about the Tuesday night holdup that netted $110.65.

Cirillo told authorities he was accosted by two men described as in their 30's as he closed the bakery. He said he was forced to kneel in the back of his car and taken to a lonely road near High Falls, where he was robbed and left bound and gagged.

He freed himself and drove home to notify authorities of the holdup. He said one of the pair had a knife, the other a snub-nose revolver.

Woman Advised On Medical Exam

A 45-year-old woman, scheduled to be sentenced today on shoplifting charges, was told by City Court she would have to take a medical examination before justice could be pronounced.

The woman, Nora Porter of 257 Hasbrouck Avenue, pleaded guilty to petit larceny Aug. 24. Her sentencing was scheduled for today.

Special City Court Judge George A. Beck told Mrs. Porter that an investigation into her background was incomplete. He said the court could not provide justice until all the facts were available.

The Porter woman was arrested Aug. 23 at the Grand Union Plaza. A store clerk reportedly said he saw Mrs. Porter steal two cartons of cigarettes, shoelaces and two bras.

The case has been adjourned until Sept. 14.

Rochester Marine Killed in Viet

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A sniper's bullet killed Marine Pfc. Robert C. Smith, 19, of Rochester, on his third day in Vietnam last Saturday, his parents have learned.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Smith said their son left East High School at the age of 17 to join the Marines. He was stationed in Jacksonville, Fla. until July his year before receiving orders for transfer to Vietnam.

The Smith address is 195 Hazlewood Terrace.

Rosendale-Tillson G. W. Ertz Phone: 698-9850

A regular meeting of the members of Active Hose Co. 1 of Rosendale will be held on Tuesday evening Sept. 5 at the fire hall, Rosendale.

The first fall meeting of the Rosendale Sportsmen's Association Inc. will be held on Friday evening Sept. 8 at 8 p.m. at the club house in Tillson. This is an important meeting. Topics to be discussed will be the annual banquet, posting, purchase of pheasants and fall activities.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced early Thursday in brisk trading. Gains outnumbered losses by 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained between 2 and 3 points.

Polaroid tacked on 5 points, Xerox, IBM and Control Data 2, itek nearly 3.

Gains of a point or better were made by Twentieth Century-Fox, Buckingham, Westinghouse Electric, New York Central, United Aircraft and Illinois Central.

All the leading auto stocks displayed fractional gains even though the auto union was expected to designate one of the companies as a strike target.

Early volume was swelled by an opening block of 202,300 shares of Ethyl Corp., which was unchanged at 43, then added a point.

Saugerties

Remedial Reading Session Tonight

Tonight at 8 o'clock a meeting is scheduled for the parents of the children who participated in the remedial reading program sponsored by Saugerties Neighborhood Service Center for 28 children who have reading problems. (Any other parents who feel the need for such help are invited to attend.) Its purpose is to get an overall picture of the program, to hear the progress that has been made, and to discuss what they can do to get a program to meet this need through the school system next summer.

Discusses Colorful Language of Market

BY PHIL THOMAS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — On Wall Street, "fill or kill" is not a threat made by a robber to a bank teller.

A "bear" is not a big, hairy beast that climbs trees in search of honey, and a "bull" is not a grouchy animal with long, pointy horns that likes to chase a matador around the bull ring.

The speech used by the men who work in the sprawling financial district at the lower end of Manhattan, loosely labeled "Wall Street," may sound like a foreign language to an outsider.

Some of the phrases from the jargon of the financial world have crept into the common language, but many remain obscure or ill-defined to those not immediately associated with the scene.

"The language spoken in America's investment world may sound like a strange tongue to the newcomer," says the New York Stock Exchange in its booklet, "The Language of Investing."

"It is often vivid, colorful, flavored with the idioms of many eras. Some expressions have filtered down from the day when brokers, traded securities under a buttonwood tree in the open air."

The buttonwood tree under which securities were sold in 1792 has been replaced by 18 trading posts on the floor of the exchange, familiarly known as "The Big Board."

It is at these posts that the bears, those who believe the market will decline, and the bulls, those who believe the market will rise, have their buy or sell orders carried out.

Being "short" on the market has nothing to do with a person's height. A short person often is a bear who, believing a stock will decline, sells it although he does not own any. His broker has borrowed the stock to make the sale, and the short person eventually must buy the same amount of stock as was borrowed for return to the lender.

The man who sells short hopes the stock will drop in price and that he will be able to buy enough at a lower price to meet his commitment and still make a profit.

A fill or kill order actually means what it says. It is a "market" or "limited price" order that is to be executed in its entirety as soon as it is represented in the "Trading Crowd," which means as soon as it reaches the proper trading post on the exchange floor. If it is not executed immediately it is treated as canceled.

The origin of much of Wall Street's jargon becomes obvious once the meaning is understood. With others, such as bull and bear, even though the meaning is clear the origin remains obscure. There are several theories as to why these words are used.

One holds that bear may come from the old proverb of selling a bear's skin before the bear is caught, and that bull may come from the habit those powerful animals have of tossing things up into the air with their horns.

Paper Reports Heavy Sentiment Against LBJ

BOSTON (AP) — The Christian Science Monitor says there is serious anti-Johnson sentiment in the United States and "much of it is found in the Democratic ranks."

The paper said Wednesday that a survey it took shows that President Johnson "definitely can be defeated" if he runs for reelection in 1968.

In a copyright story by a Washington correspondent, Godfrey Sperling Jr., the newspaper said a state-by-state survey of political writers indicated there are 28 states—with 322 electoral votes—in which the President is "definitely vulnerable" now.

In another 16 states—with 156 electoral votes—he is "possibly" to "moderately" vulnerable.

Only in six states—with 50 electoral votes—was "little" or "no" vulnerability found, the newspaper said.

The Monitor, which describes itself as politically independent, said President Johnson was vulnerable on four points: handling of the Vietnam war; rioting and the rising crime rate; the proposed income surtax and rising cost of living; irregularities in the antipoverty program.

Placing his name in the ring for the Town of Rochester's supervisor post, Martin Schuster, a member of the Kerhonkson Fire Department, has announced that he will seek the support of the Democratic party caucus to be held next week.

Schuster is a nine-year resident of the town. He lives there with his wife Jean and their three children, Richard, Paula, and Jay.

Although Schuster has never held political office before, he claims to have had 12 years of political experience in New York and New Jersey.

He is a past president of the Kerhonkson-Accord Little League.

Seeks Dems Nod For Rochester Supervisor Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A five-mile section of the North-South Expressway between Chenango Bridge and Castle Creek in Broome County will be opened to traffic Friday morning.

Gov. Rockefeller's office also said Wednesday that a brief ceremony would be held at the Chenango Bridge interchange of the limited-access highway.

Q) "We are a 40-year-old couple with two young children. We can invest $10,000 in growth issues. We now own General Electric and Woolworth. We are considering six stocks to add to our portfolio: American Hospital Supply; Becton, Dickinson; Baxter Laboratories; Ramanda Inns; RCA; Boeing. Any substitutes or omissions?"

A) Your proposed purchases are excellent for your purpose, in my opinion, and I commend you for your good judgment. My only suggestion concerns the matter of diversification. The three stocks you plan to buy are all pretty much in the same business — medical and hospital supplies. They are all good issues with strong prospects but I would not put half my new investment into any one group no matter how good the outlook. Buy all three but put a lesser amount in each than in the others you plan to purchase.

As to the stocks you now hold, I like General Electric but am not impressed by the outlook for Woolworth. Earnings have improved here, but there has been no real price advancement since 1961. I believe you will do better with a lesser amount of Avon Products.

Q) We own our home with a small mortgage on it for remodeling. We live in one apartment and rent two others which bring us in $200 a month. We have $2,000 H bonds; $2,500 in Investors Diversified and $2,200 in Savings & Loans. Should we sell our house and invest in stocks?

A) Definitely not, in my opinion. The cost of building good rental property has been rising steadily for many years and values have moved up to keep pace. Your house provides you with a dwelling place of your own which is important. It also gives you an income and considerable protection against inflation. It is in all probability much less subject to price fluctuation than stocks you might buy at present levels. I advise you to hold on to it.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Two Are Killed Upstate; Light Plane Crashes

OXFORD, N.Y. (AP) — Two persons were killed Wednesday night when their single-engine plane crashed into a field during an electrical storm.

State Police tentatively identified the victims as William A. Culberson, 39, of East Point, Ga., and Bruce MacLain, 38, of Basking Ridge, N.J.

They said Culberson was believed to have been piloting the plane.

The flight's point of departure or destination were not known immediately.

The Cessna 182 plowed into a farm field about 7 p.m. near this village about 25 miles northeast of Binghamton. Deputies said the craft apparently had been struck by lightning. It fell about 1,000 feet, they said.

Mrs. Hubert Ryan, upon whose property the plane crashed, said she saw pieces of the craft strike the ground. Deputies said the flight log was not recovered.

Four Injured In 209 Crash

Four persons were injured, at least two seriously, at 9 a.m. today when the car in which they were riding went out of control and slammed into an embankment off Route 209 at Kerhonkson.

State Police Sergeant D. W. Lott of Ellenville said the car operated by Joseph Bissinger, 78, of Kerhonkson, was traveling south on the highway when the driver's attention was distracted by a moth in the car.

The vehicle went off the left side of the pavement and hit the embankment.

Passengers also injured were Minnie Grano, of 1353 New York Avenue, Brooklyn; Valendina Memkin, 47, of 2120 Harrison Avenue, the Bronx; and Regina Beckerman, 62, of 145 West Kingsbridge Avenue, Bronx.

The injured were taken to Ellenville Community Hospital by ambulance. Early reports indicated the four suffered lacerations and fractures. Trooper Wayne L. Lawrence investigated.

Continue Search For Holdup Pair

Investigation of the armed robbery of Luciano Cirillo, proprietor of Ann's Bakery, Route 32, Rosendale, continued today as State Police sought two men for questioning about the Tuesday night holdup that netted $110,655.

Cirillo told authorities he was accosted by two men described as in their 30's as he closed the bakery. He said he was forced to kneel in the back of his car and taken to a lonely road near High Falls, where he was robbed and left bound and gagged.

He freed himself and drove home to notify authorities of the holdup. He said one of the pair had a knife, the other a snub-nose revolver.

Woman Advised On Medical Exam

A 45-year-old woman, scheduled to be sentenced today on shoplifting charges, was told by City Court she would have to take a medical examination before justice could be pronounced.

The woman, Nora Porter of 257 Hasbrouck Avenue, pleaded guilty to petit larceny Aug. 24. Her sentencing was scheduled for today.

Special City Court Judge George A. Beck told Mrs. Porter that an investigation into her background was incomplete. He said the court could not provide justice until all the facts were available.

The Porter woman was arrested Aug. 23 at the Grand Union Plaza. A store clerk reportedly said he saw Mrs. Porter steal two cartons of cigarettes, shoelaces and two bras.

The case has been adjourned until Sept. 14.

Rochester Marine Killed in Viet

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A sniper's bullet killed Marine Pfc. Robert C. Smith, 19, of Rochester, on his third day in Vietnam last Saturday, his parents have learned.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Smith said their son left East High School at the age of 17 to join the Marines. He was stationed in Jacksonville, Fla., until July his year before receiving orders for transfer to Vietnam.

The Smith address is 195 Hazelwood Terrace.

A regular meeting of the members of Active Hose Co. 1 of Rosendale will be held on Tuesday evening Sept. 5 at the fire hall, Rosendale.

The first fall meeting of the Rosendale Sportsmen's Association Inc. will be held on Friday evening Sept. 8 at 8 p.m. at the club house in Tillson. This is an important meeting. Topics to be discussed will be the annual banquet, posing, purchase of pheasants and fall activities.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced early Thursday in brisk trading. Gains outnumbered losses by 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained between 2 and 3 points.

Polaroid tacked on 5 points. Xerox, IBM and Control Data 2, itek nearly 3.

Gains of a point or better were made by Twentieth Century-Fox, Buckingham, Westinghouse Electric, New York Central, United Aircraft and Illinois Central.

All the leading auto stocks displayed fractional gains even though the auto unit was expected to designate one of the companies as a strike target.

Early volume was swelled by an opening block of 202,309 shares of Ethyl Corp., which was unchanged at 43, then added a point.

In the SERVICE

GRANDFATHER SERVED — Holding an honorable discharge certificate issued to his grandfather in Jan. 1899 at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., is Spec. 7 Donald V. Hendricks, Kingston, programmer with the data processing center, Headquarters Fourth U. S. Army, on the Texas post. His grandfather, Peter J. Gorman of Kingston, who died two years before Specialist Hendricks was born, was assigned as a private in Co. G, 6th Infantry, "Very Good" is the entry below the printed word "Character" on the face of the discharge. The back contains the service record of Private Gorman, with one of the entries being "Honorable and Faithful." Hendricks is the son of Mrs. Theresa Hendricks, 146 Pine Street, Kingston. (U. S. ARMY photo).

Three From Area At Parris Island

Marine Private Stewart J. Doherty, son of Mrs. Mary J. Doherty of Route 3, and Marine Private John A. Viano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fortunato J. Viano of Route 5, all of Kingston, are going through recruit training at this Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island.

VICTOR R. RICKETSON

Trains in Army

Pvt. Victor R. Ricketson, U. S. Army, has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C., and is presently stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., where he is attending the Army Engineer Heavy Equipment School and receiving training in operation and maintenance of all the Army's heavy equipment. After completion of his training, Ricketson will be home on leave. Prior to his enlistment in May this year, Pvt. Ricketson was employed at the Jerry Martin Pontiac Company in Kingston, and was a graduate of Kingston High School, Class of 1966. Ricketson was enlisted under the Army's Career Option Program where he chose the present training he is receiving.

GIL E. COMBS

In Marines

U. S. Marine private Gil E. Combs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Combs of 50 Alda Drive, St. Remy, is undergoing training at the Marine Recruit depot at Parris Island, S. C.

Pvt. Combs enlisted in June in the 120-day delay program and was assigned active duty at his request on Aug. 23. He enlisted in the Marine Aviation Program and after two weeks advanced training at Camp Lejeune, N. C., following his present training he will be home on a 20-day leave and then will report to Memphis, Tenn. for basic aviation fundamentals and further training in the aviation field.

Pvt. Combs is following in the footsteps of his father who served in the Marines during WW II in the aviation field and is now a teacher with the Kingston School System. Pvt. Combs is a 67 graduate of Kingston High.

Alexander Graduates

Seaman Recruit Terry J. Alexander, USN, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester John Alexander of Glenford, was graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. His training was highlighted by participating in mid-America's "Salute to the Flag" ceremonies held at Soldier Field in Chicago. He was one of the more than 10,000 Navy men who formed a human "Living Flag" in honor of all men and women who are, or have been, in the U.S. Armed Forces.

Support Grows For Dutchess Jr. Conservation

Support is growing for a county junior conservation club, according to Harry Thatcher, Millbrook, who announced the program Aug. 17. He said today that Harold Brilliant, director of the Beacon Neighborhood Service Organization has agreed to serve on the board of directors. Hermann Place and R. Watson Pomeroy, both of Litchow, have also sent letters pledging full support. A worthwhile program that could be established in rural areas." Brockway has named two foresters to teach forest preservation methods, with one of them to serve on the board of directors.

Thatcher said: "There is genuine interest among rural Dutchess residents. The idea of preserving rural areas, coupled with a meaningful program for young people, appeals to both older and younger members of rural society."

The first board of directors meeting will be held Thursday, Sept. 7 at 8 p. m. at the Millbrook Opportunity Center, Front Street, for election of officers and discussion of the program.

Finance Co. Is Hit for $1,007

IRONDEQUOIT, N.Y. (AP)—A total of $1,007 in cash was robbed from Beneficial Finance Co. after an armed man held up a branch office in this Rochester suburb Wednesday, took the money, and fled.

Police said the dark-haired man demanded the money in the office drawers as he pulled a black pistol from a shopping bag. He ordered five employees into a back room and fled with the money, they said.

N.Y. Teachers Get Salary Offer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Board of Education is reported to have made a new salary offer to the city's 55,000 public school teachers in an effort to break the deadlock in contract negotiations.

Details of the new proposal, said to have been made Wednesday night, were not made public.

Albert Shanker, president of the AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, would not comment on the reported salary offer.

The union has threatened mass resignations of teachers Sept. 11, the opening day of the fall term, unless there is agreement on a new contract. The teachers' two-year contract expired June 30.

Friday is the deadline for a three-man mediation panel, named by Mayor John V. Lindsay, to settle the contract dispute or to give him recommendations on what further efforts should be made to achieve a settlement.

School Openings Wednesday Stress Need for Safe Driving

Thousands of street poles throughout New York State will be brightened by colorful day-glo black and orange posters dramatizing the need for motorists to drive with special care during the school reopening period next week.

Mayor Heads Government For Chest

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan has been named chairman of the Ulster County Community Chest government division. The recipient of the 1967 Moose Citizenship award, he has been a civic, fraternal and political leader for many years. Active in fund raising campaigns in the county, he is former head of the Kingston Men's Democratic Club, and has served as delegate to city, county and state conventions. Mayor Garraghan has been a director of National Ulster Bank and has operated Garraghan Oil Company for many years. He is a past president of Kiwanis, Fourth Degree member of Knights of Columbus and has served as chairman of the finance committee of Rip Van Winkle Boy Scout Council and director of the Chamber of Commerce.

at that time, several million children make the annual trek back to school, fresh from their vacations. In their enthusiasm at play, they are apt to indulge in such dangerous practices as darting into the street after a thrown ball . . . or running across an intersection to greet a schoolmate . . . or stepping out into traffic in the middle of a block.

To highlight the need for caution on the part of motorists, during the early days of school reopening, the Automobile Club of New York launched its first "School's Open" campaign in 1946. The program has been conducted every year since with excellent results. The success of this effort is shown by official statistics which show a marked reduction in traffic fatalities among children from 5 to 14 years of age in the state in every year since 1945, the year before the first campaign. During the same period, motor vehicle registrations and the school population have risen to all time highs.

The more than 22,500 safety posters on display at major intersections, business and shopping districts and school crossings will be but a part of the AAA's fall safety effort, for the "School's Open" message posters will be augmented by that are mounted on public, private and commercial motor vehicles.

Then, too, the 30,000 AAA leaders, parent-teacher associations, Boy Scouts, and thousands of motorists will participate in this year's effort. State officials, including the Governor, the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, the Commissioner of Education and the Superintendent of State Police endorse the program as one which "merits the attention of everyone who owns a motor car."

"Schools Open — Drive Carefully" is a rule all motorists should follow . . . constantly. Increased traffic safety, particularly concerning our children, must be our constant goal.

Rockwell Body Cremated

ACLU Takes Up Fight

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — The racist American Nazi party has turned to a civil liberties group in its bid to bury the cremated remains of slain commander George Lincoln Rockwell in a military cemetery.

Lawrence Speiser, director of the Northern Virginia chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, said his group has accepted a Nazi request and will seek a court injunction to force the Department of the Army to permit interment of Rockwell's remains in a national cemetery.

The ACLU often has waged civil rights court fights on behalf of Negroes—the primary targets, along with Jews, of Rockwell's racist harangues and tracts.

Rockwell's body was cremated Wednesday after, party spokesmen said, half a dozen cemeteries turned down requests for space in which to bury him.

The Army originally granted permission for Rockwell, a former Navy commander, to be buried in Culpeper National Cemetery. But Army troops blocked the burial party from the Virginia cemetery Tuesday when party members refused orders to shed Nazi paraphernalia.

After the cremation—performed without advance notice at an Arlington undertaking establishment—Rockwell's remains were brought secretly back to the ramshackle home that was his party command post for several years.

On the sprawling grounds surrounding the building, private memorial rites were held by party faithful. Spokesmen said the memorial included playing of a German funeral march, the party's battle song and a funeral anthem, "I Had a Comrade."

WW 2 Bombers Lead Forest Fire Battle

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Every man and machine the U. S. Forest Service can find has been thrown at the walls of flame in the Pacific Northwest forests.

Already there have been over 2,000 fires this summer, compared to 995 in a similar period last year.

Sweating men still hack out fire lines, but fire fighters have called in World War II bombers to help the foresters gain control.

Check Spread

"If we hadn't had aerial weapons this year, we'd be in worse shape by now," said Bill Wood, fire control equipment officer for the Pacific Northwest region of the Forest Service.

The region includes 26 million acres in Oregon and Washington. The headquarters are in Portland.

The bombers drop retardants on forest fires, checking their spread. Helicopters skim the trees with loads of men and equipment for the ground war. Smokjumper, carrying packs on their backs, leap into the smoke.

Planes fly over the green sea of trees, looking for signs of fire. Other planes, equipped with infrared devices can detect hot spots and can map terrain hidden by thick smoke or the dark of night.

The helicopters carry rescue litters for carrying injured men to hospitals.

Wednesday fires in the Will-mette National Forest in Oregon broke loose and never stopped, sweeping over 7,000 acres of heavy timber. That was one of several big fires in the Pacific Northwest during the day.

In fighting the fires, strong pumps weighing only 30 pounds are put into action by firemen minutes after water is located.

Trucks carry bulldozers to the front lines and convert instantly to water tankers with inflatable tanks.

Modern packaging makes it possible to drop ground equipment from planes, including field offices, tools, water and dried and frozen food.

Men carry protective shelters on their backs which offer refuge when 750-degree fires surround them.

The Forest Service, and nearly every other fire fighting agency, uses a commercial mixture which contains ammonium sulfate, to retard fires.

Two-Way Help

So far this summer the Forest Service has dropped a million gallons in the Northwest. Besides stopping the fires, it fertilizes the soil.

Not all the weapons are new. Observers, in towers rising from the highest peaks, still watch for fires and relay radio messages to remote spots.

Thousands of men still work with picks and shovels in the face of the spreading inferno.

When the weather gets so dry and hot that any little spark will start a blaze, the foresters begin to rely on old-fashioned hope.

This year there has been a record drought in the Northwest. Wood said the number of fires may exceed any other summer.

Wood is sure things would be way past hope by now without the latest weapons. "They have saved our bacon numerous times," he said.

Egypt and Arabia Reach Agreement

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Egypt and Saudi Arabia agreed Wednesday night on a formula to get themselves out of Yemen's civil war amid the first talk at the Arab summit meeting. The possibility of a "political solution" with Israel also was mentioned.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt figured in both developments, promising withdrawal of his forces in Yemen and taking what conference sources said was a less belligerent stance toward Israel in a speech at a closed conference session.

In return for the Egyptian troop pullout, Saudi military assistance is to be halted in the five-year-old Yemen civil war that has pit Egypt, the mainstay of the Republican government, against Royalist rebels supported by Saudi King Faisal.

Nasser and Faisal approved a plan calling for the formation of a three-power committee to supervise the phasing out of hostilities. Sudan, Iraq and Morocco were named to the committee and planned to begin work immediately after the windup of the summit meeting Friday.

No date was set for the beginning of the withdrawal of Egyptian troops, who numbered about 40,000 in Yemen until a large contingent was moved out following the Middle East war in June.

Premier Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub of the Sudan, who served as mediator, said the dispute had been settled "in the interests of purifying the Arab atmosphere of political division."

Most Western observers in the Middle East think withdrawal of Egyptian troops would mean a royalist victory eventually.

Sources at the summit conference said Nasser's speech to the parley called to unify policy to "eliminate Israeli aggression" was moderate in tone. He reportedly told the Arabs they could either surrender or go forward united to seek "military, economic and political solutions."

Waitress Was Overly Helpful

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A waitress who tried to be helpful cost Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens some $320.

Mrs. Stevens absentmindedly walked off and left a purse with $320 and some other items in the restaurant. After she left, a waitress, spotting the purse, rushed with it to the front of the cafe and saw a woman getting into her car to drive away. She asked the woman if the purse was hers and received a quick "Yes, thank you" as the car drove off.

About that time Mrs. Stevens realized that she had left the purse at the restaurant and returned—only to find that the purse had been given to another woman.

The eyes of a porpoise are heartshaped.

Men carry protective shelters on their backs which offer refuge when 750-degree fires surround them.

The Forest Service, and nearly every other fire fighting agency, uses a commercial mixture which contains ammonium sulfate, to retard fires.

When the weather gets so dry and hot that any little spark will start a blaze, the foresters begin to rely on old-fashioned hope.

Two-Way Help
So far this summer the Forest Service has dropped a million gallons in the Northwest. Besides stopping the fires, it fertilizes the soil.

Not all the weapons are new. Observers, in towers rising from the highest peaks, still watch for fires and relay radio messages to remote spots.

Thousands of men still work with picks and shovels in the face of the spreading inferno.

This year there has been a record drought in the Northwest. Wood said the number of fires may exceed any other summer.

Wood is sure things would be way past hope by now without the latest weapons. "They have saved our bacon numerous times," he said.

Waitress Was Overly Helpful

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A waitress who tried to be helpful cost Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens some $320.

Mrs. Stevens absentmindedly walked off and left a purse with $320 and some other items in the restaurant. After she left, a waitress, spotting the purse, rushed with it to the front of the cafe and saw a woman getting into her car to drive away. She asked the woman if the purse was hers and received a quick "Yes, thank you" as the car drove off.

About that time Mrs. Stevens realized that she had left the purse at the restaurant and returned—only to find that the purse had been given to another woman.

The Bell Tolls for Air Force

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — In the dimly lit, night-club-style officers' club at Korat Air Force Base hangs a bell which every pilot flying over North Vietnam has an ambition to ring.

When it clangs through the mess and the pilot yells "Drinks all round" it means he has joined the exclusive 100-mission club.

He can relax. No more briefings. No more flak. No more MIGs.

He has finished his tour. He's going home.

Many pilots don't live to ring the bell.

Some, like Karl Richter, tried to ring it twice.

198 Missions

Fellow fighter pilots say Lt. Richter had ice water for blood. He was shot down last month on his 198th mission. He had applied to fly 100 more from South Vietnam.

There are six other bases in Thailand similar to Korat where the pilots have similar customs and face similar dangers.

But the names of the bases—Utapao, Takhli, Udorn, Ubon, Nakorn, Phanom—are unlikely to become household words and be talked about for decades in the Vietnam war.

A tight security ban on news reporting from the bases has robbed the 40,000 Air Force men in Thailand of the satisfaction of seeing their part in the war recognized publicly.

The United States has lost more than 650 aircraft over North Vietnam. Over half came from Thai bases. More than 400 F105s have been shot down over North and South Vietnam. Most of these, too, came from Thai bases.

But the exploits of the pilots, apart from summaries given out at daily briefings in Saigon, are barely noticeable in accounts of the war.

No Glory Hunters

"We're not glory hunters," said one Air Force pilot. "But it burns us up when we're shouldering the biggest part of the load and we don't get credit for it."

"We go out day after day at heavily defended targets and no one says anything—unless it is 'Stop the bombing.'"

"But the Navy goes out and drops a couple of 500-pound bombs and they make big headlines."

"You'd think we weren't in the war."

Despite grumbles, the morale of the fighter and fighter-bomber pilots is high.

The atmosphere among them is always tense.

They all know that the guy who sits next to you at breakfast may be shot down this afternoon—and, as happened in May, paraded through the streets of Hanoi before a jeering crowd of North Vietnamese.

Newman Would Eliminate Job Of Coroner

The $600-a-year job of county coroner will be eliminated if the Democrat-Liberal candidate for the post has anything to say about it.

Twenty-two year old Ronald Newman a recent graduate of the State University College at New Paltz and an American government teacher at Poughkeepsie High School, contends that the coroner's post demands no qualifications other than residency and citizenship requirements and should be therefore eliminated and replaced by the appointed office of medical examiner.

Newman feels that the task of liquidating the office will be a difficult one but that he should be in a better position to do something about it, if he gets elected.

The candidate, perhaps the youngest one running in the State, says that "an important position like this should be conducted by a licensed professional."

Newman said, "Teachers and attorneys are licensed people and there is no reason why this important position should be left to the layman."

Democrat-Liberal Newman lives in New Paltz.

Downtown Fire Investigated

For nearly two hours this morning City Firemen battled what police termed "an incendiary" in the basement of a wooden, one-story barber shop.

The building, located at the corner of Second Avenue and Larch Street, caught fire when two boxes of paper cups ignited. Police said the boxes were separate and situated several feet away.

Firemen disclosed that the boxes began to burn simultaneously, casting suspicion upon the nature of their origin.

Police said they are conducting an investigation. Damage to the barber shop was slight, firemen said. They noted the basement suffered heavy smoke damage, but that the upstairs escaped damage.

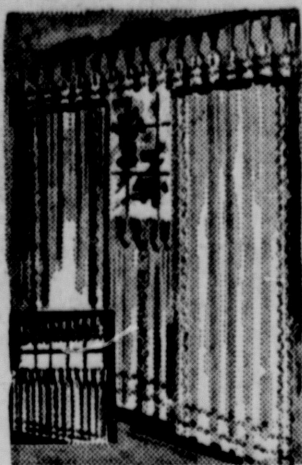

One-third of New Hampshire is more than 2,000 feet above sea level.

A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION REPORT
by
S. James Matthews

One of the delegates to the Constitutional Convention, last week, said "This has been a Convention to be remembered for what had been done for conservation." The evidence is strong to support that statement.

One of the emotionally charged issues of the Convention was the present provision in our state charter that all lands belonging to the state in Forest Preserve counties shall remain as forever wild woodlands. This affects some 200,000 acres of Ulster County and statewide, involves over two and a half million acres.

The Convention, a month ago, repeatedly beat back attempts to change the essential protective language as now contained in Article XIV. The vote was a strong reaffirmance of a principle which was enacted into statute in 1875 and in the state constitution in 1894.

The Convention has had many surprises and unusual occurrences. Perhaps one of the most revealing was the almost unanimous support from the City of New York delegation for preserving our state's wild forest lands. This occurred even though Broadway is 100 miles away from the Catskills.

Vote Predictable
The ultimate vote on the retention of the forever wild provision was predictable. Other actions of the convention dealing with conservation were not so easily forecasted.

For the first time in the history of the State of New York, there has been approved for submission to the people, a broad statement of conservation in its many forms, declared to be the public policy of the state. The list of activities which are given impetus is long and varied.

From the viewpoint of the 38th Senatorial District, perhaps the most important inclusion in the so-called "Conservation Bill of Rights" was the direction to the legislature to devise a procedure for the designation and protection of agricultural lands. A statement on the floor of the Convention indicated that over 20,000 acres of prime agricultural land each year finds its way into housing developments, shopping centers and industrial plants.

With population figures skyrocketing with news reports of imminent world famine, it seemed wise to the delegates to include a plank protecting the present and future crop lands of New York. If approved by the people, the Constitution of the Empire State would have another first.

The same statement would apply to two other provisions in the Conservation Bill of Rights. Of interest to the historic Hudson Valley, is the mandate to the legislature to acquire and dedicate those places of historical significance, as a state historical preserve.

Unique Aspect
The most unique aspect of the measure is a directive to the legislature to make adequate provisions for the abatement of unnecessary noise. No one should quarrel with the intent of the delegates, it is like being against sin. But like the item to which I've compared it, it would seem in this mechanical age, to be around for a long period of time.

The cleaning of the state's pollution air and water now will have constitutional sanction. This too, is a constitutional first.

The most far-reaching of the provisions in the measure is the requirement that the state, outside of forest preserve counties, acquire lands, waters and wet land, which, because of their natural beauty, wilderness character or geological, or ecological significance are deserving of special protection. Following the successful format of the Forest Preserve devised 67 years ago, the new constitution would provide for a "Nature Preserve."

Once a site was designated as either an Historical or Nature Preserve, it could not be disposed of except by statute enacted by two successive regular sessions of the legislature. Beauty and appreciation of our heritage are difficult to vote against. Perhaps its indication that we've finally realized man does not live by bread alone.

Horrible Homicide Is Probed

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Police have launched an investigation into what they called the "horrible homicide" beating of a 74-year-old Delaware and Philadelphia society matron.

Mrs. Katherine Thompson Wood was found beaten Wednesday in her secluded home at nearby Pennsylvania Township. She was the sister of James Thompson, the Thailand silk magnate who disappeared last March in Malaysia.

Police said Mrs. Wood was hit on the head with a blunt instrument. The body was discovered on a bed.

Two big watchdogs were standing by. An officer said one of the dogs may have been struck by the same weapon that killed Mrs. Wood, but otherwise there was no indication of why they did not prevent the crime. A domestic reporting for work Wednesday found the body. Investigators said they have not found the weapon or a motive for the killing.

Mrs. Wood was listed in "Who's Who in Delaware" and the Philadelphia Social Register.

She was married to the late Osburn Cutler Wood, who was the son of Gen. Leonard Wood. Gen. Wood sought the Republican nomination for President in 1920 and was colonel of the Rough Riders in the Spanish American War.

Shirley Nichols Wedding Is Told

Miss Shirley Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor of 4 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, wed Ronald E. Schoonmaker, 116 Linderman Avenue, Kingston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John T. Schoonmaker, on August 19, 1967 at 1 p. m. in St. Joseph's Church, Kingston. The Rev. John Mulligan, assistant pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony and James Sweeney was organist. James Perry, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, served as soloist.

The church was decorated with white gladioli for the occasion. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white pique styled with a short jacket and bell skirt accented with lace. A stylized headpiece held her silk illusion veil and she carried daisies with stephanotis.

The bridegroom's sister, Joanne Schoonmaker of Hurley served as maid of honor. She wore a two toned gown of linen fashioned with a turquoise bodice and aquamarine skirt. A Dior bow in matching color held a short tulle veil. She carried yellow daisies.

Sally Hazenbush, 77 Main Street, Judy Strubel, 156 Tremper Avenue, Linda Longo, 163 North Street, and Stephanie Parvi, 96 Hone Street, all of Kingston, served as attendants. They wore aquamarine and turquoise gowns styled identically to that worn by the honor attendant.

A niece, Stephanie Lynn Perry, served as flower girl in Merina Linen. A crown of tiny flowers was worn in her hair and she carried a basket of daisies.

John T. Schoonmaker of 19 Hillside Avenue, Hurley, served as best man. Ushering were William Schoonmaker, Ruby Road, Lake Katrine, brother of the bridegroom; Richard Richards, 22 Clinton Avenue, Kingston; Raymond Lukaszewski, Sunset Park; and John D. Schoonmaker, 34 Grant Street, Kingston. John T. Schoonmaker, 3rd, nephew of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

A lawn reception at 19 Hillside Avenue, Hurley was given for 90 guests. The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School. Her husband attended Kingston High School and served four years in the U. S. Navy. He is now employed by Henry H. Swart and Son Construction Co.

When Mr. and Mrs. Schoonmaker return from a wedding trip to Maine, they will be at home at 116 Linderman Avenue, Kingston.

MRS. JAMES T. VARELAS

Linda Jane Hitchcock Takes Marriage Vows; Ceremony in East Jewett Church

On Sunday, Aug. 20, 1967 at 2 p. m., marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Linda Hitchcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hitchcock of East Jewett, N. Y., and James Theodore Varelas, son of Mrs. Angelina Varelas of Kingston and the late Theodore Varelas.

The wedding ceremony took place in the Methodist Church in East Jewett, N. Y. Four large baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar for the occasion. The Rev. Merton S. Cady officiated while traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Walter Hopkins of Stone Ridge, organist, and Charles Selzo of Kingston, soloist.

Mr. Hitchcock gave his daughter in marriage. She was gown in white peau de soie with empire waist, short sleeves of Alencon lace and a long A-line skirt with wattleau train. She carried a cascade of white carnations and orchids.

Miss Susan Hitchcock, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a long empire gown of silk organza over taffeta in mint green and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow carnations and daisies with yellow ribbons.

Caroleen Hillriegel of Marcellus, Carol Ann Legg of East Jewett and Judy Hitchcock of Maplecreek were the bridesmaids. They all wore Jonquil yellow gowns and carried cascade bouquets of yellow carnations with daisies. Nicholas Varelas of Springfield, Mass., was best man for his brother. Ushering were George Couchiastis, Springfield, Mass., cousin of the bridegroom; James Hitchcock, Maplecreek, N. Y., cousin of the bride; and Thomas Hitchcock, East Jewett, N. Y., brother of the bride.

A reception was given in the new dining hall at Camp Tri-Mount, Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, for more than 200 guests who attended from Boston and Springfield, Mass., Alexandria, Va., Takoma Park, Md., Pease Air Force Base, N. H., Long Island, Rhinebeck and Dolgeville.

The bride is a graduate of Windham-Ashland-Jewett Central School and State University College at Oneonta. She is a teacher in the Rhinebeck Central School system.

The bridegroom, who is registrar at the Ulster County Community College in Stone Ridge, is doing graduate work at New York State University in Albany. He is an alumnus of Springfield High School and the University of Massachusetts, Springfield, Mass.

When Mr. and Mrs. Varelas return from a wedding trip to Boston and Cape Cod they will reside in Kingston.

JOB-HUNTING SEASON IS HERE

Fall will soon be here, bringing the end of vacation time and the start of the job hunting season. The impression you make when applying for a job is all-important, and it is wise to plan your approach well in advance. Take the following test to see if you are prepared. If you answer eight or more statements correctly, you may face your first interview without a qualm, but if you score below six, you had better do a little serious thinking before you start.

1. The first and most important consideration is how much money you will be paid. True...False....
2. It's a strike against you if you use your father's "pull" or a friend's influence to get a job. True...False....
3. Employment agencies exact a substantial fee from the person who they place in a job. True...False....
4. A knowledge of typing is an asset whether you plan to do secretarial work or not. True...False....
5. Your clothes are not important; it is only your manner that counts. True...False....
6. During an interview, it is better to refuse to take tests for which you are unprepared than to do them badly. True...False....
7. Questions about the pay, vacations, benefits, and raises should be first on your list. True...False....
8. Even though there are several jobs open, you'll make more of an impression if you go alone to apply, rather than with a friend or in a group. True...False....
9. If the job is offered to you, you should accept it on the spot. True...False....
10. If you don't get the job, there is no reason to have further contact with the interviewer. True...False....

1. False. No one is ever successful at a job he dislikes, so first choose a field you think will be interesting and rewarding, and then consider the money.

2. False. In the competitive business world, a helping hand should never be scorned as long as it is not used as a threat.

3. True.

4. True. Many employers require it, regardless of the type of work you plan to do.

5. False. Your appearance makes the first, and sometimes most important impression.

6. False. Interviews take into account nervousness and unpreparedness. Cooperate with them, and do your best.

7. False. You'll make a better impression if you ask first about the training programs, work, the opportunities for advancement.

8. True.

9. False. Unless you are absolutely certain it is what you want, it is wise to think about it for a few hours and discuss it with your family or those experienced in the work.

10. False. A good letter thanking him for his time and attention may result in a job when the next opening occurs. (C) 1967, Emily Post Institute (Distrib. by Newsday Specials)

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE APA, former Kingston residents who now reside in Hollywood, Fla., observed their 40th wedding anniversary here this week at the summer home of their son on Kukuk Lane. More than 142 guests attended the festivities. The party was given by their children: Mrs. Charles Spada, Joseph Apa and Mrs. Frank Molinaro, all of Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Apa were married in St. Mary's Church, Kingston, on October 30, 1927. They have nine grandchildren. Mr. Apa is retired from his position with the Hudson Cement Company. Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: When you are making French toast, cut the bread in quarters before dipping it into the egg mixture. The quarters are much easier to turn, and there isn't any sticking.

Maranell Kemp You're right, Maranell. When I tried it, I also found that if you cut the slices into triangles or squares, they even fry differently and lend variety to the breakfast.

Moreover, you can get more pieces in the skillet at the same time, and it's easier to eat. And don't forget that French toast can also be served by what you put on top of it—syrup, honey, jelly or jams, powdered sugar, granulated sugar, and even cinnamon sugar.

Heloise Dear Heloise: How do YOU mend a tear in a brand new screen door? I used lightweight nylon fishing line and made a neat, unobtrusive darn.

Works fine. Mrs. MacDonald Now that's one for the books! I would never have thought of it.

Dear Heloise: When our five children were growing up I needed everyone's cooperation to keep the house in order. Like most children, they would leave their personal clothes and things lying about the house—anywhere but in the proper place.

However, when they were old enough to get an allowance, I figured they were old enough to pick up their own things. I put a carton in my closet, and any personal things of the children that I found lying around out of place, I put in the carton.

From then on, I made the children pay a fee of so much per article to reclaim their things.

I assure you, my system quickly cured the worst violator, and saved me many a step.

Dear Heloise: Here's a good one. I find that an empty roll-on deodorant bottle makes a remarkably efficient dispenser for glue or muscage.

Simply pry off the plastic ball top for easy access, fill the bottle with glue, and replace the ball. Keeping the cap screwed on tightly after each use to be sure the glue does not dry out and render the rolling ball inoperative.

A "roll-on" spreads just enough glue to do a perfect job, and we all know how glue travels!

Gifford-Krom Wedding Is Announced

Miss Fay J. Gifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gifford, Houseman Street, Mayfield, N. Y., became the bride of Chester G. Krom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benson Krom Sr., of Kingston on Saturday, Aug. 19. The ceremony took place in the Mayfield United Presbyterian Church at 1 p.m. with the Rev. Dennis W. Dargatz, pastor, officiating. Mrs. Antonie Close of Mayfield was organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white lace and satin gown styled with bouffant skirt. A front lace insert accented the gown and her cathedral length veil was held by a crown of pearls and rhinestones.

The bride carried a cascade of white daisy pompons with a white rose center. Miss Linda Gifford, sister of the bride, was maid of honor in a powder blue gown of chiffon over satin sheath. Her veil was held by a matching bow and she carried a cascade bouquet of white daisy pompons accented with leather leaf fern.

Attendants were Miss Diane

Gifford, sister of the bride, the Misses Marilyn and Carolyn Krom, twin sisters of the bridegroom, and Judy Gifford, Maple Grove, a cousin of the bride was flower girl. They wore gowns identical to that worn by the honor attendant except in angel blue. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow daisy pompons accented with leather leaf fern and the flower girl carried a basket of yellow and white daisies.

Best man was Benson Krom Jr., of Kingston, brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were Robert Gifford Jr., brother of the bride, Michael Popalaski and John H. Lusha of Albany.

A reception for 150 guests was given at the home of the bride's parents. The new Mrs. Krom is a graduate of Northville Central School, State University at Albany and plans to teach math at Tonawanda this fall. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School, State University at Albany, and is now a student at the University of Buffalo law school.

Shirley Nichols Wedding Is Told

Miss Shirley Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor of 4 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, wed Ronald E. Schoonmaker, 116 Linderman Avenue, Kingston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John T. Schoonmaker, on August 19, 1967 at 1 p.m. in St. Joseph's Church, Kingston. The Rev. John Mulligan, assistant pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony and James Sweeney was organist. James Perry, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, served as soloist.

The church was decorated with white gladioli for the occasion. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white pique styled with a short jacket and bell skirt accented with lace. A stylized headpiece held her silk illusion veil and she carried daisies with stephanotis.

The bridegroom's sister, Joanne Schoonmaker of Hurley served as maid of honor. She wore a two-toned gown of linen fashioned with a turquoise bodice and aquamarine skirt. A Dior bow in matching color held a short tulle veil. She carried yellow daisies.

Sally Hazenbush, 77 Main Street, Judy Strubel, 156 Tremper Avenue, Linda Longto, 163 North Street, and Stephanie Parvi, 96 Hone Street, all of Kingston, served as attendants. They wore aquamarine and turquoise gowns styled identically to that worn by the honor attendant.

A niece, Stephanie Lynn Perry, served as flower girl in Merina Linen. A crown of tiny flowers was worn in her hair and she carried a basket of daisies.

John T. Schoonmaker of 19 Hillside Avenue, Hurley, served as best man. Ushering were William Schoonmaker, Ruby Road, Lake Katrine, brother of the bridegroom; Richard Richards, 22 Clinton Avenue, Kingston; Raymond Lukaszewski, Sunset Park; and John D. Schoonmaker, 34 Grant Street, Kingston. John T. Schoonmaker 3rd, nephew of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

A lawn reception at 19 Hillside Avenue, Hurley was given for 90 guests.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School. Her husband attended Kingston High School and served four years in the U. S. Navy. He is now employed by Henry H. Swart and Son Construction Co.

When Mr. and Mrs. Schoonmaker return from a wedding trip to Maine, they will be at home at 116 Linderman Avenue, Kingston.

MRS. JAMES T. VARELAS

Linda Jane Hitchcock Takes Marriage Vows; Ceremony in East Jewett Church

On Sunday, Aug. 20, 1967 at 2 p.m., marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Linda Hitchcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hitchcock of East Jewett, N. Y., and James Theodore Varelas, son of Mrs. Angelina Varelas of Kingston and the late Theodore Varelas.

The wedding ceremony took place in the Methodist Church in East Jewett, N. Y. Four large baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar for the occasion. The Rev. Merton S. Cady officiated while traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Walter Hopkins of Stone Ridge, organist, and Charles Seizo of Kingston, soloist.

Mr. Hitchcock gave his daughter in marriage. She was given in white peau de soie with empire waist, short sleeves of Alencon lace and a long A-line skirt with wattle train. She carried a cascade of white carnations and orchids.

Miss Susan Hitchcock, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a long empire gown of silk organza over taffeta in mint green and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow carnations and daisies with yellow ribbons.

Caroleen Hillriegel of Margaretville, Carol Ann Legg of East Jewett and Judy Hitchcock of Maplecrest were the bridesmaids. They all wore Jonquil yellow gowns and carried cascade bouquets of yellow carnations with daisies.

Nicholas Varelas of Springfield, Mass., was best man for his brother. Ushering were George Couchiastis, Springfield, Mass., cousin of the bridegroom; James Hitchcock, Maplecrest, N. Y., cousin of the bride; and Thomas Hitchcock, East Jewett, N. Y., brother of the bride.

A reception was given in the new dining hall at Camp Tri-Mount, Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, for more than 200 guests who attended from Boston and Springfield, Mass., Alexandria, Va., Takoma Park, Md., Pease Air Force Base, N. H., Long Island, Rhinebeck and Dolgeville.

The bride is a graduate of Windham-Ashland-Jewett Central School and State University College at Oneonta. She is a teacher in the Rhinebeck Central School system.

The bridegroom, who is registrar at the Ulster County Community College in Stone Ridge, is doing graduate work at New York State University in Albany. He is an alumnus of Springfield High School and the University of Massachusetts, Springfield, Mass.

When Mr. and Mrs. Varelas return from a wedding trip to Boston and Cape Cod they will reside in Kingston.

JOB-HUNTING SEASON IS HERE

Fall will soon be here, bringing the end of vacation time and the start of the job hunting season. The impression you make when applying for a job is all-important, and it is wise to plan your approach well in advance. Take the following test to see if you are prepared. If you answer eight or more statements correctly, you may face your first interview without a qualm, but if you score below six, you had better do a little serious thinking before you start.

1. The first and most important consideration is how much money you will be paid. True...False.....

2. It's a strike against you if you use your father's "pull" or a friend's influence to get a job. True....False.....

3. Employment agencies exact a substantial fee from the person who they place in a job. True....False.....

4. A knowledge of typing is an asset whether you plan to do secretarial work or not. True....False.....

5. Your clothes are not important; it is only your manner that counts. True....False.....

6. During an interview, it is better to refuse to take tests for which you are unprepared than to do them badly. True....False.....

7. Questions about the pay, vacations, benefits, and raises should be first on your list. True....False.....

8. Even though there are several jobs open, you'll make more of an impression if you go alone to apply, rather than with a friend or in a group. True....False.....

9. If the job is offered to you, you should accept it on the spot. True....False.....

10. If you don't get the job, there is no reason to have further contact with the interviewer. True....False.....

1. False. No one is ever successful at a job he dislikes, so first choose a field you think will be interesting and rewarding, and then consider the money.

2. False. In the competitive business world, a helping hand should never be scorned as long as it is not used as a threat.

3. True.

4. True. Many employers require it, regardless of the type of work you plan to do.

5. False. Your appearance makes the first, and sometimes most important impression.

6. False. Interviews take into account nervousness and unpreparedness. Cooperate with them, and do your best.

7. False. You'll make a better impression if you ask first about the training programs, work, the opportunities for advancement.

8. True.

9. False. Unless you are absolutely certain it is what you want, it is wise to think about it for a few hours and discuss it with your family or those experienced in the work.

10. False. A good letter thanking him for his time and attention may result in a job when the next opening occurs.

Believe It or Not, Paris Says the Mini Look Is Finished

PARIS—The "mini" is "fini." So is the era of Lolitas. That is the message conveyed in the hundreds of designs which were shown in the Paris collections for Fall '67. There is no cut-and-dried skirt length. The individual designers have followed their own sweet fancy on that score. The most generally adopted length hits the kneecap. But there are also some hems which go inches further—downwards.

Altogether, the picture for next autumn is for more feminine and sex-appealing than it has been in many seasons. No more understated, starkly simple styles. Jabots and frills flutter from neckline and sleeves. Fringe and fur hem skirts and coats; chins disappear in soft fur collars. Skirts swing with pleats or a circular cut. Jackets gently re-emphasize the bust and hips.

No more tents to hide bulges. Even the skimmers and every collection, the latter for evening as well as daytime. Culottes, Bermudas, knickers and tailored slacks appear in every collection, the latter for evening as well as daytime.

Capes are very important and, while they demand a certain fashion sense to be worn with flare, they are sure to appeal to women. They vary in length from the hip-length to down-to-the-floor romantic numbers and are often fur-lined.

Black has made a definite comeback. Every designer showed dozens of little black dresses. But only St. Laurent's had a pert, cheerful look. The others looked sad.

The outstanding note in accessories are stockings exactly matching the ensemble. This gives a smooth, continuous line.

Lots of dark browns and much black in opaque and lace form, as well as all the rich autumnal shades.

Belts, usually two to three inches wide, are placed above, below or at the normal waistline. Boots of every description and height stalk throughout the day and often into the night picture.

LANVIN is strong on mini-busts but maxi-skirts. Designer Jules Crahay has produced an exciting collection where pleated taffeta pantslettes in brilliant scarlet, green, yellow or purple peep out from swirling mid-calf black dresses—very, very Naughty Nineties. Waists here are marked by a belt above the natural line. The glitter, always part of the Lanvin picture, comes in the shape of bead or sequin streamers which make sleeves or are strung from the neckline down to the hem.

PATOU—Here Michael Goma, the stylist, has accented the youthful, carefree style with a faint aura of the 1930s. His suits have blouson jackets cinched at the waist with a belt or a band of tulle which also reappears at the cuffs. With these go swinging, circular skirts which stop above the knee. Long-visored jockey caps in patent leather, velvet or fur are part of the daytime picture.

BADMAN showed his usual subtly elegant clothes for clients with large bankrolls. This season, however, his silhouette is somewhat disconcerting—a flattened bust and normal waistline which stems back to the days of the

Charleston. His hems are mid-knee. For evening, there are some beautiful sheaths with yokes or deep "obi" waistbelts in glittering, gold and colored cabochon embroidery. He also showed a group of sheer, ribbon-embroidered or Chantilly lace dresses ending in handkerchief points just above the ankle.

DIOR—To mark the 20th anniversary of the house, Marc Bohan produced a collection in which black is triumphant, heralding, too, the return of the shirtwaist and other early Hollywood gadgets.

There are slick mannish topcoats and circular capes. His suits are slick and wearable with skinny, hip-length jackets over circular skirts, often completed by circular capes.

For daytime, stockings are either black or in dark autumn shades. For evening, they come in bonbon colors exactly matching the dress and shoes.

CHANEL'S fall collection was colorful with reds, pinks, blues and greens in exclusive and unusual striped and patterned wools and glittering lames which captured all the colors of a fireworks display.

Her new gimmick is the use of printed panne velvet on Op Art designs for cocktail and evening suits and dresses which feature rich, glowing "Cathedral" blues, bronzes, greens, gold and reds. Her jackets are slightly longer and follow the figure more closely. Skirts are mid-knee or longer. For evening, she revived her full, swaying gypsy skirt attached to a simple straight bodice with straps.

PIERRE CARDIN is still slightly space-age minded. This season he is also cape-minded. Tricky cape coats or caps in striped fabrics are worked so that one side is vertical and the other horizontally striped. Cardin has not discarded his little straight up-and-down shifts, tricky cut-outs. He features these for wear from dawn till night.

As for hemlines, Cardin's hover just above or mid-knee for daytime. Evening dresses have asymmetrical hems—down to the floor at back and almost mid-thigh in front. Others finish in handkerchief points.

SAINT LAURENT—Yves St. Laurent had lots of new looks but best were his copies of Chanel. They were all obviously Chanelisms, but made to look young and pert. The black, low-belted dress with white collar and cuffs and a big white gardenia at the neck, for example, Chanel created before St. Laurent was born. Yet Yves showed it in his recent collection. Among his own new looks is his famous chain belt, which turned up everywhere from waists to hats to shoes.

His suits are a complete departure from Chanel. They have high Chinese collars, long jackets and big patch pockets. His dinner dresses have embroidered yokes and short, ostrich feather skirts and fringe turns up again on evening jumpers done in suede with high turtle necks.

MINI-NOTHING AND LOTS OF SHAPE is the message that rings true and clear from the Paris designer collections for fall '67. Left to right, floor-length, long-sleeved shift by Yves St. Laurent glitters with embroidery. It is in Nile green silk crepe. White wool knee-length coat by Molyneux is cut in circular lines. It is lined in chocolate brown crepe, the fabric used in the accompanying dress. From Marc Bohan of Dior comes this slender evening ensemble in striped orange and gold lame matelasse. Crahay for Lanvin presents this trouser evening costume with slender maharaja tunic, topped by a tailored coat. It is in orange lame, with silver booties and a jaunty beret.

Temple's School to Begin Sept. 16

Temple Emanuel, a liberal Jewish congregation, 243 Albany Avenue, will begin its Religious School classes Saturday morning, Sept. 16. Grades 1, 2, 3 and 7, 8, 9, 10 will meet from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. Grades 4, 5, 6 will meet from 10:50 a. m. to 12:50 p. m. Hebrew classes will begin meeting Monday, Sept. 18. Hebrew classes are conducted Monday and Thursday afternoons. Hebrew grades 1 and 3 will meet from 3:50 p. m. to 4:45 p. m., and grades 2 and 4 will meet from 4:50 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. The newly formed Kindergarten Religious School Class will have its first session Saturday morning, Oct. 7.

The faculty for the Religious School is: Director, Leonard Zimet; Kindergarten, Mrs. Jonathan Eichhorn; 1st grade, Mrs. Robert Kurland; 2nd grade, Mrs. Aaron Eldridge; 3rd grade, Mrs. Lewis Neponet; 4th grade, Mrs. Charles Ronder; 5th grade, Mrs. Harry Simon and Ed Ginsberg; 6th grade, Leonard Kronick; 7th grade, Mrs. Herbert Greenwald; 8th grade, Jay Kosoff; 9th grade, Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs; Confirmation Class, Rabbi Eichhorn; Arts and Crafts, Al Trest, and Music, Mrs. Leonard Zimet.

Individuals wishing to enroll their children for the first time in the Temple Religious School are asked to contact the secretary at the Temple. So far, over 175 children have been registered for the forthcoming school year.

New Attire

LONDON (AP)—BOAC hostesses on Caribbean flights will be wearing throwaway mini-dresses beginning in October. The short-sleeved shifts will be splashed with purple and cerise flowers and will be discarded after wearing.

A spokesman for the British Overseas Airways Corp. said economy was the chief reason for the paper uniform.

"Besides, if hem go any higher they can always take them up with a pair of scissors," he added.

HANDKNIT COATS are tops for the fall season. You can knit this short topper in a choice of three yarns. All are quick to knit and machine washable for easy care.

Take It Easy

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gardner's restaurant in Los Angeles was held up eight times and burglarized three times. Soon after they moved to Hemet, Calif., a burglar used a crowbar and broke down the door.

Since then thieves have broken in five more times, tearing down the kitchen door each time. Thendrag ah srveenow time. The Gardners have now put a sign on their repaired door, which reads: "Robbers: No crowbars please. Kitchen window is open."

New Crispness Seen in Fashion for Fall

How will you look this fall? The fashion choice has never been broader. As long as your skirts are short and your stockings patterned, the silhouette is secondary. A most anything goes, from kilts to catfants. But you gals who sew are often the first to sense a change in the fashion weather, and the patterns and fabrics you are selecting this season add up to an entirely new feeling. It's a suggestion of discipline, of precision, of almost military tailoring—a fashion crispness which has been missing for several years.

Suddenly, the geometry of a perfect plaid makes summer's gypsy prints seem a little untidy, and the clean cut of a tailored coat makes summer's silhouettes seem a little permissive.

Then you welcome the challenge of matching a plaid, of setting in a sleeve, of working with linings and interlinings, and your hours at the sewing machine seem more creative than ever.

One of the newest fabric-looks for fall is (Crown Fabric's) meticulous windowpane plaid color-matched with twill-woven solid. The firm, crunchy hand of the cloth comes from a specially structured combination of American Bemberg and rayon. In any of its many color combinations it looks new, bright, and right for a round of early-fall sewing.

If you are out of practice in sewing with plaids, what with all the loose-jointed fabrics which have been around lately, accurate joining of plaids is necessary.

1—Check your pattern to make sure it is designed for a checked or plaid fabric.

2—Check your yardage for plaids—you'll need a bit more.

3—If your plaid is "even"—that is, the same in both directions—follow guide for "without nap" layout. If your plaid is "uneven"—repeating the design in only one direction—cut all pieces in one direction, as you would for a nap fabric.

4—Determine placement of plaid on your figure before pinning pattern pieces. Vertical lines should be evenly balanced on both sides of center front.

5—To be sure plaids match at seams, place adjoining pattern pieces with corresponding notches on the same stripe. Place sleeve notches on the same stripe as in the underarm notches on bodice front and back. Slip baste (rather than pin-baste) on all seams where accurate joining of plaids is necessary.

6—Be specially sure to press as you sew. The tailored look required with a plaid fabric depends a great deal on good pressing.

Columbia Fair Opens

The durable Columbia County Fair, running uninterrupted for the last 127 years, will be ready for some 45,000 to 50,000 visitors over the Labor Day weekend at Chatham.

Specials on opening day, Friday, will be afternoon and evening concerts by the Eighth Air Force Band and afternoon pony racing. Early Friday evening only, between 7 and 8:30, depending on weather, there will be an old fashioned thriller, a balloon ascension. Especially for the younger set there will be a different rock 'n' roll band each of the four nights of the Fair.

A highlight of this year's Fair will be the substantially enlarged parking facilities. Since the 1966 Fair last September the Fair Society has spent $19,000 to keep faith with fair-goers. Now land has been acquired which has been developed to a point where parking for as many as 5,000 cars, on the Chatham Fair grounds.

As for entertainment attractions, attention will focus on TV headliner, Carmel Quinn, the Irish songstress, and Frank Fontaine, former funny man of the Jackie Gleason Show. Believe It or Not, Paris Says the Mini Look Is Finished

PARIS—The "mini" is "fini." So is the era of Lolitas. That is the message conveyed in the hundreds of designs which were shown in the Paris collections for Fall '67. There is no cut-and-dried skirt length. The individual designers have followed their own sweet fancy on that score. The most generally adopted length hits the kneecap. But there are also some hems which go inches further—downwards.

Altogether, the picture for next autumn is for more feminine and sex-appealing than it has been in many seasons. No more understated, starkly simple styles. Jabots and frills flutter from neckline and sleeves. Fringe and fur hem skirts and coats; chins disappear in soft fur collars. Skirts swing with pleats or a circular cut. Jackets gently re-emphasize the bust and hips.

No more tents to hide bulges. Even the skimmers and every collection, the latter for evening as well as daytime. Culottes, Bermudas, knickers and tailored slacks appear in every collection, the latter for evening as well as daytime.

Capes are very important and, while they demand a certain fashion sense to be worn with flare, they are sure to appeal to women. They vary in length from the hip-length to down-to-the-floor romantic numbers and are often fur-lined.

Black has made a definite comeback. Every designer showed dozens of little black dresses. But only St. Laurent's had a pert, cheerful look. The others looked sad.

The outstanding note in accessories are stockings exactly matching the ensemble. This gives a smooth, continuous line.

Lots of dark browns and much black in opaque and lace form, as well as all the rich autumnal shades.

Belts, usually two to three inches wide, are placed above, below or at the normal waistline. Boots of every description and height stalk throughout the day and often into the night picture.

LANVIN is strong on mini-busts but maxi-skirts. Designer Jules Crahay has produced an exciting collection where pleated taffeta pantalettes in brilliant scarlet, green yellow or purple peep out from swirling mid-calf black dresses—very, very Naughty Nineties. Waists here are marked by a belt above the natural line. The glitter, always part of the Lanvin picture, comes in the shape of bead or sequin streamers which make sleeves or are strung from the neckline down to the hem.

PATOU—Here Michael Goma, the stylist, has accented the youthful, carefree style with a faint aura of the 1930s. His suits have blouson jackets cinched at the waist with a belt or a band of tulle which also reappears at the cuffs. With these puffy, circular skirts which stop above the knee, long-visored jockey caps in patent leather, velvet or fur are part of the daytime picture.

BADMAN showed his usual subtly elegant clothes for clients with large bankrolls. This season, however, his silhouette is somewhat disconcerting—a flattened bust and normal waistline which stems back to the days of the

Charleston. His hems are mid-knee. For evening, there are some beautiful sheaths with yokes or deep "obi" waistbelts in glittering, gold and colored cabochon embroidery. He also showed a group of sheer, ribbon-embroidered or Chantilly lace dresses ending in handkerchief points just above the ankle.

DIOR—To mark the 20th anniversary of the house, Marc Bohan produced a collection in which black is triumphant, heralding, too, the return of the shirtwaist and other early Hollywood gadgets.

There are slick mannish topcoats and circular capes. His suits are sleek and wearable with skinny, hip-length jackets over circular skirts, often completed by circular capes.

For daytime, stockings are either black or in dark autumn shades. For evening, they come in bonbon colors exactly matching the dress and shoes.

CHANEL'S fall collection was colorful with reds, pinks, blues and greens in exclusive and unusual striped and patterned wools and glittering laces which captured all the colors of a fireworks display.

Her new gimmick is the use of printed panne velvet on Op Art designs for cocktail and evening suits and dresses which feature rich, glowing "Cathedral" blues, bronzes, greens, gold and reds. Her jackets are slightly longer and follow the figure more closely. Skirts are mid-knee or longer. For evening, she revived her full, swaying gypsy skirt attached to a simple straight bodice with straps.

PIERRE CARDIN is still slightly space-age minded. This season he is also cape-minded. Tricky cape coats or caps in striped fabrics are worked so that one side is vertical and the other horizontally striped. Cardin has not discarded his little straight up-and-down shifts tricky cut-outs. He features these for wear from dawn till night.

As for hemlines, Cardin's hover just above or mid-knee for daytime. Evening dresses have asymmetrical hems—down to the floor at back and almost mid-thigh in front. Others finish in handkerchief points.

SAINT LAURENT—Yves St. Laurent had lots of new looks but best were his copies of Chanel. They were all obviously Chanelisms, but made to look young and pert. The black, low-belted dress with white collar and cuffs and a big white gardenia at the neck, for example, Chanel created before St. Laurent was born. Yet Yves showed it in his recent collection. Among his own new looks is his famous chain belt, which turned up everywhere from waists to hats to shoes.

His suits are a complete departure from Chanel. They have high Chinese collars, long jackets and big patch pockets. His dinner dresses have embroidered yokes and short, ostrich feather skirts and fringe turns up again on evening jumpers done in suede with high turtle necks.

MINI-NOTHING AND LOTS OF SHAPE is the message that rings true and clear from the Paris designer collections for fall '67. Left to right, floor-length, long-sleeved shift by Yves St. Laurent glitters with embroidery. It is in Nile green silk crepe. White wool knee-length coat by Molyneux is cut in circular lines. It is lined in chocolate

brown crepe, the fabric used in the accompanying dress. From Marc Bohan of Dior comes this slender evening ensemble in striped orange and gold lame matelasse. Crahay for Lanvin presents this trouser evening costume with slender maharaja tunic, topped by a tailored coat. It is in orange lame, with silver booties and a jaunty beret.

New Crispness Seen in Fashion for Fall

How will you look this fall?

The fashion choice has never been broader. As long as your skirts are short and your stockings patterned, the silhouette is secondary. Almost anything goes, from kilts to caftans.

But you gals who sew are often the first to sense a change in the fashion weather, and the patterns and fabrics you are selecting this season add up to an entirely new feeling. It's a suggestion of discipline, of precision, of almost military tailoring—a fashion crispness which has been missing for several years.

Suddenly, the geometry of a perfect plaid makes summer's gypsy prints seem a little untidy, and the clean cut of a tailored coat makes summer's silhouettes seem a little permissive. Then you welcome the challenge of matching a plaid, of setting in a sleeve, of working with linings and interlinings, and your hours at the sewing machine seem more creative than ever.

One of the newest fabric looks for fall is (Crown Fabric's) meticulous windowpane plaid color-matched with twill, woven solid. The firm, crutchy hand of the cloth comes from a specially structured combination of American Bemberg and rayon. In any of its many color combinations it looks new, bright, and right for a round of early-fall sewing.

If you are out of practice in sewing with plaids, what with all the loose-jointed fabrics which have been around lately, here are a few reminders:

- 1—Check your pattern to make sure it is designed for a checked or plaid fabric.
- 2—Check your yardage for plaids—you'll need a bit more.
- 3—If your plaid is "even"—that is, the same in both directions—follow guide for "without nap" layout. If your plaid is "uneven"—repeating the design in only one direction—cut all pieces in one direction, as you would for a nap fabric.

4—Determine placement of plaid on your figure before pinning pattern pieces. Vertical lines should be evenly balanced on both sides of center front.

5—To be sure plaids match at seams, place adjoining pattern pieces with corresponding notches on the same stripe. Place sleeve notches on the same stripe as in the underarm notches on bodice front and back. Slip baste (rather than pin-baste) on all seams where accurate joining of plaids is necessary.

6—Be specially sure to press as you sew. The tailored look required with a plaid fabric depends a great deal on good pressing. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Columbia Fair Opens

The durable Columbia County Fair, running uninterrupted for the last 127 years, will be ready for some 45,000 to 50,000 visitors over the Labor Day weekend at Chatham.

Specials on opening day, Friday, will be afternoon entertainment, including the Eighth Air Force Band and afternoon pony racing. Early Friday evening only, between 7 and 8:30, depending on weather, there will be an old fashioned thriller, a balloon ascension. Especially for the younger set there will be a different rock 'n' roll band each of the four nights of the Fair.

A highlight of this year's Fair will be the substantially enlarged parking facilities. Since the 1966 Fair last September the Fair Society has spent $19,000 to keep faith with fair-goers. Now land has been acquired which has been developed to a point where parking for as many as 5,000 cars, on the Chatham Fair grounds.

As for entertainment attractions, attention will focus on TV headliner Carmel Quinn, the Irish songstress, and Frank Fontaine, former funny man of the Jackie Gleason Show. Miss Quinn has been booked for personal appearances on Sunday, and "Crazy Guggenheim" Fontaine on Labor Day. Admission to the grandstand is always free at the Columbia County Fair.

Also on Labor Day, the 31st Annual Schoolgirl Queen Coronation will take place in front of the grandstand at 9 p. m. In the afternoon, there will be six harness races.

Other Sunday features will be horse and pony drawing competition and the annual Fair Horse Show.

The 17th Annual Volunteer Firemen's Parade is set for Saturday afternoon. As a curtain raiser to Saturday night's stage show there will be a concert and drill by the winners among the drum corps of the parade.

New Attire

LONDON (AP)—BOAC hostesses on Caribbean flights will be wearing throwaway minidresses beginning in October. The short-sleeved shifts will be splashed with purple and cerise flowers and will be discarded after wearing.

A spokesman for the British Overseas Airways Corp. said economy was the chief reason for the paper uniform.

"Besides, if hems go any higher they can always take them up with a pair of scissors," he added.

HANDKNIT COATS are tops for the fall season. You can knit this short top in a choice of three yarns. All are quick to knit and machine washable for easy care.

Take It Easy

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gardner's restaurant in Los Angeles was held up eight times and burglarized three times. Soon after they moved to Hemet, Calif., a burglar used a crowbar and broke down the door.

Since then thieves have broken in five more times, tearing down the kitchen door each time. Thendragah srveenon time. The Gardners have now put a sign on their repaired door, which reads: "Robbers: No crowbars, please. Kitchen window is open."

Huguenot Society in Illinois

The first branch meeting of members and guests of the Huguenot Historical Society of New Paltz, N. Y., Inc., for the Illinois-Indiana area was held at Hinsdale, Illinois, on Sunday, Aug. 13.

The idea for a branch meeting in Illinois was conceived at a meeting of the Devo family Association. Many members of that family live in the Chicago area. Alan M. Devo, as the Duzine representative for the region was chosen to make arrangements and Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, president of the society, prepared a program and exhibit.

After Stone House Day in New Paltz, which was held on August 5th, Mr. Hasbrouck left for Illinois and final arrangements were made in Hinsdale with Mr. Devo for the meeting. All members of various families were invited to the meeting and dinner. On Sunday at 5 p. m. approximately 56 members and guests arrived at Hinsdale. They came from a radius of 100 miles, showing their great interest in Huguenot Street, New Paltz, N. Y. Robert G. Hasbrouck of Honolulu, Hawaii, was present. She was visiting her sister-in-law Mrs. John Van Amburg Hasbrouck. Numerous letters were received from persons who would have enjoyed attending, but due to vacations and other commitments, were unable to be with the group.

Members of the Devo family had the majority present, followed by the Hasbroucks, Freer, Du Bois, LeFevre and Eltings. Members of the Ruitan and Releya families also made an enthusiastic addition to the group. The display of materials including brochures, documents and books was made more interesting by the fact that some people brought in certain heirlooms cherished by their branch of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. David Devoe, Mrs. Kenneth E. Hasbrouck and Charles J. Hasbrouck, aided Alan Devo and Kenneth E. Hasbrouck by helping with registration and giving out information to the many people who wanted to know more about New Paltz and Huguenot Street.

The speaker, Kenneth Hasbrouck, was introduced by Alan M. Devo, Duzine member. Mr. Hasbrouck expressed his thanks from the Board of Trustees for the fine support given by the members in Illinois and told of the goals of the Society. Slides were shown of Huguenot Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Woolsey and Mr. and Mrs. Winston Elting were present and as they are so familiar with New Paltz, helped inform those present about the excellent work being done there to preserve the houses and the Street.

The organization of family units such as exists in the Huguenot Historical Society, New Paltz, is probably the only such group in the nation that has as its main purpose the goal of purchasing, preserving, and endowing a group of houses for future generations.

After the meeting, a number of people remained to ask questions and make requests for materials that could be sent from New Paltz when Mr. Hasbrouck returned. The response was so excellent in Illinois that it seems certain there will be a meeting next year at the same place and during the same month. Alan M. Devoe has agreed to serve again as representative and will be aided by several other members of the Society.

SOFT SILHOUETTE — Princess Irene Galitzine, who accented the soft silhouette in her Fall 1967 collection, touched off this gown with elegance. The yellow crepe fashion is highlighted by a high bodice and collar combination in bead and jewel embroidery. (UPI Telephoto)

Labor Day: Easy Menu

Start with an easy menu on Labor Day, says Cecily Brownstone, Associated Press food editor.

Have plenty of food on hand. Encourage family and guests to help cook and serve the food and to take a hand in cleaning up.

There you have the formula for a weekend party that's painless for the cook, whether the gathering is indoors or out.

For a simple and popular menu, offer corn on the cob, stuffed hamburgers and rolls, and whole tomatoes. For dessert, watermelons and cookies or candy to munch.

First, the corn. You might like to try cooking corn with the inner husks attached. To do so, remove the tough green outer husks, leaving the inner husks; remove silks. Fold inner husks back over the corn and bind with strips of husk or string.

Place corn in a pot, pour in enough boiling water to cover corn; add a little sugar. Boil about 5 minutes for young tender corn, 8-10 minutes for more mature ears. Serve hot with lots of butter and, if you go for it, coarse salt.

Now for the hamburgers. Try them stuffed. Divide each pound of hamburger meat into eight portions; flatten them well. Arrange the stuffing over four of the patties; cover with the remaining four. Press the edges together with your fingers so that the stuffing doesn't leak out.

Here are six suggestions for stuffing. Chances are you'll want to try some of these and then experiment on your own.

Cheese. Grated cheddar cheese, crumbled blue cheese or a thin slice of Swiss cheese makes a savory stuffing for hamburger.

Sliced water chestnuts. Team them with chopped chutney and crumbled crisp bacon.

Mustard pickles or pickle relish. Use about two teaspoons of chopped pickle or relish for each patty.

THE BRITISH SHIRT goes to any length to be fashionable. Twiggy made the little girl look popular and Irvington Place puts it all together in a Mod-type shirtdress, turned out snappily in lush corduroy with shiny bits of white leather as the collar and cuffs. Add a polo cap, geometric patterned stockings and modern Mary Janes and you have the total look for fall '67. (Cone Mills photo)

Temple Emanuel

Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn — Charles Ronder, president of Temple Emanuel, will conduct Sabbath evening services Friday beginning at 7:30 p. m. During Memorial services, the memories of Hyman Hymes, Matilda Mann, Samuel Greenberg and Isadore Werba-lowsky will be invoked. The public is invited.

During this week, Rabbi Eichhorn is serving on the faculty at NFTY Jewish teenage camp-institute in Great Barrington, Mass. A number of teenagers from the congregation are also attending the camp. The theme of the study program is Mitzvah-Religion Action.

A special Birthday Sabbath Family Service will be conducted Sept. 8 honoring those children in the Religious School who have birthdays in July, August, and September.

The Temple Sisterhood will conduct a rummage sale Sept. 18, 19, 20. Temple members are asked to bring in their rummage as soon as possible.

The Jewish High Holy Days begin on the evening of Oct. 4. Yom Kippur will begin on the evening of Oct. 13.

Parents of children entering the Religious School for the first time are asked to register their children as soon as possible.

Anyone wishing to become a member of Temple Emanuel is asked to contact Dr. Morton Cohen, 326 Washington Avenue, or the Temple secretary.

Dalrymple, Tone Buy a Theatre

Two Broadway veterans, producer Jean Dalrymple and actor Franchot Tone, have formed a partnership to buy Theatre Four, one of off-Broadway's neater playhouses.

The new management's first production will be "Beyond Desire," a drama about Felix Mendelssohn and his music. Tone will enact a close friend of the composer and serve as narrator.

Freaking Out

Jean Arthur returns to Broadway next season with a set of drums for a comedy stint in "The Freaking Out of Stephanie Blake."

Huguenot Society in Illinois

The first branch meeting of members and guests of the Huguenot Historical Society of New Paltz, N. Y., Inc., for the Illinois-Indiana area was held at Hinsdale, Illinois, on Sunday, Aug. 13.

The idea for a branch meeting in Illinois was conceived at a meeting of the Deyo family Association. Many members of that family live in the Chicago area. Alan M. Deyo, as the Duzine representative for the region was chosen to make arrangements and Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, president of the society, prepared a program and exhibit.

After Stone House Day in New Paltz, which was held on August 5th, Mr. Hasbrouck left for Illinois and final arrangements were made in Hinsdale with Mr. Deyo for the meeting. All members of various families were invited to the meeting and dinner.

On Sunday at 5 p. m. approximately 56 members and guests arrived at Hinsdale. They came from a radius of 100 miles, showing their great interest in Huguenot Street, New Paltz.

Mrs. Robert G. Hasbrouck of Honolulu, Hawaii, was present. She was visiting her sister-in-law Mrs. John Van Amburg Hasbrouck. Numerous letters were received from persons who would have enjoyed attending, but due to vacations and other commitments, were unable to be with the group.

Members of the Deyo family had the majority present, followed by the Hasbroucks, Freer, Du Bois, LeFevre and Eltings. Members of the Rutan and Rel-yea families also made an enthusiastic addition to the group. The display of materials including brochures, documents and books was made more interesting by the fact that some people brought in certain heirlooms cherished by their branch of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. David Deyoe, Mrs. Kenneth E. Hasbrouck and Charles J. Hasbrouck aided Alan Deyo and Kenneth E. Hasbrouck by helping with registration and giving out information to the many people who wanted to know more about New Paltz and Huguenot Street.

The speaker, Kenneth Hasbrouck, was introduced by Alan M. Deyo, Duzine member. Mr. Hasbrouck expressed his thanks from the Board of Trustees for the fine support given by the members in Illinois and told of the goals of the Society. Slides were shown of Huguenot Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Woolsey and Mr. and Mrs. Winsten Elting were present and as they are so familiar with New Paltz, helped inform those present about the excellent work being done there to preserve the houses and the Street.

The organization of family units such as exists in the Huguenot Historical Society, New Paltz, is probably the only such group in the nation that has as its main purpose the goal of purchasing, preserving, and endowing a group of houses for future generations.

After the meeting, a number of people remained to ask questions and make requests for materials that could be sent from New Paltz when Mr. Hasbrouck returned. The response was so excellent in Illinois that it seems certain there will be a meeting next year at the same place and during the same month. Alan M. Deyoe has agreed to serve again as representative and will be aided by several other members of the Society.

Temple Emanuel
Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn — Charles Ronder, president of Temple Emanuel, will conduct Sabbath evening services Friday beginning at 7:30 p. m. During Memorial services, the memories of Hyman Hynes, Matilda Mann, Samuel Greenberg and Isadore Werblowsky will be invoked. The public is invited.

During this week, Rabbi Eichhorn is serving on the faculty at NTTY Jewish teenage camp-institute in Great Barrington, Mass. A number of teenagers from the congregation are also attending the camp. The theme of the study program is Mitzvah-Religion Action.

A special Birthday Sabbath Family Service will be conducted Sept. 8 honoring those children in the Religious School who have birthdays in July, August, and September.

The Temple Sisterhood will conduct a rummage sale Sept. 18, 19, 20. Temple members are asked to bring in their rummage as soon as possible.

The Jewish High Holy Days begin on the evening of Oct. 4, Yom Kippur will begin on the evening of Oct. 13.

Parents of children entering the Religious School for the first time are asked to register their children as soon as possible.

Anyone wishing to become a member of Temple Emanuel is asked to contact Dr. Morton Cohen, 326 Washington Avenue, or the Temple secretary.

Dalrymple, Tone Buy a Theatre

Two Broadway veterans, producer Jean Dalrymple and actor Franchot Tone, have formed a partnership to buy Theatre Four, one of off-Broadway's neater playhouses.

The new management's first production will be "Beyond Desire," a drama about Felix Mendelssohn and his music. Tone will enact a close friend of the composer and serve as narrator.

Freaking Out

Jean Arthur returns to Broadway next season with a set of drums for a comedy stint in "The Freaking Out of Stephanie Blake."

Last seen here in a 1950 production of "Peter Pan," Miss Arthur will portray a Midwestern woman who gets involved with the "in" set on a visit to Greenwich Village.

The play's author is Richard Chandler.

Labor Day: Easy Menu

Start with an easy menu on Labor Day says Cecily Brownstone, Associated Press food editor.

Have plenty of food on hand. Encourage family and guests to help cook and serve the food and to take a hand in cleaning up.

There you have the formula for a weekend party that's painless for the cook, whether the gathering is indoors or out.

For a simple and popular menu, offer corn on the cob, stuffed hamburgers and rolls, and whole tomatoes. For dessert, watermelons and cookies or candy to munch.

First, the corn. You might like to try cooking corn with the inner husks attached. To do so, remove the tough green outer husks, leaving the inner husks; remove silks. Fold inner husks back over the corn and bind with strips of husk or string.

Place corn in a pot, pour in enough boiling water to cover corn; add a little sugar. Boil about 5 minutes for young tender corn, 8-10 minutes for more mature ears. Serve hot with lots of butter and, if you go for it, coarse salt.

Now for the hamburgers. Try them stuffed. Divide each pound of hamburger meat into eight portions; flatten them well. Arrange the stuffing over four of the patties; cover with the remaining four. Press the edges together with your fingers so that the stuffing doesn't leak out.

Here are six suggestions for stuffing. Chances are you'll want to try some of these and then experiment on your own.

Mushrooms. A 3-ounce can of whole mushrooms will do for one pound of ground hamburger; just use two whole mushrooms for each patty.

Dry onion soup mix. Sprinkle each patty with a teaspoon of the mix, just as it comes out of the envelope.

Cheese. Grated cheddar cheese, crumbled blue cheese or a thin slice of Swiss cheese makes a savory stuffing for hamburger.

Sliced water chestnuts. Team them with chopped chutney and crumbled crisp bacon.

Anchovies. For each hamburger use one anchovy fillet cut in half, 1-4 teaspoons of drained capers and two teaspoons of grated Parmesan cheese.

Mustard pickles or pickle relish. Use about two teaspoons of chopped pickle or relish for each patty.

THE BRITISH SHIRT goes to any length to be fashionable. Twiggy made the little girl look popular and Irvington Place puts it all together in a Mod-type shirtdress, turned out snappily in lush corduroy with shiny bits of white leather as the collar and cuffs. Add a polo cap, geometric patterned stockings and modern Mary Janes and you have the total look for fall '67. (Cone Mills photo)

Our Boys Write From Vietnam

Editor's Note: The Kingston Daily Freeman is privileged to publish letters written to the Ulster County Vietnam's Servicemen's Committee of Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 by Kingston area men serving with the armed forces in Vietnam. We hope in this way we can better let our readers know how our boys in service feel.

Written by Thomas M. Dixon, Company A 2/72 Armored:

"I am writing this letter because of the appreciation I have for the people of Ulster County and those who put in their spare time and tremendous efforts for the servicemen overseas.

"I am sure that the other servicemen overseas appreciate what the people of Ulster County are doing for them. Just as much as I do. I hope when I get out of the Army I can do the same for the people of Ulster County and for the soldiers that take my place in line of duty.

"I would like to have this letter published in The Kingston Daily Freeman to let the people of Ulster County know that I have been receiving their packages and to thank them for their tremendous efforts and time they have been putting in to send me these packages through Ulster Hose Co. 5.

"I want to take this time to thank everyone in Ulster County for what they have done."

WO Jeffrey Borges of the 227th Assault Helicopter Battalion in An Khe writes:

"I was surprised and very pleased when I received one of your packages today. Your thoughtfulness is greatly appreciated.

"I'm sure all the other boys from Ulster County who have received these gifts will feel the same way. Many of the items included in your packages are hard to obtain over here. I really appreciated the detergent soap. It will sure come in handy out in the field.

"Of course, everything else will be put to good use. Many of my fellow aviators wish their communities would take up a project such as yours. It's a good feeling to know certain people think enough of what we're doing to undertake a task such as you have. In closing I wish to say thank you and God bless all of you."

SSG Gary L. Flaherty serving with Headquarters Company, 79th Engineers Group in Vietnam writes:

"I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the gifts I have received. They are very welcomed and I thank you for myself and my fellow soldiers with whom I share them.

"It is really great to know that somebody back home really cares about what is going on over here. It is pretty hard to take when all we hear is condemnation for being here. I assure you that we are doing what is right and anyone who could see these poor children would understand.

"I am very proud that I can say I come from a community that cares. I will be returning home the first of October and would like to attend one of your (Ulster Hose Co. 5) meetings in order that I might thank some of you personally for what you are doing.

"Thanking you again for support."

Says Response Excellent for Saver's Show

Ulster County Savings Bank president Howard C. St. John announced today that the response to new student accounts has been excellent as a prelude to the "Young Saver's Show" to be held Friday, Sept. 1 at 2 p. m. at the Community Theater.

The show, which features Jerry Lewis in the Delicate Delinquent plus Cartoon Carnival, is being sponsored by the bank as an incentive for youngsters to start a savings program. An Ulster County Savings Bank Student Passbook is the only requirement for admission to the theater for this performance. Student's parents will be admitted free.

St. John said, "Although we are expecting a large audience for our Friday showing, we still have many seats available for students wishing to participate in our school savings program." Bobo the Clown will be featured prior to the showing of the movie.

Smith and Zeeh Play Roberts' in Finals

The old and the new singles champions — Dick Smith and Peter Zeeh — combine their talents against Dr. John Roberts and son, Dave, in the Ulster County tennis doubles championship today at Forsyth Park. Play was scheduled to start at 5:30 p. m.

Dr. Roberts and son were moved into the finals, when Ronald Drown and Jim Fredericks were unable to meet the schedule because of a business commitment. Smith shared the title with Dick Little in 1966.

In a semi-final mixed doubles match, Kitty Fowler and Jim Fredericks easily defeated Hank and Judy Sykes of Saugerties, 6-0, 6-1. The meet Mary Fowler and Dick Smith in the finals.

Top Gordon's, 4-2 Perry's Gain Finals In Softball League

Mike Amato pitched a nifty 5-hitter as Perry's Grill knocked off Gordon's Bar, 4-2, and moved into the finals of the City Softball League playoffs against Royal Grill.

The Perry's-Royals opener will be played Sept. 6 at a field to be announced later.

Gordon's collected three of their five hits for two runs in the second inning after Perry's had gone ahead 2-0. Jud Hornbeck bunted safely, stole second and scored on Gerald Barber's single. A three base error permitted Barber to score.

Williams Homers

Mel Williams greeted John Woods with a leadoff homer to start the game. Pete Tatarzewski singled, advanced to third on a two base error and scored on Tony Amato's infield out.

Perry's clinched the win with two runs in the fourth. Williams' squeeze bunt scored Rich Kelderhouse, who singled and Tony Musto raced home on a double steal for the second run.

Glenrie Bridge Results Listed

Glenrie Bridge Club held its monthly Master Point game at the Elks Club, Fair street, and played 24 boards in a Mitchell movement.

On the North-South side, Roy Wulff of Kingston and Steven Lange of Poughkeepsie played a very fine game to take top spot.

On the East-West side, Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Washington of Hyde Park took first place.

On the North-South side, second place went to Mrs. Linda Cavin of Kingston and Robert Shea of Poughkeepsie. Third spot was taken by Mr. and Mrs. James Brandon of Wappingers Falls; fourth place went to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yallum of Kingston.

On the East-West side, second place went to Mrs. Eleanor Triller of Poughkeepsie and Harry Thayer of Kingston; third spot was taken by Milton Dubin and Stanley Kaplan of Kingston; fourth place went to Mrs. Milo Burgland of Lake Katrine and Mrs. Richard Gogg of Hurley.

Glenrie Bridge will hold its regular fractional point game on Friday 7:30 p. m. sharp, at the Elks Club. There will be a new fall series game starting on Tuesday. All bridge players are welcome.

No Game for Braves at Dietz

Fred Davi is the big winner today.

The Torrington, Conn., team notified him Wednesday night that it could not keep its Interstate League date here tonight at Dietz Stadium.

Meanwhile, the weather man added another familiar story. It was better than even money the game couldn't be played anyway.

Now tied for 4th place, the Braves must await the result of Pine Plains' next game to determine order of play for the playoffs that start on Sept. 10.

Langhorne Race At Orange Track

The rained out 1967 National Open Championship qualifying race at Orange County Fair, Middletown, has been re-scheduled for Saturday night. Race program starts at 8 p.m.

Promoter Al Howard has increased the length of the race from 50 to 100 laps. In addition to being the qualifying race for Langhorne, the event will be worth double points in the standings.

Winner of Saturday's race will be a preferred starter in this year's running of the National Open Championship Race on Oct. 8 at famed Langhorne, Pa. International Motors Speedway.

Entered in the Orange County feature are such standouts as Will Cagle, 1966 champion at Langhorne; Buzzie Reutimann, Rags Carter, Sonny Strupp and Ed Farley.

Women's Sailing Title to Mrs. Foulk

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Adams Cup North American Women's Sailing Championship on Lake Ontario has been won by Mrs. William H. Foulk Jr., of Greenwich, Conn., who sealed up her victory by placing second in the first of two races Wednesday.

The race, the seventh of eight races in the three day series off Rochester Yacht Club, assured the win for the Indian Harbor Yacht Club entry. Mrs. Foulk, representing Yacht Racing Association of Long Island, won the last race for an impressive total series of 1, 1, 3, 1, 4, 2, 2 and 1 in finishes.

RYE, N. Y. (AP) — Power-house Jack Nicklaus stood off a spirited stretch rally by Dan Sikes Wednesday and won golf's richest purse—$50,000—with a 72-hole score of 272, 16 under par, in the Westchester Classic. Sikes finished a shot back at 273.

In doing so, the 27-year-old marvel from Columbus, Ohio, wrested the season's money lead from Arnold Palmer and moved ahead of Bill Casper — just behind money bags Palmer — as the No. 2 man in the sport's all-time winning list.

Sikes, who came from three shots off the pace to collar Nicklaus at the 12th hole only to fall a shot back again after hitting into a trap at 15, made a bold stab at the big paycheck on the finishing hole.

With tension high and many of the 18,000 gallery watching in breathless silence, the 36-year-old Florida lawyer sent a 15-foot putt straight at the hole, only to see it lip the cup and remain out.

Almost Quit Twice

He had to settle for second place but he had consolation in the $30,000 runner-up paycheck which he almost blew by twice pulling out of the tournament. Rain-outs permitted him to try again.

Nicklaus, who shot a final round 71 after going 67-65-69 in the first three rounds, took no chances on the final hole.

Some 13 feet away after driving into the rough and pitching short of the 518-yard, par five finishing hole, he lagged up to within six inches and sank for a comfortable win.

Some of the greatest names in golf pressed the reigning U.S. Open champion in this $250,000 event, but none except Sikes managed a serious challenge on this closing day of bright sunshine over the tight, 6,573-yard Westchester Country Club course.

Di Vincenzo Third

Roberto de Vincenzo, the 44-year-old Argentine who scored a popular victory last month in the British Open, fired a 70 for 274 and the third money of $18,750.

Gary Player of South Africa, winner of every major crown, finished fourth with a 71 for 275 and Palmer the all-time leading money winner, sank a six-foot putt on the final hole for 276 and fifth place. Player collected $12,500 and Palmer $10,750.

Then came Doug Sanders, with 71 for 277, followed by club pro Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., and Chi Chi Rodriguez, the happy Puerto Rican, tied at 278.

Nicklaus' $50,000 purse boosted his year's money total to $156,748—the fifth straight year he has gone over the $100,000 mark—boosted his all-time official earnings to $684,112 and second place in the list which Palmer heads with $903,390.

It was Jack's fourth tournament victory of the year—the second time he has scored as many in a season.

The tournament, rained out three days, appeared headed for a mundane climax when Nicklaus, with a three-shot lead after 54 holes, held on grimly through the first 10 holes of the final round.

Move at Eleventh

However, at the 11th Sikes knocked in an eight-footer for a birdie and at the 483-yard, par five 12th he placed his third within 18 inches for a second straight bird.

He was even with Nicklaus, and then it was a two-man duel down the stretch.

The turning point came at the par four dogleg 15th, a 454-yard hole with a large oak on the right side and two traps on both sides of the green.

Sikes dumped his second into the righthand trap and found himself with an uphill lie—one of the toughest shots in golf. He blasted out to within nine feet but rimmed the cup with his putt. He had bogeyed and had fallen a shot back of the steady Nicklaus.

It was on this same hole that the charge left Palmer, playing in the threesome with Nicklaus and Sikes. After three straight birdies, Arnie missed the green, chipped short and missed his putt to take a bogey.

Then it was shot-for-shot coming home, with Nicklaus giving no quarter.

Has Another Battle

Now consider the greatest golfer in the world, there is yet one battle Big Jack hasn't won. That's the battle with Arnie's Army.

After pocketing the $50,000 prize, Nicklaus insisted that he didn't let the army bug him too much, but left his listeners wondering.

"Aw, I'm getting used to it—it's really quite comical," Nicklaus said, "I'm out there to play golf. I try to concentrate and ignore them."

The army, with banners and lungs at top mast, was out in force yesterday.

Palmer's fabled army — a stampeding, yelling pack cut from the cloth of the boisterous New York Mets baseball fans—trampled behind their hero and cheered every swing. They groaned in agony when Nicklaus and Sikes picked up strokes.

"I don't appreciate this sort of stuff either," Palmer said afterward. "It's all right when they cheer for somebody. But when they start cheering against players, I think it's bad."

Rondout National Takes LL Tourney

Late Rally Nips Hurley Nine, 3-2

Rondout National Bank's Little Leaguers rallied with three runs in the fifth inning to edge Hurley Yankees, 3 to 2, Wednesday and win the 1967 Kingston Area Little League Round Robin championship.

The American League champs trailed, 1-0, when they got to Kevin Schramm for three runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Chris Schick, who limited the Yankees to three hits, yielded single runs in the third and sixth innings, as Rondout swept the best-of-three series in two straight. The winners had four hits off Schramm, who fanned four. Schick struck out nine and rapped two doubles.

The Big Rally

Hurley led 1-0 with an unearned third inning tally when Rondout came to bat in the fifth. Ed Halpern led off with a single and moved to second on Mike Kierman's infield out. When Vince Serravallo drew a walk, the Hurley catcher threw the ball into left field trying to head Halpern off at third on a steal. Successive doubles by Mark Josefski and Chris Schick drove in the other runs.

Hurley's run in the sixth was the result of a catcher's error. On Kevin Ebelheiser's single to center, Josefski's throw had the runner at the plate but John Joy dropped the ball.

Chuck Bouton, the Hurley shortstop, was acclaimed for his brilliant fielding. He made five great plays to choke three potential Rondout rallies.

Butterfly Mark For John Ferris

TOKYO (AP) — John Ferris, The 19-year-old Indiana University co-ed, who is the Olympic and Pan-American platform diving champion, beat out nine other competitors with 528.30 points.

Cynthia Goyette of Detroit won the gold medal in the women's 200-meter breaststroke, clocking 2:50.1.

Martha Randall of Philadelphia won the gold medal in the women's 100-meter butterfly in 1:06.9.

The silver medal went to another American, Carl Robie, of Drexel Hill, Pa., who clocked 2:09.1 after battling Ferris stroke-for-stroke through most of the race. Robie clocked a fast 59.6 at the 100-meter mark.

The bronze medal went to Sijji Yamanouchi of Japan, who finished in 2:11.5.

The United States added another gold medal in the swimming and diving competition as Lesley Bush of Princeton, N.J., captured women's high diving event.

Carl Registers 1st Hole-in-One

Nick Carl, the proprietor of The Retreat on Route 28, has joined the area hole-in-one Hall of Fame.

Carl bagged the first ace of his career Wednesday on the No. 4 hole at Woodstock Country Club. Playing with Carl when he fired his perfect 5-iron shot on the water hole were Don Beckert, Ed Strohsahl and Al Pettinato.

Mrs. Dill Takes Monthly Trophy

Mrs. Napier Dills carded a net 69, to capture the month of September trophy for Woodstock Country Club women. She posted 46-50-96 net and had 27 handicap strokes.

Runnerup with 70 was Mrs. Kermit Schwarz, 99-29-70. Tied with 71s were Mrs. Eleanor Van Gogh, 110-39; and Mrs. Thomas H. Dendy, 94-23. Mrs. Claude Neede posted 99-26-73 to tie Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons, 97-23-73.

Mrs. Clifford Morey led the 9-hole division 52-20-32. Mrs. John Sprague had 54-19-35 and Mrs. Edward Gormley, 56-19-37.

Mrs. Homer Barnard won low outts honors in the 18-hole play 31. Mrs. Clair Shaeffer's 16 led the nine hole event.

Rain Wipes Out Amateur Golf

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The nation's best play-for-fun golfers, stymied by rain, wind and flakes of snow Wednesday, tried again today to play the first round of the 67th U.S. Amateur championship over the mountain-shadowed Broadmoor west course.

U.S. Golf Association officials called off the first round Wednesday just as the threesome with defending champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ontario, stepped to the soggy first tee.

Thirteen threesomes, among the 150 players, had sloshed through their 18-hole round before the postponement. The best score was a 71 by Bill Harvey, Greensboro, N.C.

The best nine-hole card of 33 was shot by Fred Beyhmer Jr., Lansing, Mich., on the front side of the 6,946-yard par 35-35-70 layout.

Tournament officials said if weather conditions permit playing 18-hole rounds today and Friday, the tournament will wind up Saturday with 36-holes, rather than 18. The field is cut after the first two rounds to the low 50 and ties.

Two Ski Events Already Slated

United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association has announced a Fall Forum Sept. 22-24 at Lake Minnewaska.

Larry Gray, president of the Trail Sweepers Ski Club of Kingston, is chairman of the event.

Rip Van Winkle Ski Council plans to host approximately 400 ski clubs throughout the Eastern United States for the forum. Assisting Gray will be Council president Donald DeKoskie of Kingston.

The Council's annual clambake is scheduled Sept. 9 at the New Paltz Rod and Gun Club. Sharon Stahl of the Sweepers is chairman of entertainment and Dot Birmingham is caterer chairman.

Bob Sperl Overall Winner In Saugerties Trap Shoot

Bob Sperl continues to be the Herb Zacheo, 23-22-45; Ed big gun in the Saugerties area. Whitaker, 16-19-35; Tom Dani, 16-16-32.

Second Round

Bob Kearney, 25-24-49; Schiavone, 24-24-48; B. Sperl, 22-25-47; Longendyke, 25-21-46; A. Sperl, 22-21-43; Brocker, 22-21-43; Peetom, 22-22-44; Nichols, 19-23-42; Whitaker, 17-16-33.

Smith and Zeeh Play Roberts' in Finals

The old and the new singles champions — Dick Smith and Peter Zeeh — combine their talents against Dr. John Roberts and son, Dave, in the Ulster County tennis doubles championship today at Forsyth Park. Play was scheduled to start at 5:30 p. m.

Dr. Roberts and son were moved into the finals, when Ronald Downs and Jim Fredericks were unable to meet the schedule because of a business commitment. Smith shared the title with Dick Little in 1966.

In a semi-final mixed doubles match, Kitty Fowler and Jim Fredericks easily defeated Hank and Judy Sykes of Saugerties, 6-0, 6-1. The will meet Mary Fowler and Dick Smith in the finals.

Kitty Fowler and Ruth Golden of Ellenville will meet in the semi-finals of the women's singles for the right to cross nets with Kitty Ann Samuels for the women's championship.

Mary Fowler and Dick Smith will vie against the Kitty Fowler-Jim Fredericks tandem for the mixed doubles title.

Perry's Gain Finals In Softball League

Mike Amato pitched a nifty 5-hitter as Perry's Grill knocked off Gordon's Bar, 4-2, and moved into the finals of the City Softball League playoffs against Royal Grill.

The Perry's-Royals opener will be played Sept. 6 at a field to be announced later.

Gordon's collected three of their five hits for two runs in the second inning after Perry's had gone ahead 2-0. Jud Hornbeck bunted safely, stole second and scored on Gerald Barber's single. A three base error permitted Barber to score.

Williams Homers
Mel Williams greeted John Woods with a left homer to start the game. Pete Tatarzewski singled, advanced to third on a two base error and scored on Tony Amato's infield out.

Perry's clinched the win with two runs in the fourth. Williams' squeeze bunt scored Rich Kelderhouse, who singled and Tony Musto raced home on a double steal for the second run.

Rondout National Takes LL Tourney

Late Rally Nips Hurley Nine, 3-2

Rondout National Bank's Little Leaguers rallied with three runs in the fifth inning to edge Hurley Yankees, 3 to 2, Wednesday and win the 1967 Kingston Area Little League Round Robin championship.

The American League champs trailed, 1-0, when they got to Kevin Schramm for three runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Chris Schick, who limited the Yankees to three hits, yielded single runs in the third and sixth innings, as Rondout swept the best-of-three series in two straight. The winners had four hits off Schramm, who fanned four. Schick struck out nine and rapped two doubles.

The Big Rally

Hurley led 1-0 with an unearned third inning tally when Rondout came to bat in the fifth. Ed Halpern led off with a single and moved to second on Mike Kierman's infield out.

When Vince Serravallo drew a walk, the Hurley catcher threw the ball into left field trying to head Halpern off at third on a steal. Successive doubles by Mark Josefski and Chris Schick drove in the other runs.

Hurley's run in the sixth was the result of a catcher's error. On Kevin Ebelheiser's single to center, Josefski's throw had the runner at the plate but John Joy dropped the ball.

Chuck Bouton, the Hurley shortstop, was acclaimed for his brilliant fielding. He made five great plays to choke three potential Rondout rallies.

Butterfly Mark For John Ferris

TOKYO (AP) — John Ferris, The 19-year-old Indiana University coed, who is the Olympic and Pan-American platform diving champion, beat out nine other competitors with 528.30 points.

Cynthia Goyette of Detroit won the gold medal in the women's 200-meter breaststroke, clocking 2:50.1.

Martha Randall of Philadelphia won the gold medal in the women's 100-meter butterfly in 1:06.9.

The silver medal went to another American, Carl Robie, of Drexel Hill, Pa., who clocked 2:09.1 after battling Ferris stroke-for-stroke through most of the race. Robie clocked a fast 59.6 at the 100-meter mark.

The bronze medal went to Sini Yamanouchi of Japan, who finished in 2:11.5.

The United States added another gold medal in the swimming and diving competition as Lesley Bush of Princeton, N.J., captured women's high diving event.

All basketball coaches, school principals and superintendents have been invited. A buffet luncheon follows the matches.

HAMBLETONIAN WINNER Speedy Streak (5) streaks across the finish line to take the first heat of the 1967 Hambletonian at DuQuoin, Ill. Driven by Del Cameron, Speedy Streak finished the heat in 2:00 flat and also won the second to take the race. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Speedy Streak Is Winner in Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Del Cameron held his two fingers about an inch apart and declared, "I missed being knocked completely out of the race by this much."

Cameron won his third Hambletonian—the premier stake for 2-year-old trotters—Wednesday with Speedy Streak. The victory over 11 others came in successive 2:00 and 2:01 heats before 25,000 screaming fans in the betless race at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.

In the first mile heat, Speedy Streak beat Keystone Pride by four lengths, one of the biggest winning margins in the 10 years the Kentucky Derby of harness racing has been in Du Quoin.

"In the back stretch of that heat," Cameron disclosed, "Armstrong missed by an inch of locking wheels with me. There was a lot going on behind me at the time and if we had locked, it would have been disastrous. We would have been knocked out of the race. It gave me a scare."

Wins by Length

Speedy Streak, barreling along from the outside in the stretch, won the second heat and the trophy by one length over the filly, Speed Model.

Speedy Streak was bought for a record standard-bred yearling auction price of $113,000 by Kenneth D. Owen of Houston, C. F. Gaines of Sherburne, N.Y., and John R. Gaines of Lexington, Va. The victory was worth $60,000 and boosted Speedy Streak's total earnings to $94,779. He will try to surpass his price tag at Indianapolis next week.

Keystone Pride took second money of $30,049 with a second and third finish. Speed Model, 7-2 was third for $14,423 and Hal-fax Hanover, 3-4, fourth for $9,615.

The heavily-favored Dazzling Speed, reined by Dancer, was fifth with 4-11 for $6,009.

Paulita Scores Monticello Win
MONTICELLO — Trotting wire to wire, Paulita Hanover, a Star's Pride filly, won the featured trot for two-year-olds at Monticello Raceway last night, holding off a late challenge by Ded Hanover.

Driven by William Vaughan, Paulita was in front all the way except for a brief spell at the top of the stretch when Volcanic Hanover put his nose in front—then, went off stride.

Frank Cuff moving up at the wire with Ded Hanover took second and Volcanic came back on the trot to get third.

The winner, owned by Farmstead Acres of Glen Head, returned $760, $440 and $340 across the board. Time for the mile was 2:12.3.

George Gilmore won the opening race on the card with Charmette ($6.40) and William Vaughan the second with Hootie Hanover ($22.40) with the 4-6 double worth $93.20.

Gilmore, catch-driving for Jack Quinn, won his second for the night in the third race with favored Dutch Bomber, going wire to wire. Lord Melburn was second. The 1-4 perfecta was $13.80.

Robinson Punch Jolts Twins' Pennant Drive

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Robinson Rock—the swinging melody that guided Baltimore to the world championship last year—is in on the American League pennant chase again even though the Orioles are nowhere near the top this season.

Frank and Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's partners in punch, left Minnesota reeling with two straight losses that dropped the second-place Twins 1½ games off Brooks's league-leading pace.

Brooks lined a three-run double that keyed the Orioles' 4-3 victory over Minnesota Tuesday night and Frank hammered a two-run 10th-inning homer giving Baltimore a 4-2 decision against Dean Chance Wednesday.

Elsewhere in the pennant race, Boston got an 11th-inning home run from Carl Yastrzemski and nipped New York 2-1. It was the Red Sox' 14th victory in the last 18 games. Tommie Agee lined three key hits as Chicago topped Washington 5-1, and California pushed across two ninth-inning runs that jolted third-place Detroit, 3-2.

In other American League action, Kansas City shaded Cleveland 6-5 in 12 innings.

Help From Allison

Chance, 17-10, was making his first start since pitching a no-hitter against Cleveland last week and he was trailing 2-1 until the eighth inning when Bob Allison smashed a pinch home run.

That sent the game into extra innings but not for long. Boog Powell singled with one out in the 10th and then, after Paul Blair was retired, Frank Robinson connected.

It was Robinson's 26th homer of the year and made a winner out of Eddie Watt, who struck out four in two innings of relief. Yastrzemski, who had been hitless in 18 at bats in the Yankees series, redeemed himself with his 25th home run and beat Al Downing.

Downing struck out 12 batters but Yastrzemski, who entered the game in the eighth inning, snapped the tie in the 10th. The homer gave him the major league lead by one over Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew.

Chicago, which opens a crucial four-game series in Boston tonight, salvaged the final game of a three-game set in Washington, thanks mainly to Agee and Don Buford.

Agee singled and came around on Buford's hit and two infield outs in the first inning, singled again and scored on Buford's triple in the third and then doubled a run home in the seventh.

Wilson Crushed

Fred Klages and Bob Locker combined on the eight-hitter with Klages, who worked the first six innings, getting credit for the victory.

Detroit's Earl Wilson, gunning for his 19th victory, was leading 2-1 and cruising along on a three-hitter against the Angels when he walked Jimmie Hall on four pitches with one out in the ninth.

Bubba Morton, a former Tiger, followed with a double, scoring Hall with the tying run. When Al Kaline fumbled the ball, Morton raced to third. Then Bill Skowron bounced to shortstop Ray Oyler and Morton beat the throw to the plate to score the winning run.

The defeat kept the Tigers in third place, one percentage point back of Minnesota and 1½ games behind Boston.

Danny Cater's fifth hit of the night drove in Kansas City's winning run in the 12th inning against Cleveland. Tony Horton knocked in three runs for the Indians.

Cepeda and Clemente: Battle of the Bats

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're touting Orlando Cepeda for the National League's Most Valuable Player award, but Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente isn't making it easy for the St. Louis Cards' star to win his first National League batting championship.

Clemente is a three-time winner of the batting crown. Cepeda never has won it, but he's driving toward the top just as the Cards are moving swiftly toward the pennant.

Cepeda collected three hits as St. Louis downed the New York Mets 2-0 Wednesday night. Clemente had two safeties, including a two-run double, that helped Pittsburgh down Atlanta 11-9. In other games, Cincinnati downed Philadelphia 2-1, Los Angeles trounced San Francisco 9-3 and Chicago defeated Houston 4-1.

Clemente's hits enabled him to increase his league-leading batting average one point to .348. Cepeda's three safeties, though, hiked his mark three points to a runner-up .343.

Tim McCarver also starred for St. Louis. He drove in both runs with his 12th homer and a sacrifice fly. Larry Jaster and Ron Willis combined to limit the Mets to four hits.

Willis relieved Jaster after Bob Johnson walked with one out in the ninth inning and retired the next two batters. Rookie Danny Frisella was the losing pitcher. The triumph enabled the Cards to maintain their 10-game lead over second-place Cincinnati.

Stargell Raps 18th
Matty Alou, the defending batting titleholder, and Willie Stargell also helped the Pirates down the Braves. Alou collected four hits in five tries lifting his average to .328. Stargell walloped a two-run double and his 18th homer.

Home runs by Felipe Alou and Joe Torre had helped the Braves build a 6-4 lead, but Pittsburgh came back in the fourth and regained the lead on Clemente's two-bagger.

Pete Rose drove in the winning run for Cincinnati with a blop double in the sixth inning that scored Tommy Harper. The blow broke a 1-1 tie. John Briggs homered for Philadelphia's only tally.

Lou Johnson and Ron Fairly each drove in three runs for the Dodgers against San Francisco. Johnson socked a three-run double while Fairly had a two-run homer and a run-producing single.

Don Drysdale, 10-13, picked up the victory for Los Angeles. However, he had to leave the game in the seventh because of an arm injury. Ray Sadecki, 6-6, took the loss.

The Cubs exploded for all their runs on four singles and an error in the sixth inning against Houston.

The Astros led 1-0, but Don Kessinger, Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams hit consecutive singles in the sixth for one run. An infield out, an error and four hits in five tries lifting his average to .328. Stargell wal-

German Boxers Due at Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A West German national championship boxing team will be fighting for the third consecutive victory of its current American tour in an international amateur match here Thursday night.

The American team, headed by lightweight John Harp of Syracuse and flyweight Denny Gerolaga of Stockton, Calif., was selected by the Amateur Athletic Union.

The match is the last of three on the Germans' current tour. The German team won its two previous matches by identical 7-3 scores.

Gilmore, catch-driving for Jack Quinn, won his second for the night in the third race with favored Dutch Bomber, going wire to wire. Lord Melburn was second. The 1-4 perfecta was $13.80.

Death Halts Idyll

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A young wife was on her way to Hawaii to meet her Marine husband ending a hitch in Vietnam. She got as far as the airport.

A voice over the airport public address system called Mary Link, 21, to the information desk. A Marine captain approached her.

"As soon as I saw his face I knew that Ray was dead," Mrs. Links said.

Death Halts Idyll

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A young woman on her way to Hawaii to meet her Marine husband ending a hitch in Vietnam. She got as far as the airport.

A voice over the airport public address system called Mary Link, 21, to the information desk. A Marine captain approached her.

"As soon as I saw his face I knew that Ray was dead," Mrs. Links said.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS

The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act which applies to employment in interstate commerce. If they offer less than the legal minimum wage ($1.40 an hour for those covered prior to February 1, 1967 and $1.60 an hour for those newly covered), or fail to pay the applicable overtime, Commission of Labor Dept. will take the United States Labor Department's local office for the enforcement of the act.

Important Notice: The New York State Labor Law prohibits discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

96 lbs, A Ton of Trouble

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1967 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Thru a club my husband and I belong to I recently met a handsome, young, unattached man I'll call Randy.

First, let me tell you that I'm 5 feet, 1 inch, weigh 96 and 96 pounds of woman!

pounds, am bow-legged and have no figure to speak of. I am not witty or cute, or anything special. Take my word for it, I'm not being modest.

Anyway this Randy person always greets me with outstretched arms, a big grin, and a compliment. He has told me I'm sweet, adorable, desirable.

know he's feeding me a line, but after being married 9 years to a man who has never given me a compliment, it's delicious. When Randy could have any woman at the club—single or married—what in the world does he want with me?

YOUNG AGAIN

DEAR YOUNG: He may want 96 pounds of (married) woman but I doubt that he wants the ton of trouble that would come with the deal in this case.

DEAR ABBY: Will you settle an argument for us? Do you think women dress to please men or to please other women?

TWO WOMEN

DEAR WOMEN: Which women? Some women dress to please men in general. Other women dress to please their boyfriends or husbands, specifically. Still others dress in the latest fashions because they want to be "in." (They please only the merchants.)

The wisest woman of all knows what looks best on HER and she wears it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, living on a limited income. A neighbor of mine (and her children) are always asking me to buy tickets, chances, greeting cards, etc.

I simply can't afford to buy things I neither need nor want just to please her, but I am running out of excuses. The last time I refused, she told me I was "unneighborly."

Abby, I feel it is unneighborly of her to keep pestering me and putting me on the spot. I don't enjoy refusing to buy. It's necessary. What is your opinion?

CAPTIVE CUSTOMER

DEAR CAPTIVE: When you are asked to buy something you don't need and can't afford, simply say you can't afford it, and that should be the end of it. If you offer "excuses" instead of reasons, you'll continue to be pestered.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SAD SACK IN SAGINAW": No one said it better than Mark Twain. "Grief can take care of itself, but to get the full value of joy, you must have someone to share it with."

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 1, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Money expended for domestic purposes, home is well spent. Be especially considerate of children's needs. If single, this evening represents significant time. You make fine contact.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Utilize great determination to rush toward basic goal. Face challenges. Accept responsibilities. Don't beat around the bush. Say what you mean. Mean what you say.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Bring forth artistic tendencies. Rely upon your own judgment. Your taste is good. Know this. Be confident. Meaningful commitment received from one close to you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New contacts prove financial advantage to you. Time to start expressing greater independence of thought, action. Be ready for surprise request.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22): Cycle moves upward. Means you can be at right place at right time. Circumstances turn in your favor. Today cement relations with friends, club members. Share interests. Exchange ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Not wise to make unreasonable demands. Some are anxious for you to make mistake. Realize factors before the scenes require examination. Be friendly. Accent diplomacy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Attend to duties early. Later, socialize. Win new friends. Your talents appreciated. Many are attracted. Make most of favorable conditions. Strike up conversation with fine person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on results based on previous efforts. You receive payment for investment. You can make beneficial changes. Today variety, spice added to your life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Obtain hint from SCORPIO message. Follow through on project. Favorable results indicated. No day to let down. Apply pressure. You're close to goal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be aware of requirements of mate, partner. The more considerate you are, the better the results. Stress public relations. Don't arouse antagonism. Key is patience, sense of humor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Obtain hint from CAPRICORN message. Be practical in dealing with those close to you. Avoid promises you cannot fulfill. Frank approach is best one today.

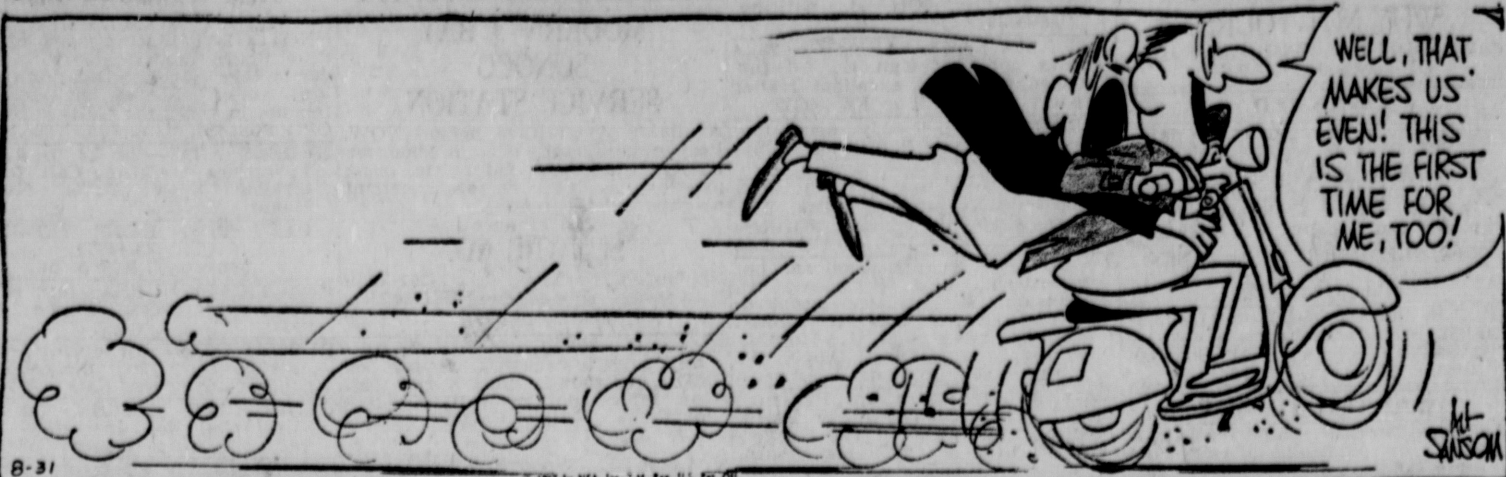

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): You may feel you are devoting too much time for routine tasks. This will be changed soon. Opportunity seeks you. Greet it with open arms. Finish current task. Be ready for adventure.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you tend to be domineering. But this actually reflects your boundless enthusiasm. Learn lessons of pacing. Then relations with others improve—and you attain goal.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for CANCER, LEO, VIRGO. Special word to ARIES: avoid self-deception. Face situation as it actually exists.

Bridge

Bidding Gives Danger Signal

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the hardest things for a bridge player to learn is that when both opponents bid and his partner is quiet, he had best keep quiet also unless he has a lot of distributional factors.

South had a nice comfortable opening bid. His 15 high-card points included three aces and he had two nice four-card suits. He opened one diamond and waited happily for the bidding to develop.

It developed in a way that should have warned him to stay out of the bidding from then on. West overcalled with one heart and all North could do was pass. East managed to try one no-trump. South should have seen that the hand did not belong to him and given up any idea of competing but he wasn't going to do anything like that. He had a sound opening bid with one or two jacks above the minimum and he had a second four-card suit to show. He bid two clubs.

Lightning didn't strike immediately — North had too much club support — but when it did hit it burned the barn down.

West made a slightly optimistic bid of three hearts and North went to four clubs. For all North knew his side might have a cinch for five or six clubs and East and West might have just as easy a game in hearts. If you don't think so, just trade South's jack of hearts for East's ten of diamonds. In that case only a spade lead or spade shift would beat five clubs and nothing will beat four hearts.

South's actual hand is such that a diamond opening will hold West to nine tricks at hearts. As for the four club contract, West decided to double and the defense picked up five tricks to score 500 points.

TV Pioneer Coming Back

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
Hartman and his late wife, Grace, were for years a popular vaudeville and nightclub attraction as a comedy ballroom dancing team. In the late Depression days, the hilarious Hartmans starred in one brief televised whirl around the dance floor at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, which was seen by technicians at the National Broadcasting Co. studios two blocks away and by the owners of perhaps 200 experimental sets around town.
Short-Lived Series
Hartman also was the star of a short-lived local television series, "The Hartmans at Home," which was shot live in the days when "the lights were so hot you could only work under them three or four minutes without getting blisters." His timing—in achieving fame and fortune—was off there, too, as it turned out to be in the halcyon days of Uncle Miltie. Paul played the father in a thoroughly forgettable situation comedy, "Pride of the Family." Nobody won on that one—not even Natalie Wood who played his daughter and who subsequently made a movie splash.
Hartman, now in the late 50s, returns this year to television. Cast as a comedy Mr. Fixit on CBS' "The Andy Griffith Show," the actor-comedian-dancer now has his biggest chance. It was "The Andy Griffith Show" that spun Don Knotts off on a stellar movie career, and also tossed Jim Nabors into his own CBS niche with "Gomer Pyle."
Hartman has made a specialty of character parts since the "Now there are practically no dance teams left. You play a room for one or two weeks and since you are the only act, you stay on too long. Vaudeville, of course, is dead, so it's tough for the newcomers."

Hartman and his late wife, Grace, were for years a popular dance team broke up more than a decade ago—they were divorced a few years before Grace Hartman's death. But since he was born into a theatrical family, he accepts change with stoic philosophy. Paul Hartman's father was the producer-director-star of his own West Coast troupe and his mother was its leading lady. Paul remembers that as a young man, his father took the troupe to the Orient for a couple of years after motion pictures started to become popular "to wait it out until the craze died away."
The company's comedian was a roly-poly young actor named Roscoe Arbuckle. Paul and his younger brother, Ted, amused themselves playing hide-and-seek with him, and were very disappointed when he finally left them to seek his fortune in Southern California's infant film industry. There, of course, he became famous—and notorious—as Fatty Arbuckle.
No Regrets
"Show business is so different," Hartman said, obviously without any regrets. "Once Grace and I could spend the whole year in one place—New York—just playing the Plaza, the Waldorf and the St. Regis for weeks at a time. The most traveling we did was by taxi. We'd play one supper club for as long as 16 weeks, and there would be one or two other acts."

Hartman is an easy-going fellow who has been stranded in so many strange places, including the Far East for two years, that he refused to worry about the future.
He is established in a Pacific Palisades apartment, has four dozen dress shirts and a half-a-

Con-Ed, Cornwall Fund Gets Levitt's Approval

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt says he has found "no violation of municipal law" in the Consolidated Edison Corporation's payment of $2.8 million to the village of Cornwall in Orange County.

Earlier Wednesday, an aide of Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., said in Washington, D.C., that a House Commerce subcommittee is prepared to hold a hearing on the funds spent by Con Ed in connection with a power project planned near Storm King Mountain at Cornwall.

Cairo Woman Wins Trip to Expo 67

The "world" on a platter is the prize for a lucky Cairo, Greene County twosome, winner of a fabulous three-day all-expenses paid weekend at the Expo '67 international exhibit in Montreal, through a promotion conducted by Oneida Markets in conjunction with King Korn Stamps.

The winner of the trip for two was: Mrs. Flora Simpkins, Jerome Avenue, Cairo. The trip includes deluxe accommodations, $100 in spending money, and a passport giving free access to Expo grounds.

Safe Agreement

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Agreement has been reached with Universal Engineering Co. of Frankenmuth, Mich. for Hou-daille Industries Inc. to purchase the tool-making firm for approximately $8.5 million, Hou-daille officials said Wednesday.

The project, approved several months ago by the Federal Power Commission, was revoked after a court appeal. Numerous hearings have been held on the matter.

Ottinger has questioned the propriety of the payments to the village. He said part of his objection was that the village was paid for legal expenses incurred in preparing a brief supporting the utility's project in a hearing before the Federal Power Commission.

In his report Wednesday, Levitt quoted from a 1963 agreement in which Con Ed consented to pay "all reasonable and necessary expense" incurred by the village because of Con Ed's offer to buy village lands and part of its water supply.

Levitt said that the village had spent $2.8 million on a new water supply system and that its bill to Con Ed included approximately $125,000 for legal expenses as of June 30, 1966.

The comptroller said the bill included a statement covering "legal services and disbursements on all phases pertaining to village water system and Consolidated Edison project." The services included representing the village at various hearings in connection with the project, Levitt's report said.

No Date Set
The $2.8 million was paid during the past four years for engineering, water-supply and legal expenses as a result of the utility's proposal to build the $184 million power plant.

Michael Kitzmiller, Ottinger's aide, said the representative wants to see Con Ed's expenditures investigated by the House Commerce subcommittee on communications and power, on which Ottinger serves.

Kitzmiller said the subcommittee chairman, Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., indicated his approval of the hearing, but did not set a date.
